—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ENGLAND, GERMANY, Japan, China, and every country are talking about Secretary Stimson's threat to fortify our possessions in the Pacific, the Philippines and Guam, under the very nose of Japan, since Japan's attack on China violates and puts an end to the agreement that followed the silly Washington conference.

If the United States did fortify Guam and the Philippines, and establish in both places air bases of first-class magnitude, fully equipped to punish any foolish attack on us, that would practically do away with any danger from Asia.

If, now, words should be followed by deeds, as Theodore Roosevelt would say, and if we should fortify Guam and the Philippines in addition to talking about it, many Americans would be well pleased.

THE CHINESE dragon or worm turned yesterday and surprised Japan. Chinese big guns in Chapei began hammering the Japanese in Hongkew and the Chinese were reported to have recaptured the ground lost at Kiangwan.

The Japanese are rushing 50,000 more men to Shanghai, and hope to finish their task there before the Chinese get reinforcements. Poor railroads and lack of good highways make it difficult to move men in China.

IT TURNS OUT that the "lone Chinese pilot" who attacked six Japanese airplanes, all by himself, was a young American, Robert M. Short, of Lakeview, Washington.

This young American member of the United States Reserve Corps, sympathizing with the Chinese or craving excitement, enlisted as a fighter for China about a week ago and in an American plane owned by the Chinese, went up after three Japanese bombing planes, piloted by three Japanese pursuit planes.

He had brought down a Japanese plane and pilot, two days before, and was himself killed by gunfire from the three pursuit planes. China, it is said, will give the young American a highly honorable funeral and has appointed him posthumously a colonel.

WASHINGTON DESCRIBES Senators Borah and Hiram Johnson and Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, discussing politics, and "what is the best thing to do with President Hoover." Reporters are asking which of the three will try to take the Republican nomination from the President.

GOV. PINCHOT might try it. There is much of the knight errant in him. Senators Borah and Hiram Johnson are practical, and will not imitate "The Jumblies," of whom it is said,

"They went to sea in a sieve, they did;
In a sieve they went to sea;

To try to take the nomination from the President would be twice as foolish as going to sea in a sieve.

THREE DETECTIVES from Cleveland and two from the New York force captured a difficult customer in New York Wednesday. As he walked the street, the five that had waited pounced upon him.

One bored the muzzle of a revolver into his neck, the other four with fists and revolver butts, conquered him, and "Smiling Joe" Filkowski, called "Cleveland's most dangerous gunman," was a prisoner.

FILKOWSKI HAS a record, which includes disarming and capturing two Chicago policemen and then using their automobile to kidnap them. He wounded two other policemen in Ohio.

In his cell, much humiliated, he muttered between lips puffed up from the blows of detectives:

"They surprised me, or I wouldn't be here. I can pull a gun faster than you can wink."

OF TWO INCIDENTS in the Japanese attack on Kiangwan, one made Chinese smile, the other did not. The first Japanese planes, flying over early in the morning, dropped big, heavy containers, and no explosions followed.

Observing it, onlookers smiled. Immediately afterwards, more Japanese planes dropped small bombs, and instantly savage fires started wherever they struck.

THE FIRST "BOMBS" dropped were big drums containing gasoline and no explosives. The small bombs, dropped later, set fire to the gasoline.

That interests the western world, because it is fighting of that kind, by fire, that would most easily win a war against Asiatic populations, whose houses are built chiefly of bamboo, paper and light wood.

FLINDERS PETRIE, back from his fifty-second expedition to Palestine, tells how, four thousand years ago, that land, not yet "holy," since Christianity hadn't started, was terrified by the arrival of war horses from the East.

Savage horsemen, the Hyksos, rode down the peaceful Palestine dwellers, trotting around on their little donkeys, conquered and held the Nile delta.

What happened, much later, when Spaniards with their horses arrived on the American Continent, happened six thousand years ago in Palestine and Egypt.

Luckily the United States did

JURY FREES O'MALLEY, 3 OTHERS

Defendants in Second Ward Election Plot Trial Not Guilty, but Must Pay Costs

Pat O'Malley, Republican chairman of the Second Ward and veteran of a score or more bitter political fights in the Strip, today was acquitted of vote conspiracy in Criminal Court.

PARK INDIGNANT

It was a "Scotch verdict." The jury ordered the defendants to pay the costs, amounting to $1,000, and visiting Judge C. M. Culver instructed them to meet this bill within 10 days.

"It is discouraging to attempt to enforce the election laws when 12 citizens go into a jury box and render a verdict like that, particularly after the charge Judge Culver delivered. It is apparent from the fact that the jury placed the costs on the defendants that they did not have the courage to return the verdict warranted by the evidence."

In his charge Judge Culver had advised the jury to convict O'Malley, who also was indicted separately, if they found that he had taken out tax receipts without the authorization of the voters named on the receipts.

SLEUTHS ROUT CROWD

There was no demonstration as the verdict was read, possibly because only 25 spectators had been admitted to the courtroom and

Moscow Charges Misuse of Railway for Movement Of Troops in Manchuria

International News Service.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—The Soviet government has formally accused Japan of failing to fulfill assurances given the Moscow government regarding Japanese policy in Manchuria.

This fact was disclosed at the foreign commissariat today when it was announced that H. M. Karakhan, vice commissar for foreign affairs, had summoned Japanese Ambassador Hirota to his office last night. Karakhan called Japan's attention:

First—To Japanese misuse of the Chinese Eastern Railway, in which Russia has a half interest, for troop movements in North Manchuria.

Second—To the activity of White Russians or anti-Bolsheviks in the Manchurian territory under Japanese control whom the Japanese are accused of patronizing and supporting.

RUSSIA MOVES TROOPS

MUKDEN, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Neutral observers here today saw the threat of an open break between Japan and Russia soon as the result of the Soviet government's refusal to give its approval to the moving of Japanese troops over the Chinese Eastern Railway in Northern Manchuria, half-owned each by China and Russia.

Added to this, Japanese military officers heard with great concern that 50,000 Soviet troops were en route to the Siberian border from Nikolevsk.

WARNING BY BLUECHER

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The most powerful military figure in Soviet Russia served sharp warning on Imperialists today that Russia will not permit them to "trample on Soviet soil."

He was Gen. Bluecher, commander-in-chief of the Soviet Far Eastern army and hero of the recent Sino-Russian conflict over the Chinese Eastern Railway. He asserted.

"The Soviet laboring masses may calmly continue their work. The Far Eastern army will stand firm guard on our borders, vigilantly watching our enemies.

"We will not permit White Guards and Imperialists to trample on Soviet soil."

AIR BOMBERS LAUNCH BIG ATTACK

International News Service.

Japanese bombing planes launched the heaviest attacks of the Shanghai war today, carrying out two raids on the Chinese airdrome near Hangchow, where they claim to have destroyed 15 Chinese planes

Other Japanese bombers attacked the Markham Road railway junction, near the International Settlement, killing a number of Chinese civilians.

The end of the day's fighting on the Kiangwan front found little change in the situation, though the Japanese claimed they had made some progress.

With Japanese infantry reinforcements expected to reach Shanghai within the next 24 hours, the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy presented a new protest at Tokio, against their landing in the International Settlement.

The reinforced Japanese army, which will total between 70,000 and 80,000 men, will be commanded By Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, who will supplant Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda.

The Soviet Foreign Office has lodged a protest with the Japanese Ambassador regarding Japanese activities in Manchuria, charging that Japan has violated pledges given to Moscow.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 27.—(Saturday, 12:30 a. m.)—Chinese military headquarters announced early today that the Chinese 19th Army had recaptured the town of Miaoshin from the Japanese after a slashing counter-attack which resulted in heavy casualties on both sides.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the 19th Army, hoped to relieve his beleaguered detachment in the village of Kiangwan shortly by driving back the Japanese right flank, which pre-

BANK BILL SENT TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The Glass-Steagall bill, strengthening the gold standard and releasing huge sums of frozen credits to national banks, was finally enacted into law this afternoon when the Senate and House approved the final compromise conference report.

The bill now goes to the White House for President Hoover's signature.

It will permit large issues of currency, release huge sums of free gold for use in business and throw the resources of the Federal Reserve System behind thousands of national banks. In turn, the national banks will be fortified to extend fresh credits to state banks.

The bill, sponsored by two Democrats—Senator Glass, of Virginia, and Representative Steagall, of Alabama—had the support of the administration.

'Yellow Dog' Plan Hit by Senate

Mellon at Augusta, To Play Golf, Rest

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Golf and rest in the sunshine were the only definite items on the vacation program of Andrew W. Mellon, American Ambassador to Great Britain, on his arrival here today. Accompanied by his daughter, Mrs David Bruce, and Mr. Bruce, the former secretary of the Treasury stepped from a train, posed briefly for photographers, and immediately plunged into a vacation that will end with Mellon's departure for England.

Policeman Acquitted Of Election Charges

Ralph Gollings, a McKees Rocks policeman, today was found not guilty of giving voters unlawful assistance during the September primary election, by a jury in Criminal Court, and the costs placed upon Leo Rierdon, special investigator for the McGovern faction.

Rierdon also was assessed two-thirds of the costs of the trial of Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks, on charges of election law violations. Westwood was freed yesterday in a directed verdict.

Lawyers of County Polled on Dry Law

A poll of the prohibition question was begun by the Allegheny County Bar Association today, as ballots were mailed to every lawyer in the county.

The attorneys will be asked to indicate whether thye prefer to repeal or maintain the present laws, modify them, submit the entire question to a states' referendum or legalize light wines and beer. Voting will close March 4.

Oxygen Used to Save Life Of Insured Gorilla

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Use of an oxygen chamber was resorted to today to save the life of N'Gi, a gorilla, believed to be dying of pneumonia at the National Zoological Park.

N'Gi, presented by Walter P. Chrysler, carries a life insurance policy of $10,000, on which premiums are paid by Dr. William Mann, director of the zoo. No gorilla has ever lived more than seven years in captivity, the officials say, and as N'Gi has resided in Washington for six years, particular effort is being made to have the jungle lady's life.

Dr. Alvan Barach, member of the faculty of the New York Medical Center and an eminent scientist, placed on a train there the oxygen chamber which has been used at the Rockefeller Institute and the Mayo Brothers Clinic in experiments against pneumonia.

Dr. Barach, who invented the chamber, was induced by the Washington Herald to make this scientific attempt to save the life of the gorilla not only because the whole nation wants the wistful little ape to survive but because the treatment may bring out new data in humanity's fight against pneumonia.

40 GIVEN THRILL AT LAUNCHING

Two score men, women and children were jostled, one woman was injured and another fainted when the giant U. S. Engineers' dredgeboat Potter was unexpectedly launched to avoid an accident at the ways of the Dravo Contracting Company, Neville Island, today.

Fifteen minutes before the boat, flags fluttering and notable guests present for the christening, was to be loosed, one of the blocks holding it showed signs of giving away.

Sensing danger, a throng on shore shouted to those on board:

"Get off. Everybody run."

SECOND CABLE SEVERED

The 214-foot-long dredge slid down the greased rails into the Ohio river, amid the cries of those on board and the hundreds ashore.

Many of those aboard were thrown to the floor, or jostled against the sides of the craft.

The motorship Sewickley immediately drew up alongside and took on many of the badly frightened crowd on the Potter. Others waited until the launched ship pulled up to shore and walked down the gangplank.

Mrs. J. D. Hiles, 45, of 929 Russellwood avenue, McKees Rocks, who was on board with her husband and two children, was thrown to the floor and her head was injured slightly. She was carried on a stretcher to the emergency hospital of the Dravo company, where she was given first aid. Mrs. Nellie Williams, of 1114 McClure avenue, fainted.

Both women were treated at the Ohio Valley Hospital.

"The ship was ready for launching. On examining the launching triggers, one was found to be jammed, indicating possible failure. As a matter of expediency, all lines were ordered cut as a safety measure in order that the ship might take the water without mishap. There was no damage."

Flier Missing After Discovery of Plane

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Nelson B. Peebles, 25, son of Prof. Peter Paul Peebles, of the College of William and Mary, was reported missing today after taking a solo flight early this morning in a plane later found half submerged in the Chesapeake Bay.

Al Capone Guarded In Cell

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The government today established a 24-hour guard of deputy United States marshals at the cell door of Scarface Al Capone, awaiting in Cook County Jail the outcome of his appeal from an income tax conviction.

The action, constituting a precedent for federal prisoners in this area, was taken ostensibly to keep outsiders from reaching Capone. United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer refused to discuss the action or to confirm whisperings of a jail break.

Repeated reports have been circulated that Capone has been overseeing the business of his syndicate from his cell, and that his lieutenants had easy access to him.

Dunn, Blind, Enters Race for Congress

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26.—Representative Matthew A. Dunn, of Mt. Oliver, blind member of the Legislature since 1927 from the Twelfth Allegheny District, today filed Republican and Democratic petitions with the State Elections Bureau for Congress from the Thirty-fourth District. Congressman Guy E. Campbell is the representative at present.

Hoover Hailed Best Customer of Dairies

Merrill O. Maughan, executive secretary of the Milk Council, Inc., said yesterday that 24 quarts of milk and 12 pints of whipping cream are delivered each day at the White House, making President Hoover one of the nation's best customers for the milkman.

Civic Organizations To Keep Up Fight On Utilities.

On the heels of a statement before City Council yesterday that no pay or personnel reduction would result from the proposed slight cut in electric light rates, it developed today that more than 500 repair and maintenance men of the Duquesne Light Company have been cut from 44 to 35 hours weekly.

The reduction in time, the second in two months, is effective as of February 16.

Representatives of the company declared that many of the men had been employed on new work and that this means was adopted, because of business conditions, rather than lay them off.

African Mob Perils Titled British Woman

CAPE TOWN, S. A., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Lady Clarendon, wife of the governor-general of South Africa, was caught in the midst of a fight between police and 500 unemployed outside the Parliament buildings here yesterday.

The melee was fought around her automobile, but the police dispersed the crowd with batons, and Lady Clarendon's car was allowed to pass.

TROLLEY, AUTO CRASH, 4 HURT

Four persons were injured shortly after noon today when a street car and an auto collided in West Carson street, near the Point Bridge.

The injured, all of whom were in the auto, were taken to the South Side Hospital for treatment.

They are Charles Savrese, 23, of 1619 Locust street, driver of the auto; his sister, Margaret, 19, of 3225 Allendale street; Daniel Pearson, 25, and his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Pearson, 46, both of the Allendale street address.

Mrs. Pearson, police said, was the most seriously hurt. She was severely cut just above her eyes. Pearson was cut and bruised and all four were suffering from shock.

The street car was headed for West Park; the auto eastbound.

'First Lady's' Cotton Gown Stirs Jap Boycott Rumor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Considerable embarrassment has been caused the White House by widely-circulated reports that Mrs. Hoover was giving encouragement to a "Japanese boycott" by her recent appearance at a White House social function wearing a cotton gown.

Although Mrs. Hoover did appear at the function in a cotton gown of printed material, White House social secretaries emphatically deny that it had anything to do with the agitation for a boycott on Japanese silks. Mrs. Hoover had had the gown for a long time, they explain, and it was a coincidence that she wore it at a time when the boycott of silk was being agitated.

Currency was given the reports by a letter circulated to members of a national sorority urging the members to boycott Japanese goods. This letter stated that "Mrs. Hoover has shown the way" by her action in appearing in a cotton frock, and urged members of the sorority to "follow her example."

Numerous inquiries have been received at the White House about the matter, much to the embarrassment of Mrs. Hoover and her secretaries.

TOKIO REFUSES TO REMOVE WARSHIPS

Request of U. S., Britain, Italy and French Fails to Bring Safety for Neutrals

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The Japanese government "is compelled to reject" certain requests made upon the foreign office today by the American, British, French and Italian ambassadors with respect to the situation at Shanghai, International News Service was authoritatively informed tonight.

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb 26.—A new protest against Japanese military activities in the International Settlement was delivered at the foreign office this afternoon by ambassadors of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

The ambassadors called in a body upon Kenkichi Yoshisawa foreign minister. Their visit was said to have been unexpected.

While the joint memorandum was not made public, it was learned the ambassadors called attention to the fact that Japan is now sending additional infantry divisions to Shanghai. They asked that these troops not be landed in the International Settlement.

ASK NEUTRAL ZONE

The ambassadors also are understood to have supported the request of foreign consuls in Shanghai that Admiral Nomura's flagship, the Idzuma, be moved from its present mooring in the Whangpoo River opposite the Shanghai Bund. The Idzuma has attracted Chinese artillery fire and lives of foreigners in that part of the Settlement have been endangered.

According to the newspaper Hochi Shimbun the ambassadors requested Japan to consent to the establishment of a neutral zone in the Chapei district of Shanghai, the Japanese and Chinese troops withdrawing "a reasonable distance."

They specifically explained, said Hochi, that their memorandum was not to be interpreted as a warning, but they desired Japanese assurances that the new troop reinforcements would not be landed in the Settlement.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi says the ambassadors asked Japan to move all warships in the Whangpoo at Shanghai to obviate the danger to civilians in the Settlement because of Chinese bombardment.

Move to Save Neutrals Sponsored by Britain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The United States today joined with Great Britain, France and Italy in making new representations to Japan protesting the landing of any additional Japanese troops in the International Settlement, and requesting that the Japanese flagship be moved from its present mooring opposite the Japanese consulate general.

The State Department in making this revelation said the move was sponsored by Great Britain, which nation requested the joint action by the powers. Secretary of State Stimson cabled Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes Wednesday night, authorizing him to join the other ambassadors in Tokio in making these representations.

Both Washington and London have been disturbed for the past several days over the Chinese threat to bombard the Japanese consulate and the Japanese flagship anchored nearby. The consulate is situated on the Bund and is adjacent to the principal hotels, business houses and the most valuable property in the International Settlement. Any bombardment of the Japanese consulate would subject the Settlement to the most frightful danger.

Candidate Jailed For Court Contempt

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who is campaigning for nomination for Attorney General of Illinois, today was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to five days in jail and fined $500 by Judge Philip Sullivan in Circuit Court.

The charge grew out of the state's handling of Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent of the Chicago sanitary district board, a star witness in the recent graft trial of former officials of the "whoopee" regime.

STIMSON SPURS LEAGUE ACTION

By WYTHE WILLIAMS

GENEVA, Feb. 26.—The League of Nations Council, prodded out of inaction by Secretary of State Stimson's statement of Far Eastern policy, today is silently engaged in drafting a reply to the Japanese note chiding the league for taking sides in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Declaring that Secretary Stimson's action is the strongest yet taken by any power or group of powers to bring the Far Eastern dispute to an end, Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate to the council, declared that if the league assembly on March 3 does not take immediate action, he will invoke Article 16 of the league covenant.

Under Article 16, league powers would be asked to co-operate in an effective economic and diplomatic boycott of Japan with the league council recommending that member nations place at the league's disposal various military, naval and air units to force the recalcitrant member into line.

This would mold an international police force under the league's authority, exactly the proposal Andre Tardieu, French premier, made in his statement of disarmament policy to the disarmament conference.

France Overlooks Stimson China Note

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's note to Senator William E. Borah, summarizing America's Chinese policy, has been generally overlooked by the French press.

BOYCOTT PLAN ALARMS JAPS

TOKIO, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Representatives of Japan's leading banks conferred today with War Minister Gen. Sadao Araki, expressing serious concern over agitation in the United States for an economic boycott against this country.

The bankers informed Araki they considered the petition signed by Newton D. Baker and a number of educators asking Secretary of State Stimson to assure the League of Nations of American support of a boycott as unwarranted and likely to have extremely harmful results.

They pointed out it may bring "unnecessary complications" and cited it as an indication of an "unfriendly attitude" on the part of the United States.

Not Guilty!

O'MALLEY JURY FREES FOUR

county detectives had dispersed a crowd which gathered in the corridors, to prevent such heckling of the jury which attended the guilty verdict against Constable Paul Walsh, of the First Ward, two weeks ago. O'Malley's wife was in the corridors to greet him as he left the courtroom.

O'Malley was elated as he left the courtroom. Later, in his home, he said:

"I'm happy to be vindicated of these charges, but there won't be any celebration.

"There's too much work to do with the primary campaign coming along."

Asked what his course in the coming election would be, O'Malley replied:

JURY OUT FIVE HOURS

The jury, which retired to deliberate at 4 p. m. yesterday, reached a verdict at 9:15 o'clock last night.

Prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, O'Malley was accused of obtaining 2,400 tax receipts for the Second Ward. Clunk argued that not only were many fake addresses given for these receipts, but that many of them were for phantoms.

O'Malley's defense appeared to be largely that John Francies, then county treasurer, had instructed him to apply for all the tax orders in one name to facilitate the work in Francies' office.

FORGERIES CHARGED

O'Malley was asked by his attorney if he had countenanced erasures or changing of names on any of the receipts. He replied:

"I would be crazy to do that with my name on the tax orders."

Defendants McMackin and Gallagher were accused in the forgery of the signatures of four witnesses to authorization slips for tax receipts. These four witnesses identified the signatures as forgeries, but added that they had verbally authorized the defendants to obtain the receipts.

There was one witness against Lardo—Eugene Sunceri, of Wylie avenue. Sunceri said that a person unknown to him had left a tax receipt at his home and that Lardo had asked him one day if he had received his receipt.

COLANGELO FREED

The case against Patsy Colangelo, Hill character, never reached the jury. During the trial Judge Culver, on motion of Prosecutor Clunk, ordered him acquitted. Clunk, admitting he had failed to make out a case against Colangelo, blamed this on the disappearance of witnesses.

CHINESE ARMY RECAPTURES VILLAGE

viously had encircled Miaoshin.

Gen. Gaston K. Wang, chief of staff of the 19th Army, who announced recapture of Miaoshin, emphatically denied Japanese claims that between 3,000 and 5,000 Chinese soldiers had been slain in the recent fighting.

PLANES IN RAID

While a fleet of Japanese bombing planes from the aircraft carriers Kaga and Hosho was carrying out a campaign of destruction in three sectors, the Japanese army in the Kiangwan area clashed throughout yesterday with the Chinese defenders.

The remnant of Gen. Asai's troops surrounded in Kiangwan village took another terrific strafing yesterday from Japanese guns and planes, but at last accounts were still holding out in the hope of early rescue.

Cut off at present from relief, the Kiangwan defenders will soon have to take the choice of dying from starvation or surrendering, unless Tsai Ting-Kai succeeds in pressing back the Japanese right flank far enough to rush troops through to their rescue.

Meanwhile, the 19th Army prepared itself for another fierce assault by the Japanese along the Kiangwan-Miaoshin sector before dawn.

The impression prevailed that Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, now commanding Japanese forces here, would do all in his power to crush the Chinese defense completely before the arrival of Gen. Shirakawa, who was appointed by Emperor Hirohito to supercede him and is now en route from Tokio.

During the past 12 hours, the Chinese took terrible punishment from Japanese bombing planes and artillery both on their first and second defense lines.

As Gen. Tsai has nothing with which to oppose the Japanese planes or the overwhelming superiority of their artillery, foreign military observers are wondering how long his troops will hold out before cracking. Considerable mystery prevails as to the support he is actually receiving from the Nationalist government.

TERRIFIC TOLL

Throughout the night streams of wounded, many of them terribly shattered by bombs, were filling the roads in back of Gen. Tsai's lines. Bodies of the dead lay everywhere and, despite Chinese denials of the Japanese claims of thousands of casualties, there was no doubt that the latest Japanese offensive took a terrific toll of life.

With their bombing raids on the Chinese airdrome at Hangchow, the Markham Railway yards and the Lunghua region, the Japanese extended the war into the air in earnest.

Fifteen planes from the Kaga and Hosho took off early yesterday, flew 110 miles southward to Hangchow and immediately began dropping bombs on the airdrome.

Two of the Chinese planes which took to the air in an effort to beat off the invaders were shot down, while at least five others were destroyed by bombs dropped by the invading planes. Five more were damaged.

Shanghai Onslaught Costs Japan $19,000,000

TOKIO, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—An extraordinary appropriation of 22,000,000 yen ($7,040,000 at the present rate) was approved by the Japanese cabinet today to meet additional military expenses in connection with the expedition to Shanghai.

The army received 20,000,000 yen and the navy 2,000,000 yen.

This was the second special appropriation made for the Shanghai expedition. A total of 34,000,000 yen was authorized on February 9, bringing the authorization to date to 56,000,000 yen, or nearly $19,000,000 at the present rate of exchange.

MANCHURIAN CAMPAIGN

Besides these appropriations for the Shanghai expeditions, an appropriation of 42,000,000 yen was voted for the Manchurian campaign some time ago which, in addition to the appropriations this month, brings the total to approximately $31,500,000 at the current exchange rate, or $49,000,000 at par. Further appropriations are expected to be submitted to a special session of the Diet in April in the form of a supplementary budget. The cost of maintaining the Manchurian and Shanghai expeditions indefinitely was estimated at 10,000,000 (about $3,200,000) a month.

The Bank of Japan and the government deposits bureau were expected to take up the necessary bond issues, but in many quarters, a considerable dislocation of the country's financial condition was predicted.

GUNMAN MUST FACE MURDER CHARGES

Filkowski, Found With Girl, $50,000 Gems, Ordered Extradited; Friend Held

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—"Smiling Joe" Filkowski must go back to Cleveland, where he rates as Public Enemy No. 1, to stand trial for murder.

This was decided today at a conference in the District Attorney's office while Filkowski, in the prisoner's pen in West Side Court, tried to shield his sweetheart, Mrs. Mary Keck, by declaring she knew nothing of any of the crimes with which he was charged.

His gallantry was in vain, though, for Mrs. Keck was held in $51,000 bail by Magistrate Daly in Flushing Court—$50,000 as a receiver of stolen goods and $1,000 as a "gun moll."

Filkowski, when arraigned before Magistrate Erwin in West Side Court on a robbery charge, was held without bail. He will be indicted immediately in order that he may be brought back to New York if the murder case against him falls down.

He was identified at police headquarters as the lone robber who staged a $500 robbery in a clothing store.

When Filkowski was arrested a card in his pocket led to the arrest of Mrs. Keck in an apartment in Jackson Heights. Jewelry worth $50,000 and a number of guns were found hidden in the apartment.

Just before he was put into the patrol wagon, which was to take him to the tombs, he faced a battery of newspapermen and cried:

"I have two broken ribs. I am black and blue all over from the beating the cops gave me. They made my girl talk by telling her that the more she said the easier they would be on me. She had nothing to do with anything."

TABLET SOUGHT FOR BRIDGE

Baffled by the task of selecting a suitable memorial tablet for the West End-North Side Bridge, the County Commissioners have named a committee of three architects to approve the design.

The three are Edward B. Lee, Press Dowler and Charles P. Ingham. The tablet commemorates the sinking of Graham's ferry in the Ohio River near the site of the bridge May 12, 1909, resulting in 24 workmen being drowned.

Mrs. Sue Watson Marshall, a widow, sculptor and graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, was the low bidder at $2,487 when bids were opened February 16. Other bidders were Frank Vittor, $2,675, and Joseph Bailey Ellis, $2,765.

It was pointed out today that the specifications required that the design should be approved by the State Art Commission after the contract had been awarded and before execution of the work. No other stipulation was included.

ADMITS BLAST TO AID GHOST

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—A 50-year-old widow today confessed that she engineered a bombing so that the ghost of her Indian husband might have a proper home, according to police.

The widow, Mrs. Ella Hopkins, was in custody, together with Dr. Leslie Ofner, her reputed accomplice in the plot, and James De Millo, 34, one of the alleged bombers.

The strange story began last fall, when William Lambert, filling station proprietor, bought the Hopkins home for $7,000.

After the sale, Mrs. Hopkins decided the spirit of her late husband, Lafayette, a wealthy property owner, could not roam unmolested with the house filled with strangers.

She tried to buy back the property, offering $9,000. Lambert refused. On February 7, Lambert's oil station was bombed.

DAVIS DEMANDS STRONG NAVY

READING, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Senator James J. Davis believes the United States Navy must "be prepared to defend itself against the strongest navy in the world."

Members of both political parties, attending the Northeastern Republican League's fortieth anniversary banquet, heard the Senator express the opinion last night. He also discussed the economic situation, gave views of the Sino-Japanese conflict and talked briefly on politics.

Downtown Theater Disturber Arrested

HOOVER'S VIEWS AIRED BY FOES AND FRIENDS

BULLETIN.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The Republican state committee today adopted a resolution recommending the New Jersey delegation to the National convention be pledged to the renomination of President Hoover and to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—President Hoover's economic and prohibition views crashed into the pre-convention presidential race spotlight today.

Secretary Hurley said Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic National Committee and his associates were "slandering and misrepresenting the President" and were not in a position to give the Executive's prohibition views.

At the same time, Speaker Garner said at a press conference that the President had "led us into the greatest panic the country or world has ever known."

The war secretary's statement was made in reply to a speech by Rascob last night in New York in which the Democratic chairman said he had "good information that President Hoover will run on a prohibition referendum platform if his party should adopt such a platform." Hurley said:

"It appears a little far-fetched for the chairman of the Democratic national committee to attempt to interpret the views of the President."

Asked if he was speaking for the President, the secretary smiled slightly and said:

"No, I'm not speaking for the President."

Garner's statement was made when he was asked to comment on a speech by Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy, last night at Wooster, O., in which Jahncke said President Hoover's leadership since Congress convened had made the Democrats "just a little bit dizzy." The Texas Democrat said:

"Since he has been President, Hoover has led us into the greatest panic the country or world has ever known. The country will determine the correctness of Jahncke's statements."

Weather Conditions.

There is considerable cloudy weather over the northern states, due to a string of low pressure areas along the Canadian border, while high pressure over the South is attended by clear skies over that section. Rainfall for the last 24 hours was very light and scattered. There were light showers in Florida yesterday, light snow in New England and rain over Washington and Oregon. There is no cold weather on the map this morning and no cold weather is indicated for this section for the next several days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary or falling slowly. River at Franklin is 2.2 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 12.2; Pittsburgh, 11.4; Dam No. 4, 9.5; Dam No. 8, 6.8; Dam No. 10, 9.2; Dam No. 12, 9.2. The dams are up.

Rescuers Dig for 4 Buried In Snowslide; 2 Saved

MOUNT VERNON, Wash., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Hope waned today for the lives of four workmen buried under an avalanche of snow in the narrow Skagit Canyon, although two other men who were dug out within several hours were still alive.

Hurtling down the steep sides of the canyon, in which Seattle's railway to its Skagit River power plant is located, the slide swept onto the men, members of a party of 23 clearing an earlier slide off the tracks.

The four missing were: Harold Brown, 27, of Newhalem, and Melvin Sherwood, 38; Carl Nelson, 27, and Gus Ryne, 62, all of Seattle.

A crew of 60 men was at work in an attempt to reach them, tunneling and burrowing into the snow, which reached 16 feet deep in places.

In the first few hours of rescue work, Samuel Ospray, of Seattle, 53, was dug out, "till alive, but badly injured. He had a fractured skull and his condition was critical.

Another victim, Leo Probuski, 46, was taken out six hours after he had been buried. His condition also was serious.

Because the slide swept over the tracks and part of it plunged into the rushing river, leaders of the rescue party thought some of the victims might have been carried into the water.

Woman Society Cocktail Critic May Seek Senate

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. George H. Strawbridge, of Bala, who two years ago took exception to a statement that the alcoholic cocktail is a society necessity, today revealed she is considering becoming a candidate for senator.

She would not expand her statement, but said she "will have something to say on Monday, not before."

Mrs. Strawbridge, who would enter the senatorial race on a dry platform, figured prominently in the news in 1930, when she contradicted Mrs. Graham Dougherty Wynecotte's statement that the cocktail was a necessity at social functions.

Etchings of Tennis Stars By Helen Win Praise

The works represent an enlargement of her professional artistic career, which heretofore has been confined to drawings.

Erwin S. Barrie, manager and director of the galleries, said:

"Behind her name lies real talent. When she retires from tennis her drawings and her etchings will attract attention for their merit alone.

"Her sport etchings will be in demand, for they are authentic. She knows anatomy and she knows its form for every stroke she portrays."

It was at Barrie's urging that Miss Wills took up the study of etching. The first group, now on exhibit, consists of action portraits of Eileen Bennett, Henri Cochet, Senorita Lili De Alvarez, Cillie Aussem and herself, all tennis stars.

She is at work now on plates of Tilden—"always the genius of tennis," she called him in a letter to Barrie—and Vines—"the greatest young one."

VICTIM FIGHTS FIVE CAPTORS IN AUTO

HAT FOUND IN WHITAKER RD.

If you can identify this hat, call the CITY EDITOR, GRant 6500, because the name of its owner may be the name of the kidnapped Braddock woman.

Five men with a reported kidnaped girl, driving a sedan, led police in a 70-mile-an-hour chase through Braddock, and escaped in a hail of bullets after upsetting a police motorcycle and injuring the officer early today, according to police reports.

The license number of the car was obtained as its driver raced it, top speed, through the business district, and police reported they were looking for an East End man said to be its owner.

Screaming and fighting, an unidentified young woman was forced into the car in Whitaker road, shortly after midnight, police said they were told by an unidentified service man of the Duquesne Light Company. In his truck, he followed the car, passed it on the Rankin Bridge, and raced to the Braddock Police Station.

MOTORCYCLE CHASE

The chase was taken up by Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Holleran, who sighted the sedan at Second street and Braddock avenue. The driver increased his speed rapidly when the policeman ordered him to stop, it was reported.

A shot in the air and the officer's shrieking siren attracted the attention of Patrolmen John Kieheley and Andrew Stogarleick, at Ninth street and Braddock avenue. The officers ran into the street and tried to halt the car. They barely escaped injury when the machine, which had attained a mile-a-minute speed, bore down on them.

Holleran, however, continued after them. At Thirteenth street, the sedan attempted a wild turn and the policeman, trying to follow, upset his motorcycle. His leg injured and his ankle sprained, he emptied his revolver at the rear of the sedan. He was taken to the Braddock Hospital.

GIRL'S HAT FOUND

The car disappeared in Washington street. Police departments in the city and county were asked to look for it. McKeesport police reported that it was seen speeding through that district at 5 o'clock. Early efforts to find the owner failed.

A black felt hat with a white feather is the only clue police have of the identity of the girl in the car. The hat, picked up on the Whitaker road where the men are said to have accosted her, was taken to the station by the light company employe.

'Bomb Wizard' Offers Death Engine to U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(Universal.)—Through a secret method of destruction, entire cities can be wiped out by remote control.

So declared Lester P. Barlow, "bomb wizard" of the World War, who was in Washington today to place his new agency for destruction before Congress. "Almost too terrible to contemplate," Barlow hopes the method will be used to compel a limitation of world land armaments. He explained:

"This new and devastating agency of death could be used successfully against any city in 24 hours.

"Its radius of action is 1,000 miles. It would require a personnel of 5,000 men to carry it out, and but few would ever be in a hazardous position at any time.

"The operation of a single equipment would wipe out a section 2,500 feet wide and 6,000 feet long."

Barlow is an engineer of Stamford, Conn., whose deadly inventions of the World War, particularly in airplane bombs and depth bombs, were used by the United States government.

So terrible is his new secret, he declared, that he will place it before Congress only under guarantees that it be not divulged.

Barlow warned that if this government fails to accept his proposal he is prepared to place the matter before either Premier Mussolini, of Italy, or Stalin, of Russia, two nations he says are sincere for disarmament.

SURGERY WINS 100-1 CHANCE

CHARLEROI, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Doctors who took a 100-to-1 chance on saving the life of an automobile accident victim have won their wager with death.

Today Mike Jadyck, 13, is recovering and will soon be a normal, healthy boy again.

Jadyck was struck by an automobile February 13. His skull shattered near the ear, he lapsed into a 90-hour coma.

With the boy near death, doctors took the long chance and operated. Three broken sections of the skull and a portion of the brain were removed.

But young Jadyck's right side was paralyzed and physicians feared he never would be able to walk again. Recovery set in, however, and Jadyck said happily today as bandages were removed:

'Lost' Kin of Tito Returns to Home

James L. Brimmer, 77, the father-in-law of Joe Tito, well-known political figure, for whom police were asked to search yesterday, returned to his home last night, detectives were told. No explanation was offered at his home, 1817 Fifth avenue, last night.

Brimmer disappeared Monday afternoon, saying he was going to visit his daughters in McKeesport. He didn't go there, it was learned, and Tito, fearing the aged man had met with foul play, asked police to find him.

Motorist in Crash Shoots Self, Dies

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—A young man shot and killed himself before the eyes of spectators, after the automobile he was driving collided with another here early today. Papers in his pockets indicated he was Harold McCoy, of Canton, O.

As he alighted after the crash, onlookers rushed to him to inquire if he was injured. Waving them away, he drew an automatic pistol and fired a bullet into his head.

TRUNK SLAYER SOBS IN HER DEATH CELL

Pleads for Pictures of Two Friends She Killed; Sure to Beat Noose, Says Father

International News Service.

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 26.—Ruth Judd, "double trunk" murderess, condemned to hang May 11 for the slaying of Agnes Anne Leroi, today was the victim of frequent crying spells.

The frail "velvet tigress" the state of Arizona charged killed Mrs. Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose bodies were shipped in trunks to Los Angeles from Phoenix, broke down yesterday after her first night as prisoner 8811 in condemned row, and asked for the pictures of her two victims.

VISITED BY PARENTS

Today following a visit from her elderly parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, she again broke down and wept bitterly. Her white-haired father said:

"We still have faith our daughter Ruth will be delivered from the gallows. Ruth will never be executed for those trunk murders."

To his daughter, he said:

"Don't worry. God is with you."

Mr. and Mrs. McKinnell and their son, Burton McKinnell, a University of Southern California student, came here yesterday from Phoenix and prepared to rent a small bungalow near the grim walls of the penitentiary.

STAND BY RUTH

They presented a strange contrast in temperament.

Mr. McKinnell was philosophical, courteous, almost genial.

Mrs. McKinnell was uncertain, cautious and somewhat suspicious.

Burton McKinnell was silent. The father said:

"We are prepared to stay here the rest of our lives."

'Old Maestro' Testifies in Suit of Dance Hall Man Asking $5,000 for Injury

International News Service.

MONROE, Mich., Feb. 26.—Ben Bernie of the silken voice and the radio wisecracks may face loss of $5,000 through action of the jury of 12 farmers now considering the damage suit brought by Clarence Kirk, dance hall owner.

It seems that "The Old Maestro," as Bernie calls himself, couldn't pull his punches. One of them, according to Kirk, did $5,000 damage during an argument over payment for Bernie's orchestra work at Kirk's dance hall near here last June 17. Bernie testified.

"I haven't had a music rack in my hands for 20 years. I have no music-reading musicians. He pulled a gun and I socked him.

"I didn't know my own strength until I tried to fiddle. For then I found that I had fractured a bone in my hand."

Dizziness, accompanied by frequent headaches, resulted from the blow, Kirk charged. Bernie said:

"You're telling me he's getting dizzy now. And he, yes he has a headache! He was drinking what smelled like dissolved dynamite."

Kirk denied that he was intoxicated and used abusive words in talking to Bernie. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall while Bernie is about 5 feet 6. Bernie concluded:

"One thing I know—I'll never hit a guy again when he pulls a gun on me. Ben Bernie speaking."

Trial Wedlock Wins in Vote At Bryn Mawr

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Companionate marriage is favored by more than half of the Bryn Mawr College girls comprising 62 per cent of the student body who answered a questionnaire on marriage.

Answers published yesterday in the College News—weekly student publication—disclosed a majority of the girls who filled in the blanks prefer marriage to a career, would marry against the wishes of their families, set love above wealth, but demand their husband be socially eligible.

Companionate marriage was defined as "legal marriage entered into with a view to permanence, but with knowledge of birth control and an acceptance of divorce by mutual consent where there are no children."

Love, the girls voted, is based on both physical attraction and companionship, defined in the questionnaire as "mental, social and esthetic compatibility." Thirty-two per cent favored compatibility, while 8 per cent insisted on the physical as love's basis.

GANGSTERS KILL THREE, 2 DYING

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Two more deaths were expected to be added today to the toll of three lives taken yesterday by a gangland slaughter squad at Cleveland's "bloody corner."

Doctors predicted the additional deaths would result from bullet wounds received by Joe Damanti, 23, and Frank Brancato, 34.

Steel-jacketed bullets killed Raymond and Rosario Porello, brothers, and Dominic Guell, alias Mangino, almost instantly. Police said the killings were a part of Cleveland's notorious Porello-Lonardo corn sugar feud, which previously had cost seven lives.

Raymond and Rosario Porello and Guell were playing cards in a soft-drink parlor at Woodland avenue and East One Hundred and Tenth street, when three unidentified men stepped in the doorway and shot them down, along with Damanti.

Brancato, who police said was an ally of the Lonardo faction, staggered into a hospital several hours later with a bullet wound in his stomach. Police believed he was present at the killing of the three or was a later victim of a reprisal attack.

Mrs. Hoover Visits Historic Church

BEAUFORT, S. C., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover and a group of friends accompanying her on a southern cruise today visited St. Helena's Episcopal Church here, one of the oldest churches in the south.

After the visit to the church they went to the National Cemetery where several hundred Union soldiers who died in service during the war between the states are buried. Later the party motored to Parris Island Marine base.

MARY PICKFORD WEARY OF TALK OF DIVORCE

Doug at W[illegible]k in South Seas, Wife Sighs at Futility of Trying to Stop Rumors

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Royal families have no divorces. At least—with a few exceptions like Henry the Eighth and Napoleon—that is the theory. And the royal family of Hollywood conforms to tradition.

Mary Pickford is in New York. She is what a film star calls alone, because she has only a secretary and a maid with her, and a few discreet trunks of beautiful clothes. Douglas Fairbanks is on his way to the South Seas. He has gone to make a new film, for a man must work. Mary said, a little sadly:

"I am so used to divorce rumors that I should miss them if they stopped. After all, we have been married 12 years. What can you expect? We could probably stop the rumors for a while, if we made another picture together, or something like that . . . but what is the use? Besides, one makes pictures for entertainment, not to stop people talking about one's private affairs."

PUZZLED ABOUT PICTURE

She looked tired, and there was a reluctant sweetness about her, infinitely touching.

She talked blithely enough, declaring:

"I don't know whether or not to return to the old, unsophisticated type of film. On the whole, I think I'm too fearful. Old people and children always like my pictures, but the vogue is for sophisticated films. I've come to New York partly to look for a new story, and partly to study. I need a rest. I thought I was going to get one, but—"

With a rueful smile she gazed in the direction of the closed door, behind which a telephone was ringing relentlessly and a secretary was dealing with photographers.

"So far I've been unlucky."

WORKED IN STORE

Somehow the talk got round to 5 and 10 cent stores. Mary said:

"I worked in one for a day, once, just for the experience. No, don't smile, it wasn't for publicity, and no one in the store knew who I was. I disguised myself with a set of buck teeth and worked like a slave all day in the toilet section. A woman who came in to buy peroxide told me I looked a little like Mary Pickford, and said she wouldn't be surprised if I could get a job in the movies.

"I wish I could do some ordinary job for a while. Go into a store or on a telephone switchboard, anything to find out about the lives that aren't sheltered like mine always has been."

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 26.—The home folks of John Garner are not going to waste any time in projecting him into the presidential field, regardless of his own wishes. They are just raring to go. In fact they are already on their way.

One of the first features of the program they are now engaged in working out both in Texas and Washington is the immediate acceptance of the Roosevelt challenge for delegates in every one of the southern states.

Several of the Garner leaders in the West which also claims the Speaker feel the same way about it. They are absolutely sure that when the Democrats in both sections appreciate their opportunity to nominate the next President a national campaign for John Garner will begin.

MESSAGES POUR IN

Since the extraordinary demonstration of Garner's popularity in San Antonio Monday, the favorable reactions from all parts of the country have been little less than astounding.

An avalanche of letters and telegrams have come to state leaders who started the Garner drive towards the White House. Mayor C. M. Chambers, San Antonio, who initiated the movement that resulted in the "rally," as it was called, told the writer that several thousand letters and telegrams had come to him and his associates approving of the undertaking.

Gov. Ross Sterling, Senator Walter Woodward, Roy Miller, Senator Woodul and Senator W. K. Hopkins, and in fact every other important man in the state organization, has been deluged by voluntary indorsements of the Speaker's candidacy, from every state in the union.

ROOSEVELT MEN SCORED

One of the chief factors in the plan to put John Garner against Franklin D. Roosevelt in the southern states was virtually dictated by resentment against the methods employed by the supporters of the New York Governor.

Incidents to support this charge have become known during the last day or two. The Roosevelt managers in New York and Washington and promoters of his drive in Texas regarded the Garner candidacy as a joke. Most of them refused to give it the status of a "favorite son" gesture.

As recently as three weeks ago T. Whit Davidson, who sponsored the mass meeting to organize the state-wide "Roosevelt-for-President" club, made an offer to Speaker Garner's friends that aroused their indignation.

PREDICTION BORNE OUT

He offered to make a deal with Mr. Garner's friends to permit delegates favoring Roosevelt to give the speaker a few complimentary votes in return for the full delegation when needed. Davidson based this suggestion on his assertion that "Garner won't have a chance."

The report of Mayor Chambers, to whom this statement was made, was that the leaders favoring Roosevelt would come over to the Garner side within a month. His prediction was correct. At the mass meeting on Monday which adopted a resolution indorsing the Garner candidacy Stuart Smith, representing Davidson, pledged the support of the Roosevelt followers to Garner without qualification.

Another gesture made by the supporters of Roosevelt was the direct appeal of a personal representative of the New Yorker to some of the Garner leaders both in Texas and Washington. The author of the proposal is recalled here as "Rosen," first name uncertain. Gov. Roosevelt's legal adviser is Samuel Rosen. The Garner leaders who recall Mr. Rosen's visit to Texas are under the impression that he identified himself as being connected with the New York state government.

ASKS FOR SUPPORT

The Roosevelt emissary frankly asked for the support of the Democratic leaders of Texas for Roosevelt. The arguments he used were pretty much the same as employed by Davidson, the organizer of the now defunct Roosevelt-for-President club. The same reply was made to both suggestions.

Knowledge of these hitherto undisclosed Roosevelt attempts, coupled with the amazing interest displayed in Speaker Garner's fitness for presidential honors, have been pretty widely disseminated in all of the southern states. During the last week most encouraging reports have come from nearly all of the southern states regarding the ultimate chances of the speaker for winning the Democratic prize.

Hoover Has Foes 'Dizzy,' Says Jahncke

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—An assertion that President Hoover has provided so much leadership since Congress convened that the Democratic opposition is "just a little bit dizzy," was made last night by Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy Department, in an address before the Wayne County Republican Executive Committee.

Brackenridge Man Killed by Locomotive

Samuel Hall, 83, of Third avenue, Brackenridge, was killed last night when he was struck by a shifting engine of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Lock street crossing, according to a Coroner's report.

THE STORY OF JOHN N. GARNER -:- -:- By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH JOHN N. GARNER

U. S. House Speaker Garner pictured with the late Speaker Longworth, shortly before Mr. Longworth's recent, tragic death.

Theodore Roosevelt was in the saddle in Washington, in the autumn of 1903, when John N. Garner, with his wife on one arm, and his baby on the other, headed for the national capital to take his seat in the House of Representatives as a member of Congress.

Two things stirred the restless mind of T. R. He had negotiated a treaty of reciprocity with Cuba. He had gone nation-building in Central America, to create the new Republic of Panama in order that he might build a ship canal connecting the Atlantic and the Pacific. He had taught Mark Hanna to eat out of his hand, and his renomination for a second White House term seemed in his grasp. But he wanted to clinch it.

He called the national lawmakers into extra session, and the Fifty-eighth Congress convened on Monday, November 9, 1903. John N. Garner, by this whim of Roosevelt's, thus took his seat in the House, for the first time, in his lucky month.

The Garners had landed in Washington at noon, on the preceding Saturday, and knowing that Senator Charles A. Culberson, senior Senator from Texas, and an intellectual power in the Senate, had lived at the old Normandie Hotel at Fifteenth and I streets, Mr. Garner took his small family there. But even this modest hostelry was too expensive for his slender means.

A Congressman's pay was then only $5,000 a year, and while the sum had seemed large in Texas, $100 a week was inadequate to the strain of Washington hotel life to a man who had to depend entirely on his official salary. So after getting his family settled, Mr. Garner tackled the strange city alone, in quest of a modest boarding house more in keeping with his slender means.

Seeks Boarding House

He walked a block to the north, and then turned east, not knowing where he was. It was a neighborhood of smart boarding houses. All looked too expensive.

Trudging alone, surveying the houses with signs in the windows denoting that room and board might be found within, he fell in by accident with a fellow Texan, Representative George F. Burgess, who had been a member of the Fifty-Seventh Congress, and knew all the Washington "ropes." Presently Burgess stopped to speak to a member of the House they had encountered, and he introduced Garner to Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania. The boarding house case was briefly stated.

"Why," said Butler, "I'll take you to a place I can recommend, run by Mrs. List, just down the street here. I used to live there myself, and still take my meals there."

Mrs. List's boarding house was at 1311 K street, northwest. It enjoyed an ideal downtown location, across the street from beautiful Franklin Park. The deal was closed at once, the Garners moved in the next day, and this pleasant boarding house was their first Washington home. They remained there for three years, when Mrs. List gave up the place and left the city. The Garners then removed to the Burlington apartment, of Vermont avenue, just south of Thomas Circle, and here they remained for 13 years.

The opening of the special session of the Fifty-Eighth Congress found John N. Garner at the threshold of as remarkable a career as any man has carved out for himself in that body in half a century. The Republican party was overwhelmingly in power, had been for years, and seemed likely to be forever. The Texan found himself in the minority, under the leadership of John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi.

David B. Henderson, of Iowa, had retired as speaker at the close of the Fifty-Seventh Congress, and an agreement of leaders had been reached prior to the meeting of the extra session that Joseph G. Cannon should be elected as his successor. That's the way they fixed things up in those days. John N. Garner, on his first momentous day, watched the elevation of "Uncle Joe" to the Speakership, but played as little a part in that historic performance as though he had still been a member of the Texas Legislature.

Little did he realize, as he took the obscure seat far back on the Democratic side that had been assigned to him, that the day was coming, not swiftly, but surely, when he should take part in a revolution against this same "Uncle Joe" that would shake the nation to its foundations, and topple the Republican party from power at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue.

His first vote cast in the House was an empty gesture, a vote for John Sharp Williams as Speaker.

Takes Keen Interest

Everything that transpired interested him. There was a lottery of seats, in which he had not fared very well. The custom has since been abolished. The big fellows on the Republican side, who until now had been merely names to him, towered over him like Gulliver in Lilliput.

There, for one, was the mighty Sereno Payne, of New York, bossing things, as somebody described it, with the dynamic soubrettishness of a cynical elephant. There also was the masterful John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, who carried his head on one side, like a wounded pigeon. He was "Uncle Joe's" right-hand man on the powerful Rules Committee, and one of the recognized satraps of the House. James R. Mann, of Chicago, most adroit of Republican parliamentarians, shared attention with James A. Hemenway, of Indiana, head of the great Appropriations Committee. Then there were "Pete" Hepburn, of Iowa; Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, a rapid-fire orator who hurled such a torrent of language when wound up that the stenographers were in a panic when he spoke; Samuel W. McCall, of Massachusetts, the scholar of the House, who was to be the war governor of his state; William Alden Smith, of Michigan, who later on was to go to the Senate; "Jim" Tawney, of Minnesota, one of Czar Cannon's most promising lieutenants; huge Cy Sulloway, of New Hampshire, seven feet tall, and generally wearing carpet slippers because his feet hurt from carrying around so much weight; Wesley Jones, of Washington, who some years later was to achieve fame as the author of the "5 and 10" law, and Henry Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin, in whom the seeds of insurgency were even then germinating, like something in a chemist's test tube.

As young John N. Garner looked about him, on that first day, he realized that he was in the right place. He had felt all along that he wanted to go to Congress. Now he was sure of it. These associates of his were big men. Eventually he would have to combat them, but first he must meet them, know them, learn all about them.

On his own Democratic side he found no less degree of talent. Close by him was Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, already a veteran of eight years' service, who was to become, in his turn, the leader of the Democratic party in the House. There was Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the present Democratic leader of the Senate. In the Georgia delegation was Thomas W. Hardwick, later Governor and Senator. Henry T. Rainey, who in the years to come was to be his own right-hand man, represented the Democrats of Illinois. The towering Ollie James, and the brilliant Swagar Sherley, stood out in the Kentucky delegation. Joseph E. Ransdell, afterwards Senator, was conspicuous among the men from Louisiana.

Champ Clark and David A. De Armond, both of Missouri, were such gifted orators in rough-and-tumble debate that Republicans hunted cover when they rose to tear into things. New York had sent William Sulzer, afterwards Governor; George B. McClellan, who was to resign a few days later to become Mayor of New York City; William R. Hearst, publisher of newspapers from coast to coast, and W. Bourke Cockran, the outstanding orator of his generation in the House of Representatives. One can close his eyes now and hear the echo of his melodious voice in that hall.

It was a goodly company in which young John N. Garner found himself. No man could have been a member of that body without being conscious of the power and ability of his associates. This and the three succeeding congresses were the most brilliant since the Civil War period, and together accomplished more reforms than and since the foundation of the government.

There was plenty to talk about when young Garner returned, on the evening of his first day in this gifted society, to his modest boarding house. In the parlor he met the lone congressman from Montana, Joseph M. Dixon, afterwards senator. He also discoursed there with a pleasant colleague, Ernest F. Atcheson, of Pennsylvania, a learned and experienced man. In the course of the evening young Smedley Butler, of the Marine Corps, son of the Pennsylvania congressman, who had recently been married, dropped in with his bride. An agreeable, and typical Washington company. The Garners felt at home at once, and everybody liked them.

Unhappily, he had not fared very well in the committee assignments. He drew last place, on the Democratic side, on Railways and Canals, and Expenditures in the State Department.

"Life's darkest moment!"

Well, it was up to him to climb!

Factor Fights Suit Threatening Wealth

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—John "Jake the Barber" Factor has filed a new motion before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to dismiss the suit threatening his $3,000,000 trust fund.

The suit was filed by the Rev Arthur Traviss Faber, of London, England, who sought to have the funds applied to reimburse investors who were alleged to have lost large sums in schemes promoted by Factor in England. Factor claims that the United States courts have no jurisdiction in the matter, as he and his parents are British subjects.

RE-TRIAL ASKED IN BOND CASE

A motion for a new trial for Williamf J. Moore, president of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, and three sons, all officers of the company, convicted yesterday in Federal Court for misuse of the mail and conspiracy, was filed by Attorney Earl F. Read, of defense counsel. Arguments on the motion will be heard next week by Judge Nelson McVicar, the trial Judge.

The sons are Harold A., Charles C. and Kenneth W. Moore. Charles B. Moore, a brother of William J. Moore, was acquitted by a directed verdict of the court. The government charged the defendants with using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with promotion and sale of second-mortgage bonds of the Mayflower Hotel Company, Washington.

Government witnesses testified that a second-mortgage bond issue of more than $2,000,000 was sold when no interest was being paid on a first-mortgage bond issue of $7,500,000, and at a time the hotel was being operated at a loss. In the prosecution the government was represented by Attorney Forrest Harness, of Washington, a special assistant to Attorney General William Mitchell, and Assistant United States Attorney W. J. Aiken. The trial started February 8.

Asks $75,000 Damage From Packing Firm

A can of potted ham exploded when she attempted to open it and the contents were hurled into her eyes, permanently injuring them, Mrs. Hilda Champion, of Swissvale, charged in her suit against Armour & Co., in Common Pleas Court. She and her husband, Edward Champion, asked $75,000 damages.

The accident occurred February 11, 1931, after she bought the ham at a Swissvale grocery, she said.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Society Events

20TH CENTURY CALENDAR VARIED

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Social leaders and many of their daughters were to be found yesterday at the Nixon Theater to greet the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, who opened the Pittsburgh Morning Lecture Series.

The duchess, who is tall and dark golden blonde wearing a simple brown chiffon dress polka-dotted in golden brown, a smart hat of brown felt tied with gold and brown ribbon at the back, and a mink coat, arrived at the theater with Andre Avinoff, who introduced her, and Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, her hostess during her one-day stay in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Hunt wore a flame-colored crepe dress and a black velvet hat having a spray of red and black feathers. Her coat was of black broadtail.

Mrs. Jack Bissell arrived with Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland and Mrs. Arthur P. Woolfolk.

Others I saw were Frances Fitzgerald, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. David I. McCahill in a brown ensemble, Miss Laetitia Hunter, Mrs. George S. Baton, Mrs. Walter F. Schleiter in a biege lapin coat and a brown felt hat, and Mrs. Alex Hays Hunter.

In Brown Ensemble

From Sewickley came Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson and Mrs. B. F. Jones III. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson was in the audience, and so were Mrs. Edward Jennins, Sylvia Robertson and Marie Louise Bickford, and Mrs. A. Cameron Mann.

Mrs. William Christopher Robinson in a black ensemble collared with Persian lamb with a barrel muff to match, came with her young daughter, Althea, who wore a smart red coat collared in fox.

Seen at Lecture

Mrs. Francis Burke Rodgers and her mother, Mrs. James Francis Burke. I noted among the arrivals, Mrs. Torrance Miller in a black ensemble trimmed with Persian lamb and a black hat with an upstanding quill. Mrs. Stanley Brown came with her mother, Mrs. Frank Adair Leovy, and Mrs. A. C. Martin, of Greensburg.

Mrs. J. O. Burgwin and her mother, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., Mrs. F. G. Blackburn, Mary Hill and Frances Forsyth, Mrs. John E. Nelson in a black suit with a collar of Persian lamb and a black hat, were others in the audience.

Mrs. John F. Walton in a black croactali coat with a black felt hat, and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick came together; Frances Reed in a red coat and hat was there with her mother, Mrs. James Hay Reed, Jr.

Wears Red Coat

Young Mary Edwards, wearing a red crepe dress with a red felt hat and a leopard coat, was with her mother, Mrs. George D. Edwards.

Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., wore a smart black broadtail coat, having sleeves cut full below the elbow and narrowed at the wrist, and a small black felt chapeau.

Mrs. Frederic I. Merrick and her mother, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy; Mrs. T. M. Jones III, in a chartreuse green crepe dress and a mink coat, were also at the lecture. A luncheon in the William Penn Hotel followed.

Diversity Marks Events Listed By Club for Entertainment Of Members in March

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The usual diversity marks next month's calendar of events at the Twentieth Century Club. It begins Thursday with the current interest committee's luncheon, which will be addressed by Frank Clark Harper, Pittsburgh historian, who is to talk on "Pittsburgh of George Washington's Time and Ours."

Prof. Hughes Mearns, noted educator, with his talk on "Unguessed Gifts," will inaugurate the month's series of Monday morning lectures. Then comes Dr. James C. Boudreau, of Pratt Institute, former head of art in the Pittsburgh public schools. Under auspices of the music and arts committee he will speak Thursday, the tenth, on "The Joy of Sketching."

S. K. Ratcliffe, distinguished English journalist, is speaker for Monday, the fourteenth. His subject is "Whither America? An English Guess."

The drama committee will present its three original prize plays on the 17th and on the 21st.

To Give 3 Plays

Grover Clark will discuss the Sino-Japanese situation, Mr. Clark is an American, born in Japan of a family that has been connected with the Far East for four generations. He received his master's degree from the University of Chicago and returned to the Orient to become business manager of the Trans-Pacific Magazine. He taught in the government schools of Japan.

Maurice Hindus with his talk on Russian current events will conclude the month's lectures and the calendar closes with the mid-winter card party for members only on the 30th.

* * *

As a benefit for its pledge to the Stephen Collins Foster Memorial, the Tuesday Musical Club Choral will sponsor a lecture by Laura C. Boulton, who accompanied her husband, Rudyard Boulton, on his explorations in Africa. Mrs. Boulton is a musician and a student of music and has made a study of African music and folk lore, recording both by phonograph and by script. The lecture will be in Carnegie Lecture Hall.

VELVET HOLDS FASHION'S FAVOR FOR EVENING WRAPS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 26.—Velvet is again vanquishing all claimants to its position as first favorite of all fabrics for evening wraps. One has come to associate velvet and the evening wrap as matter of course, even during the winter, when fur wraps are much liked. But no matter how much snowy ermine or glossy mink may appear, a fine velvet wrap will always more than hold its own and make its wearer regal in appearance. Some of the smartest wraps seen this year have been of velvet with white ermine or white fox and this spring this combination is being shown in almost every house. Of course the new wraps are much shorter, clearing the way for the quite short coatee that will be seen again when summer saunters along.

* * *

THE PRESENT evening frock silhouette goes beautifully with the knee-length wrap now being shown and both create a pleasing line, slim and graceful. Nothing very radical marks the new evening silhouette. Diaphragms are moulded, skirts are straight and narrow mostly. Many designers accentuate the shoulder line, endeavoring to add novel touches to prevent any hint of repetition in their models. Many frocks just clear the instep, an always sensible length, practical and smart, giving the shoe a chance to display its elegance.

* * *

SHOWN TODAY we have an evening wrap and a very new evening frock. The wrap shows one of Molyneux's very newest designs. As you will see, he makes his coats in knee-length with a straight hemline. The wrap shown is of ruby velvet, cut in a straight, tube-like silhouette, with large sleeves widening at the elbow and shaping in at the wrist. Two vertical folds run from shoulder to wrist down the outside of the arm. The large collar is of white fox, a fur which frames the face in a most becoming manner.

* * *

A VERY supple silver tissue makes this evening frock from Lanvin. The frilled shoulder straps are novel and are typical of the interest that Mme. Lanvin endeavors to give to details which otherwise become banal. The bodice is snug, but the skirt is ample and is shirred at the waistline. It hangs in heavy folds to the instep and in regular intervals is slit nearly up to the knee. The twisted sash is formed of black satin ribbon interwined with almond green and is knotted at the side. At the back the decolletage follows a deeply curving line.

Hadassah Donors Told Of Palestine Folk Music

Palestine is the only place on the face of the earth where new folk music is being evolved today, A. W. Binder, professor of Jewish music at the Jewish Institute of Religion, said yesterday at Pittsburgh Hadassah's donor luncheon. Mr. Binder compared what he found in the way of Jewish folk music in Palestine last year with what was scarcely a semblance six years ago. The religious music, he said, had been carried down 2,000 years, but in order to evolve a folk music, a nation must be on its own land.

The new music is a merging of the old liturgical, the Yemenite and Arabic, Mr. Binder said. He told of the opera company, the symphony orchestra, an oratorio chorus, 40 small choruses, two excellent chamber music organizations, and three schools of music which have been established in Palestine. He illustrated his talk most delightfully with both piano and voice.

About 250 guests were present at the luncheon, which was held in the Hotel Schenley. In her welcoming speech, Mrs. I. H. Levin, president of Pittsburgh Chapter, spoke of the two-fold achievement of the luncheon—the employment it had created in Pittsburgh, and the health and welfare work to be done in Palestine with the proceeds. Mrs. Marion Greenberg, of New York, a former treasurer of the national organization, also spoke.

Elmer Kenyon Addresses Pen Women on Drama

Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl was kept in New York by illness yesterday, and her place as speaker at the League of American Pen Women's luncheon was taken by Elmer Kenyon, head of Carnegie Tech's drama school. Mr. Kenyon spoke on the writing of plays, and later the women listened to a radio program of compositions by one of their own number, Ruth Stevens Porter, who was broadcasting under auspices of the State Federation of Music Clubs.

Several members will attend the National League's biennial convention in Washington, beginning April 22. Two new compositions by Miss Marianne Genet will be sung at the convention.

Tonight to the Horne Furniture Sale
Proposition Which Ends Monday

Here are the facts which make this February Sale the most opportune event you have ever been offered . . . and which will not likely be repeated again.

- Horne furniture is known for its high rank in beauty, quality and authenticity of design.
- Horne's stock of fine furniture is the largest in the city.
- The prices of furniture are lower in 1932 than they've been in a generation.
- During February (and the month ends Monday!) a discount of 15% from these low prices will be allowed on every piece of furniture in our stock, including all specially priced new furniture and furniture previously reduced.
- Pay over a period of time, by means of convenient monthly payments.

The facts speak for themselves. The furniture is here to see . . . the prices plainly marked . . . the 15% deducted on another price tag. The important thing to remember is that the sale ends Monday, and tomorrow will probably be the last opportunity you will have to shop with other members of your family and decide together to own the finest furniture you've seen, at a lower price than you've ever thought of paying.

Two-Piece Living Room Suites	$97.50 to $423.50

Junior Editions of the Spring Mode—Girls'

Jacket Frocks

$7.95

Silk dresses with separate short jackets . . . shorter sleeves . . . and the effective combinations of plain green, brown or blue with lighter toned prints.

The 12-to-16-year set will select these new jacket frocks for the high light of their spring wardrobes when they note such "grown-up" details as the "gigolo" waistline, high ties and little bits of puff sleeves. And of course, no parent will demur when the price is so moderate.

. . . Horne's, Third Floor . . .

"The Jacketeer"

Knickers and Sleeveless Jacket to Match

$2.95

A Horne innovation that's "registering" in a big way with schoolfellows—full-cut knickers with knitted cuffs, and a pull-over jacket after the fashion of a suede-cloth jacket, except that it's of matching material. Worn with a sweater, it's a smart and practical mild-weather outfit—and under a leather coat, a boy is ready for the coldest day!

Of good-looking gray or brown tweeds. Both the knickers and the jacket are full-lined.

All-Wool Sweaters, to complete the trio, $1.95.

SENATE TO QUIZ 'BEAR RAIDERS'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The drive in Congress against short selling and bear raids on the commodity and stock markets brought keen opposition today to proposed restrictions and a decision that a Senate committee would question bear operators.

Peter Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, told the House Agriculture Committee it might just as well close the country's grain markets as give the Secretary of Agriculture power to stop short selling. He said there had been no abuses.

Senator Walcott (Rep.) of Connecticut disclosed after a conference with President Hoover that they had gone over a list of bears on the stock exchange and that it was proposed that they be called to testify on bills to curb short selling.

Before the House committee it was recalled that President Hoover issued a statement last June saying a few wheat traders were driving the market down by short selling.

Spinach Blast Wrecks Pipes Of Furnace

They were talking about bombs and destruction at Shanghai during the dinner hour at Ben Burns' home when there was an explosion that shook the house.

Smoke poured from the hot air registers and Mr. Burns wondered what all the shooting was about until he remembered that he had tossed a can of spinach into the furnace that morning.

The furnace pipes were blown up.

SCORE CABINET FOR ECONOMY 'SNIPING'

Democrats Demand Hoover Aides Co-Operate in Move To Curtail U. S. Expenses

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Co-operation of President Hoover's cabinet will be demanded by the Democratic-controlled House economy committee in its effort to slash expenses by reorganizing government departments, Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Dem.), of Tennessee, chairman, said today.

With Byrns charging that at least three departments are "sniping" the economy program of both President Hoover and the House Democratic leaders, the Economy Committee plans to force the issue with department heads.

Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, who walked out of a Senate committee and refused to testify before the House Expenditures Committee, will be one of the first Cabinet officers called. Byrns struck back to Hurley's emphatic denial that his department has been lobbying against the proposed consolidation of Army and Navy, which Byrns says, would save $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year, Byrns said.

"When Secretary Hurley says that no one in his department has been engaged in propaganda he is not stating the truth. It is common knowledge that officers of the War Department have been buttonholing members of Congress, fighting economy plans."

Speaker John N. Garner added fuel to the economy issue between Congress and President Hoover by telling newspaper men, in answer to questions, that Democratic leaders were forced to take matters in their own hands. Garner said:

"The President said at the opening of Congress that he would submit a message on reorganization of the government. After nearly two months he sends a message asking dictatorial authority and creating some new offices. We were forced to take prompt action."

PROSPERITY AID BILL DEBATED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The $5,500,000,000 prosperity bond issue bill, proposed by Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, to finance a gigantic public works construction program, was considered today by the Senate Committee on Education and Labor.

This bill would establish a federal public works bureau to direct public work construction programs throughout the country.

The bureau would be authorized to loan $3,750,000,000 to states for public works and highway construction programs. It would also be authorized to expend $1,000,000,000 for federal and state highway construction and reconstruction programs; $650,000,000 for federal public works programs, and $100,000,000 for loans to home building associations.

All loans would be subject to the approval of the Emergency Finance Board, the establishment of which is provided for in the bill.

The President would be authorized to float a bond issue not exceeding $5,500,000,000 to provide funds for the construction programs.

not exist at that time. Our State Department would have received cress and rude replies to its:

"Stop that, or I shall send you another letter."

SENATOR HALE wants the United States to adopt a nine hundred and eighty-eight million dollar program for the Navy, and Washington says the Senate is much more friendly to the bill than it was. The shootings in Shanghai seem to have stimulated interest.

Human beings are queer. What they don't see or hear they can't imagine, usually.

If we are almost ready to spend nine hundred and eighty-eight millions because Japan is shooting at China, seven thousand miles away, how much do you suppose we should spend if somebody began shooting at us, and found us unprepared?

County Gets O. K. On Airport Bonds

Allegheny County Commissioners today were authorized to issue $500,000 worth of airport bonds to repay two emergency loans made from general county funds in September and October to provide for work at the County Airport. Application was made yesterday to the Department of Internal Affairs for the issuance of the bonds.

BANK FAILURES DROP SHARPLY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Bank failures have dropped sharply in the last two weeks. During the past eight days not a single national bank has suspended operations, according to reports at the office of Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole.

This is regarded as the most significant development in financial circles since the beginning of operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, designed to restore confidence through making loans to banks.

Over $25,000,000 in loans already has been paid out of the Treasury, following authorizations by the corporation, and many of them went to banks. Undoubtedly these loans helped the financial institutions and probably contributed to the sharp drop in failures, in the view of officials.

At the Federal Reserve Board, where reports are received, both as to state member and non-member banks, there was said to be a general improvement in the past week.

Women's Vote Bill Defeated in France

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The French Senate today again dashed cold water on woman suffrage for France by voting down the Chamber of Deputies electoral reform bill. The vote was 193 to 0.

Rhode Island Votes Enforcement Change

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The House of Representatives yesterday passed in concurrence two Republican liquor bills which repeal the Sherwood state enforcement act, but provide for liquor enforcement under a revised nuisance act, and define intoxicating liquor as that containing more than 3 per cent of alcohol by weight.

The vote was 53 to 40 on both measures. They now go to Harold A. Andrews, law revision commissioner, for approval.

Houseboat Dweller Hit By Truck, Dies

James O'Connor, 67, an occupant of a houseboat in the Ohio River at the foot of Chateau street, died in St. John's Hospital early today, shortly after he was struck by a five-ton truck that was backing into a garage at Ridge avenue and Chateau street, police reported.

The driver of the truck, Charles Trelling, of 1610 Fulton street, was released on his own recognizance and was to be turned over to the Coroner today.

Ford Sister-in-Law, Ill for Week, Dies

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Mary J. Ford, 56, sister-in-law of Henry Ford, died at Dearborn today after an illness of one week. She is the widow of John Ford, brother of Henry, who died five years ago.

Mrs. Ford was born in a log cabin in Dearborn Township, across the road from the birthplace of Henry Ford.

BILLION IN NEW TAXES SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The tax increase bill being framed by the House Ways and Means Committee today had been tentatively sliced to a total of $1,116,000,000.

In adopting this figure leaders on the committee disclosed that they counted on a saving of $125,000,000 in the economy program to help provide the $1,241,000,000 needed to balance the budget at the end of 1933.

Although the Treasury originally recommended a tax increase bill of less than a billion dollars, continued decrease in receipts resulted in a request for additional amounts.

A new draft of a manufacturers' sales tax was to be submitted to the sales tax sub-committee of the Treasury today.

After wrestling with this question for weeks, the sub-committee now is virtually committed to it. After a three-hour session of the sub-committee, Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, for the first time predicted it would recommend the sales tax to the full committee.

Sue Carol Ordered To Pay Decorator

McKees Rocks Bus Line Gets Approval

Bus lines, between Davis avenue and Brighton road to McKees Rocks, and between McCartney street, Wabash avenue and Western and Allegheny avenues, of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, today had approval of the Public Service Commission. The application of Rudolph Hanover for additional rights between McKees Rocks and Pittsburgh was refused.

FRIENDLY INN LACKS FUNDS, MAY CLOSE

200 Face Los sof Shelter Unless City Gives Aid; 'Hotel' $10,000 in Debt

Unless City Council immediately provides funds to avert it, 200 men will be turned upon the city to keep, it became known today when James McEwan, proprietor of the Friendly Inn, 1112 Forbes street, said he would have to close his doors on account of lack of funds.

Friendly Inn, in ordinary times a working man's hotel, has been "carrying" its scores of unemployed patrons for months, McEwan said, until the property has run into debt to the extent of $10,000.

UP TO COUNCIL

Dr. E. N. Clopper, secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies, today declared public funds were the only means he could see for relieving the condition and pointed out that if Council failed to maintain the Friendly Inn it would have to provide some other place.

He said:

"Not long ago Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, recommended to Council that it appropriate funds to maintain the overflow from the Helping Hand in the Friendly Inn on a cost basis of 13 cents a day, the men to be fed at the Helping Hand.

"Council has not seen fit to do so. At present I understand that there is room for about 500 more men at the Friendly Inn, and there are probably that many in the overflow at the Helping Hand. If Council fails to make some arrangement for keeping them at the Friendly Inn, which is already operating satisfactorily, it will have to provide some other place, entailing added expense and preparation."

SEEK NO PROFIT

Manager McEwan said that he and his partner, John R. Jones, were not interested in making any profit at this time, but were trying to hold the 200 unemployed men together, some of whom have lived at the inn for the past 15 years.

A nominal charge of from 25 to 50 cents a day for meals and room is asked of those who can pay, according to McEwan. But only 50 of the 200 now registered are working, he said.

The Friendly Inn is a seven-story fireproof building, equipped with restaurant, laundry, showers, dormitories, rooms and auditorium. The building is well ventilated and there is a window in every room.

3 U. S. Bills Opposed By Propeller Club

Protests against three bills introduced in the House of Representatives, which, it was said, would interfere with further development of rivers in the Pittsburgh district, were made at a meeting of the rivers and harbors committee of the Propeller Club of Pittsburgh. Two of the bills, it was claimed, would eliminate the army corps of engineers in charge of river and harbor improvements and replace them with civilians.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Suggestions to Aid in Making Report to the Government for Taxpayers as Well As Non-Taxpayers

(This is the third of a series of articles planned to give assistance in making out federal income tax returns.)

If both a husband and wife are wage earners or if both have an income they have the choice of filing either separate income tax returns or a single joint return.

If separate returns are filed by a husband and wife either one can claim the personal exemption of $3,500 or they may divide it between them. But they cannot both claim the $3,500 exemption.

Usually it is advisable to figure the tax in several ways before filing the return in order to determine which system is the cheapest for the taxpayer.

For instance, if a husband and wife were engaged in separate businesses and one showed a profit while the other had a loss, it would be to their advantage to file a joint return, since the loss would offset the profit and would reduce the amount of tax to be paid. On the other hand, if both made money it might be cheaper to file separate returns.

If one made much more than the other, it might be advantageous for that one to claim the entire personal exemption, since this might keep the taxable income within an amount taking a low rate.

The tax rate increases with the amount of income. This sometimes makes it possible to secure a lower rate by filing separate returns for a husband and wife, if their joint taxable income, after deductions, exceeds $4,000.

BANKER, WOMAN CAPTURED

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Maxwell A. Cox, vice president of the Irvington Trust Company, who is accused of absconding with $11,800 of the bank's funds, was under arrest today in Los Angeles. Police also held with him Mrs. Marie Marx, described as the wife of the military aide of the Governor of Ohio.

The two were arrested yesterday in a home where, police said, they were living under the woman's name. Police said he joined Mrs. Marx in Pittsburgh on Christmas Day.

Cox had told bank officials he was going to Williamsport, Pa., to spend the holidays with relatives. When he failed to return a nation-wide search was started. His wife, who had been under treatment in Battle Creek, Mich., came east to assist the police.

WAR SURPLUS GOODS SOUGHT

Dr. E. N. Clopper, secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies, today said he would confer with heads of various charity groups in Pittsburgh in regard to obtaining some of the $3,000,000 worth of surplus clothing the War Department is distributing at reduced prices.

Stating he was glad to hear that the House Military Affairs Committee had made the arrangements for the distribution with Secretary of War Hurley,

Under provisions of the agreement, an outfit, including shoes, trousers, underwear, caps and overcoats, may be purchased for $2.13. It is estimated there are sufficient clothes for 1,500,000.

Distribution of the clothing will be under supervision of the War Department, after requests have been passed upon by the Governors of the states.

DUNLAP NAMES TWO CLERKS

Appointment of Robert D. Lord and A. C. Meyers as specifications clerk and tabulation clerk, respectively, of the City Supplies Department, was announced today by Director W. R. Dunlap. The positions pay $3,000 and $2,250 per year. Dunlap appointed the men to permanent positions following certification of their classifications by the Civil Service Commission. Both have been affiliated with the department a year, in the classification of "temporary employes."

Four other "temporary" employes have taken examinations for jobs but have not yet been certified by the Commission.

Status of Bert M. Doty and Miss Mathilda M. Ganley, two department employes whose jobs were eliminated by Council and the Director in the 1932 budget, has not yet been decided.

WIFE CHARGES GUN THREAT

Max Moonshine, 65, merchandise broker, threatened his wife, Fannie Moonshine, 58, of 1852 Center avenue, that he would shoot her and when he went for his gun she hid, she told Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court. She asked a divorce for cruelty and indignities. The Moonshines parted July 22, 1929, six months after their marriage.

Anna M. Stevens, 300 Stratford avenue, asked a divorce from Claude H. Stevens, 630 Maryland avenue, charging desertion January 15, 1928. They were married June 10, 1922.

Other divorce suits filed were Marion McKnight against Edward H. McKnight, Benjamin Milcarek, against Lillian Milcarek, Pearle Greenwald against Albert H. Greenwald and Lizzie Devlin against James Devlin.

COUNTY AUDIT AIDS SUPPLY PURCHASING

Sprigle Reforms System of Small Order Requisitions; Gollmar Welcomes Probe

Ray Sprigle, Director of Supplies, has made some improvement in the wording on requisitions involving purchases of less than $300, he said today, as one result of the county audit being conducted by the County Commissioners.

In collaboration with M. C. Conick, of Main and Company, who is directing the audit, it was found to be good practice to include on requisitions for the purchase of supplies such things as the name of the firms which gave prices on supplies, what the price bid was and who was the lowest bidder.

Sprigle said that where supplies to be bought cost $300 or more bids must be advertised for. The bids are then opened by the County Commissioners. If the amount of any article or articles desired is for sums under $300, then purchase can be made without advertising for bids.

WORKS INVESTIGATION

Main & Co., auditors, are now at work on the books and papers of the Public Works Department, which takes them occasionally into the Supplies Department, but no audit of the latter department has as yet been started. If any irregularities in the Public Works Department have been found, the Commissioners have no report of it as yet.

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar does not object to the County Commissioners auditing his office. The Commissioners have appropriated $25,000 for a general county audit, which sum must be increased in a few weeks, if the work is to be continued.

SHERIFF FAVORS PROBE

Gollmar said he had intended seeing one was conducted, but when he learned of the Commissioners' plans, decided to await further developments. Gollmar said:

"The County Controller audits this office once a month, but I have no objection to the Commissioners auditing. This office earns the county money. Last year it paid the county $58,000 profit. I am confident that nothing more will be found in this department."

County Commissioners are expected to consider within a week or two the question of making further appropriations to permit Main & Company to continue the work of auditing all county offices.

BOGUS CITIZEN JAILED HERE

Giuseppe Galante, 40, an Italian, of Pittsburgh, was sentenced by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar to serve three months in jail and was ordered to surrender his naturalization certificate for cancellation. After serving the jail sentence he will face deportation proceedings, it was said.

Galante pleaded guilty of making a false affidavit in procuring citizenship June 30, 1931, claiming to have resided continuously in the United States five years before the date. Fabio Rozzi, of Coraopolis, a witness for Galante in his final hearing for citizenship, pleaded guilty of making a false affidavit. Rozzi was placed upon probation for one year.

Galante came from Italy in 1913, and, according to government officers, left the United States in 1921 and re-entered illegally in 1926.

MOTHER OF TEN, ACTIVE AT 94

Mrs. Sarah Gow Hay, mother of 10 children, grandmother of 15 and great grandmother of 27 children, will celebrate her ninety-fourth birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sara Wallace, 213 Laurel avenue, Bellevue, tomorrow.

Mrs. Hay

Born in Tarbert of Kentyre, in the highlands of Scotland, Mrs. Hay has lived in Pittsburgh 65 years. After her husband's death in 1884, she was a practical nurse among North Side families for more than 25 years. She is very active, her children say. Although her sight and hearing are failing a bit, she reads the headlines of newspapers, sews and darns, washes dishes, irons and dusts. She is interested in current events and can remember things that happened when she was 5 years old, they say.

Her children are: Mrs. Margaret Youlton, 73 West View; Mrs. Ella Dailey, 71, Mars; Mrs. William F. Kleber, East street; Mrs. Sara Wallace, Bellevue; Mrs. L. H. Gibson, 849 Kirkbride street, and Mrs. W. F. Taylor, of Cleveland, twins; William G. Hay, Mars; Mrs. O. F. Gundlach, Chislett street; Mrs. Harry Gernert, East street, and Richard M. Hay, Columbus avenue.

'SWEET VOICE' AUDITIONS STIR INTEREST

Many Seek News of Tests Opening Monday in Alvin; Entrants to Be Hidden

Telephone calls and personal calls by the hundreds indicate great interest in the public auditions at the Alvin Theater which will bring close to an end the search for "the girl with the sweetest voice."

There are hundreds of candidates for this honor and the WCAE-Sun-Telegraph broadcasting opportunity that goes with it.

As a background for the public auditions there will be presented a stage program in which radio stars of WCAE will appear. These will include Paul Gannon, Charlotte Shallenberger, the Lawson Sisters, Ralph Federer, Dave Olsen, Riggs and Moke, Stephanie Diamond and others.

Notification cards went in the mails yesterday, assigning each candidate to one of the seven auditions scheduled to start Monday night. As far as possible the candidates have been grouped by neighborhoods.

During their respective auditions, the girls with the "sweetest voices" will be in specially constructed booths, unseen by the audience. These booths will be hooked up with radio amplifications which will carry the voices to the audience. The girls will be identified by number only.

The judges will sit in the audience and from each night's audition, Saturday afternoon also, will select five of the "sweetest voices" for the final audition. The candidates, of course, come to the auditions by invitation, but there will be a nominal admission charge for the public. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for additional details.

Voice Judges

CHARLOTTE SHALLENBERGER

PAUL GANNON

Miss Shallenberger, soprano, and Mr. Gannon, tenor, singers who will be judges at WCAE-Sun-Telegraph auditions to select the "Girl With the Sweetest Voice," beginning Monday.

GAINS BY DRYS SHOWN IN POLL

The vote for continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment registers a gain of from 15.85 per cent, to 19.28 per cent of the total vote in the second week's returns of The Literary Digest 20,000,000 ballot nation-wide poll, as announced in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

An additional tabulation of over 450,000 votes is reported, making a total of 703,935 received for the current tally. Of this tabulation, 149,526 votes, of 19.28 per cent, favor continuance of the prohibition amendment, and 625,806, or 80.72 per cent, favor repeal.

All of the states so far reported show a majority sentiment in favor of repeal.

The second report of The Literary Digest prohibition poll taken two years ago at approximately the same time of the year, asking three questions instead of two, showed a polling of 703,935 votes, of which 191,909 were for enforcement; 224,141 for modification, and 287,885 for repeal.

(From The Literary Digest of February 27, 1932.)

Takes More Than Apple to Keep Dentist Away

ST. PAUL, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Maybe a doctor will stay away if one eats an apple a day, but as for dentists—

Well, it takes at least two apples, a pint of orange juice and a couple of bananas to keep them away, Dr. Milton Theodore Hanke, of the University of Chicago, told the Minnesota State Dental Health Association convention.

In addition, Dr. Hanke said yesterday in submitting a diet designed to keep teeth in good condition, one should eat one or two eggs, one-fourth to one-half head of lettuce, not less than two vegetables, any kind of meat, and drink one to four glasses of milk daily.

Fined as Bootlegger On Mother's Charge

Arrested on complaint of her mother, Mrs. Elfrieda Saville, 29, of 834 East Ohio street, was fined $50 by Magistrate Ray E. Schneider today. Mrs. Ida Wurdack, of 836 Concord street, had complained that her daughter was selling moonshine and claimed to have police protection.

ZIONIST LEADER DENIES HATRED

Palestine is destined to become the cultural center of the Near East, said Nahum Sokolow, president of the World Zionist Organization and the Jewish Agency for Palestine, when he arrived in Pittsburgh this morning. He denied that there was a real hatred between Arabs and Jews in Palestine, and blamed the politicians for all the trouble. He commented on the rumors of a bi-state partition of Palestine:

"England would not permit the country to be divided between the two peoples. Palestine, always an agricultural country, will be to the Near East what Switzerland is to Europe, an example of culture and security."

WOMAN HELD AS CLUBBER

Mrs. Chester Godleski, 32, of 2411 Harcum way, who police say admitted hitting Stanley Liber, 37, of 2317 Harcum way, on the head with a club when he was alleged to have attempted to stab her husband, was being held by South Side police today.

Liber, suffering a probable skull fracture, was reported in a serious condition in South Side Hospital. Police were called after Liber had collapsed in his home.

Mrs. Godleski, mother of seven, told police, they said, that she struck Liber when he attempted to stab her husband during a quarrel at South Twenty-fourth and Mary streets Wednesday night. The trouble between the Godleskis and Liber was said to have been the aftermath of suits they had brought against each other.

Mrs. Godleski's brother, Chester Mojta, 17, of 2317 Carey way, also was arrested, police said.

Prague Approves Visit By Trotzky

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The Czechoslovakian government has decided to grant Leon Trotzky, former Soviet leader now in exile in Turkey, permission to visit a health resort in this country with his family for a three-month stay.

The permission was given on condition that Turkey allow him to return to that country at the end of the three months. His ability to fulfill this condition still be ascertained through diplomatic channels.

Why "they" SATISFY

© 1932, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Written for Smokers who want Hard-pan Facts

YOU'VE seen it in Movies... on bill-boards... in newspapers... and you've heard it over the radio. The famous slogan, "They Satisfy."

It means Chesterfields click... give smokers what they want. Now let us tell you the "reason why"!

Smoke-satisfaction in Chesterfield comes from just one thing... our rigid rule of making every Chesterfield cigarette the very best that money and science can produce.

That's why Chesterfield tobaccos are the mildest that grow. That's why the paper that's wrapped around Chesterfield is the whitest and purest cigarette paper made. That's why we not only blend our tobaccos... but cross-blend them. To bring out the fine flavor that is so definitely Chesterfield.

Everything the best... that's the whole Chesterfield story. Milder... taste better... pure. Good... they've got to be, because they're made that way. That's the reason why Chesterfields satisfy.

● "Music that Satisfies." Hear Nat Shilkret's 35-piece orchestra and Alex Gray, soloist, every night except Sunday—entire Columbia Network—10:30 Eastern Standard Time.

THEY'RE MILDER • • THEY'RE PURE • • THEY TASTE BETTER • • They Satisfy

RICH AND POOR WRITE ESSAYS ON ADDRESS

Pupils of Five Counties Send Scripts in Contest; More Schools Join Daily

Children of the rich and poor, from grammar and high school and university are participating in the Sun-Telegraph's essay contest, based on the Farewell Address of George Washington.

Pupils in the schools of five counties have begun sending in their assays, the van of them arriving today. The big essay box of the contest editor is slowly filling.

New schools are daily working out their plans for the contest, and reporting the progress of the students. Supervising Principal G. A. McCormick, of the Zelienople schools, yesterday wrote that the students there are to a man working for one of the prizes.

The contest continues until April 4.

The classification and prizes:

The William Randolph Hearst gold cup and $100 for the best essay, not to exceed 100 words in length, in any class, by any person up to the age of 21 years.

For the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length, by any person between the ages of 16 and 21, in or out of school, the Hearst gold medal; for second, silver medal, and third, bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 500 words in length, by any child in any high school, gold medal for first, silver for second and bronze for third.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in any junior high school, a gold medal; for second, a silver medal, and for third, a bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in the grammar grades, a gold medal, with silver medal for second and bronze medal for third.

In each of the classes 2, 3, 4 and 5 there will be awarded 100 diplomas for honorable mention for the 100 best essays produced in each class after the first, second and third prizes have been awarded.

'Ride' Victim

PIETRO PILEGGI, 45

'RIDE' SLAYING CLUE AWAITED

Their investigation at a standstill, homicide detectives today awaited word from Utica, N. Y., for a possible clue in the killing of Pietro Pileggi, found shot to death in Emmett street, near Soho street, Wednesday morning.

Utica police were wired yesterday after it was learned the ride victim had been employed as a foreman on a pipe line there.

Lieut. Detective Frank Ferris, unable to connect Pileggi with Pittsburgh rackets, indicated yesterday that the slaying resulted from domestic strife.

The man's stepson, Dominic Defazio, 19, and his son-in-law, Ross Latonia, were held by the detectives for further investigation.

BRIDGE FINALS TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—At least half of the top-flight bridge players of the East will be out of the running tonight when the finals for the Julian Goldman pair championship are played at the Hotel Roosevelt.

They were sliced from the field in last night's semi-finals by the inexorable mathematics of contract.

Mines to Hire 700 At Connellsville

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 26.—Applications for jobs at Davidson and Trotter mines, leased from the H. C. Frick Coke Company by the Yough-Connellsville Coal and Coke Company, which plans to put them into operation within a month, are to be filed at an office which will open here Monday morning.

Company officials said preference would be shown to unemployed of the city and its immediate vicinity. Seven hundred men will be engaged to operate both the mines at capacity.

'Alfalfa Bill' Hurt In Auto Accident

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, was today nursing bruises and scratches received when an automobile in which he was riding last night ran into a ditch. The shock and minor injuries did not prevent Gov. Murray from addressing a political gathering after his arrival here.

GAS SALESMEN URGE CAMPAIGN

Less high pressure selling of appliances for gas consumption and more service to the customer was advocated today before the eastern natural gas regional sales conference of the American Gas Association in the William Penn Hotel.

Citing the inroad of electric utility companies in placing appliances eliminating gas, W. H. Hoagland, of Bowling Green, Ky., proposed a national advertising plan for the industry. He said:

"We are all aware of the success of the educational campaign our competitors, through the National Electric Light Association, have had in selling refrigeration. Our organization should think seriously of a national advertising campaign to sell and hold gas cooking service."

CHARGE RACKET IN FAIR CLUB

Accused of fraudulently selling membership cards for the Chicago World's Fair Tourist Club—to give the holders parking and clubroom privileges—Wayne Hutchens, 25, of Jackson, Mich., was arraigned in Central Police Court today.

He was held for investigation after representatives of the Better Business Bureau told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg that tourist club officials had informed them Hutchens was not connected with the organization.

City detectives were instructed to interview solicitors—about a dozen World War veterans—hired by Hutchens, and obtain samples of the club cards which he had given them to sell.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

A Nice Point in Play

Contracting went as follows: Z, Pass; A, 2-No Trumps. Knowing he probably could defeat a game bid at no trumps, and doubtful whether he could go game if he bid, Y passed. B bid three diamonds; Z, Pass; A, 3-No Trumps. Y's void diamond suit and his short hearts made him fear that after all A might go game at no-trumps. Probably he would not suffer any great loss if he played the hand at spades; so Y overcalled with 4-spades, which was doubled by A.

Y trumped B's opening lead of the Ace of diamonds. To go game entry must be had to the dummy, so Y led a heart from his own hand covered with Z's Q, and lost the trick to A's ace. The latter led the K of diamonds, obliging Y to trump. Entry was had to dummy by leading Y's last heart and playing Z's K.

Most players in Y's position would have made a fatal mistake on the next lead, by laying down one of dummy's spades, to try to pick up the obstructing honors in the hand of the no-trump bidder. Such a move would be met by A's play of the J, obliging Y to win the trick in his own hand with the Q. It would be impossible to regain entry to dummy for the purpose of again leading through A's K-J of spades; one spade trick would have to be conceded to the enemy. The best thing that Y could do would be to lay down his Ace of clubs and give his opponents a trick in that suit, to put dummy in a position to trump a club loser later on, provided A did not lead trumps. In that case the declarer would not have to lose any spade trick, but he would have to lose three club tricks and the one heart trick already given opponents. To go game safely, Y must not lead a trump from dummy, after he has gained entry to Z's hand.

Having gained entry to dummy, the declarer must lead one of dummy's two clubs, taking a finesse of the Q, and then laying down the Ace. Next dummy must trump the third lead of clubs. Seven tricks have been played, of which opponents have won one heart trick and the declarer has won the remaining six. To fulfill his doubled contract Y must win four of the remaining six tricks. Of course Y wants to win as many tricks as possible. Either method of play will yield just his contract of four odd. The first method is to lead dummy's last trump through A. Whether the latter covers the lead or not does not matter; Y must lose one spade trick and one club trick, just fulfilling his contract. The second method play is to lead a red card from Dummy, and trump it, to give Y entry to his own hand. He must lead his last club, and have dummy trump the lead. A will overtrump, and will later on win another spade trick. The only difference in methods is that one gives opponents two spade tricks; the other method gives them one club and one spade trick. In both cases opponents have won an early heart trick as well.

John Toole, 79, of Verona road, Penn Township, died in his home last night after a short influenza illness. He had been the superintendent of the Union Steel Casting Company for 28 years and was still performing those duties when taken ill. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Walsh Toole, and seven children: Mrs. H. E. Cook, Mrs. William Sims and Lillian, Anna, Edward, Francis and John Toole. Funeral services will be held Monday morning in St. Joseph's Church, Verona.

Arthur J. Hopper.

CANONSBURG, Pa., Feb. 26.—Funeral services for Arthur J. Hopper, 70, an undertaker, who died Wednesday, will be held at his home, 215 West College street, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

William Tunstall.

William Tunstall, Jr., 83, a resident of Homestead 40 years, and for 14 years a Councilman of the borough, died at his home, 330 East Eleventh street, Homestead, yesterday. He was born in Pittsburgh. For 40 years he was superintendent of the pattern department of the Homestead Steel Works. He was a member of Lodge No. 685, F. and A. M., the Fraternity Club and the First Presbyterian Church of Homestead. He leaves two sons, William, Jr., of Homestead, and Clifford E. Tunstall, of Pittsburgh, and two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Crouch, of Munhall, and Mrs. W. F. Michaels, of Pittsburgh.

ELEVATOR FALL INJURES 14

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Fourteen State Teachers College students were injured shortly after midnight this morning when an elevator, loaded with students leaving a dance at the Hotel Devoy, fell seven floors.

The students were leaving a dance on the tenth floor. They crowded into the elevator, J. T. Rathery, hotel manager, said.

"The elevator fell seven floors before the brakes caught, then it eased down to the basement before it came to a complete halt."

TAXATION BODY URGES REFORM

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Solutions for the state's tax problems were offered at the closing hearings of the Pennsylvania Mineral and Forest Lands Taxation Commission yesterday.

J. Fred Shean, editor of the Uniontown Morning Herald and Evening Genius, spoke in favor of centralization to reduce the cost of collecting taxes.

A. V. Van Buskirk, of Pittsburgh, said oil should be taxed as well as coal, and J. N. Scott, of Waynesburg, suggested property assessments are too high.

Fly Paper Buying Told in Poison Death Trial

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(Universal.)—Fly paper containing poison occupied the attention of the jury yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Margaret Summers, a widow, charged with poisoning and killing her 17-year-old nephew, Thomas Meyer.

Two witnesses, Henry Christy and Charles Hatrington, testified that Mrs. Summers had sent to a store to purchase the fly paper prior to the death of young Meyer. Christy said she instructed him to buy "the kind you put in a plate of water."

The state attached significance to the story as the boy died from arsenical poisoning.

HELP FOR HOME OWNING SOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Whether home ownership is practicable for persons with incomes of $1,800 or less will be one of the first problems considered by the Greater Pennsylvania Council's general economics committee.

After pointing out many thousands of Pennsylvanians had lost their homes through foreclosure of mortgages during the last few years and, on the other hand, that real estate mortgages formed a large part of "frozen" assets of Pennsylvania banks, Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman, said immediate consideration of the problem is imperative.

Architect Sees Glass Used in Building

Metal, glass and synthetic material are today's trend in furniture decoration and architecture, in the opinion of Donald R. Dohner, director of art engineering of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, who addressed the Academy of Scienc, and Art in the Carnegie Lecture Hall last night. Architecture, Dohner predicts, will in the future adopt the cantilever plan for buildings.

County Authorized to Assume Relief Controls

RATE CUT PROPOSAL HELD UNSATISFACTORY

POLITICS

Independents to Center On G. O. P. Control

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

Independent Republicans, who took control of the county government in the November elections, will conduct no unified, centrally-directed campaign for legislative candidates in the coming primary, led by one chairman.

There will, however, be an effort by this leadership to capture members of the Republican County Committee, as well as delegates to the Republican national convention, in order to gain control of the party machinery in Allegheny County. A victory in that adventure probably would mean the ousting of County Commissioner William D. Mansfield as county chairman, the place to be filled by some one satisfactory to Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr.

These assumptions have as yet no official foundation, but they are based on plainly visible straws showing which way the political winds are blowing.

What has been said about the attitude toward legislative contests applies to congressional fights.

Legislative candidates bearing the Independent label will be subject to indorsement of their own districts, without any effort by the county government majority to exert an influence. Barr may interest himself for candidates here and there, as, for example, his desire to see some Independent defeat Senator James J. Coyne in the Forty-third District. McGovern will do the same, an illustration being his espousal of the cause of Ralph Flinn, a potential candidate for Congress against the incumbent Edmund F. Erk, in the Thirtieth District.

Those actions will be personal and individual.

But the effort to capture the county government will be carefully organized, if plans now in the making materialize.

Legislative Omelet Is Well Scrambled

The hopelessness of trying to clarify the legislative muddles is recognized. Too many candidates have entered to offer any hope of arranging compromises, and for the county heads to step in and indorse any one, two, three or four patriots in a district where 50 or more are running would cause extreme anguish—and possible retribution. The Commissioners let the legislative omelet get too well scrambled, and if they do not act suddenly the same will be true of the delegate and committee fights.

Candidly, there has as yet been no evidence of cohesive political action in the County Building. Commissioners Barr and McGovern, the logical teammates, think along the same lines on most things, especially their clean conception of public service, but they have not sat down together and planned political action. Voters who backed them in their campaigns are beginning to comment on an apparent muscle-bound political air in the Courthouse. They are complaining of what they term a lack of coalesced decisiveness among the majority Commissioners.

True, the Commissioners have said they would not "play politics." But that does not mean they could not—and should not—take political action. Government—good or bad—is secured only through political action, and public men are justified in taking that action. The public really expects them to be political, but along enlightened lines, and is critical only when that principle is betrayed.

Furthermore, all politics does not originate with the top of the heap but, like government, should be with the consent of the governed.

Hold Third Party Move Would Benefit Hoover

Gov. Pinchot's attitude toward a state-wide fight on the Philadelphia-state organization slate, will depend in large part on the encouragement he received in Washington yesterday from Senators Borah, Johnson and others. The Governor wants delegates if there is a chance to make a fight on Hoover. Progressives recently have been decrying the hope of national success along this line, and their general sentiment is that a third-party movement would only aid Hoover.

The Governor will spend the week-end in Chicago, where he probably will have further conferences. If there is a state-wide fight it will be principally because Mr. Pinchot wishes to stir up national strife, and not because he has much hope of breaking a slate for state offices.

Former Senator France, of Maryland, says his name will be filed in every state having a presidential primary, and adds that he will have 296 votes at least in the Chicago convention. There is a presidential primary in Pennsylvania, but Mr. France cannot count this state's delegates in the list, even should his be the only name on the primary ballot. Popular vote here is not binding on delegates, unless they so agree, and no Republican delegates so far filing have signed such a stipulation.

John L. Hanna, Secretary of Property and Supplies in the Pinchot cabinet, says petitions to place his name on the Republican primary ballot were circulated without his consent. He says he is not a candidate. He would run as a dry, but leaders of that adventure in constitutional morality prefer Smedley Butler, and still are trying to get him to run.

STATE ALLOWS RELIEF FUND TRANSFER

Work Totalling $205,000 To Begin in Cities and Boroughs Immediately

All obstacles to the transfer of $500,000 worth of work from the Allegheny County Emergency Association to the Allegheny County payrolls were removed today by S. S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways, who authorized the County Commissioners to make the formal transfer as an emergency measure.

Lewis' letter, following receipt of a telegram approving tentative arrangements, permits the immediate transfer of $205,000 work in cities, boroughs and townships and authorizes the commissioners to start additional $295,000 jobs. Lewis wrote that formal application may be made later, and indicated the department's approval.

Welfare workers are making plans for raising additional funds. There will be no announcement of the amount needed until plans for procuring it have been arranged, A. K. Oliver, said.

Wednesday a preliminary statement on the needs was made by the former group to the Operating Committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association. This statement, according to Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the Operating Committee, indicated that about $10,000,000 will be required for relief to March 1, 1933, and that from this should be subtracted the funds now on hand from the last drive.

Phillips made it clear that he spoke only from memory, and he was uncertain whether all the welfare requirements were included in the figure stated.

CITY CONTINUES FURLOUGHS

The present system of furloughing police and firemen for a month at a time without pay to meet demands of the 1932 city budget will be continued indefinitely, it was decided at a conference of city officials today.

The meeting was attended by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and representatives of the Civil Service Commission.

Assured the procedure was legal, Clark said the furloughing would be continued until a new system can be worked out—probably by July 1.

As a result of today's decision, 162 patrolmen and 98 firemen will return to duty March 1 and a similar number will be laid off until April 1.

Couzens Opposes Brown Confirmation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—The nomination of Thad Brown, of Ohio, as a member of the Radio Commission was approved today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, on a 10 to 1 vote, with only Chairman Couzens opposing.

Uncles and Big Brothers Needed For Baby Bonds

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Government is printing baby bonds which will be trained not to cry during banking hours.

You can buy one of Ogden Mills' baby bonds for $50 and fan it with your hat until it grows up.

The mother of the baby bonds will be the U. S. Treasury. Ogden is the daddy. And every hoarder is invited to be an uncle.

The new broom of the Treasury figures that the way to loosen up purse strings is to grease the cord.

And anybody can afford to adopt a baby bond for $50. The hoarders will put their money back into circulation and we will get as normal as a cold barn in January.

The country will be saved and the cities will be investigated. Business will stabilize and the farmer will be able to keep body and soul together if he can get them back from his banker.

RELIEF GARDEN FUND SOUGHT

The formation of a committee to obtain sponsorship and raise funds for the garden plan to feed 1,000 Allegheny County destitute families was indicated last night by John E. Manley, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The proposed plan would obtain food for six months at a cost of $5 a family, according to Manley, and the outlay to feed approximately 4,000 would be only $5,000.

Another plan under discussion by the group of relief leaders would establish summer camps where large areas could be cultivated by unemployed.

GLENDALE JOINS RATE CUT WAR

Scott Township domestic consumers today were definitely on record in support of the state-wide fight on excessive public utility rates, following a mass meeting last night under auspices of the Scott Township Civic Association at Glendale.

The principal speakers were officers of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association. Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, state assemblyman and member of the association's Forty-fifth Senatorial District executive committee, warned that the "Public Service Commission as it now stands must be ripped apart before permanent relief could be expected." O. W. Heselbarth, chairman, and Harry Wohlwend, both of the committee, cited present abuses.

Gen. Martin Here, Hints Hope Judge Stadtfeld Will Go on Slate

State Chairman Edward Martin, in Pittsburgh today to meet Republican leaders, appeared hopeful that a plan would work out whereby Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, would be supported for election by the Philadelphia organization.

So far the Philadelphians have indorsed Judge Robert Gawthorp and former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, and reports from the East are that they are friendly to Judge Parker, of Venango County, just appointed to the Superior Court by Gov. Pinchot.

While Gen. Martin would not discuss the subject for publication in advance of the peace meeting scheduled for Sunday in Philadelphia, when he will confer with eastern and western leaders, it was understood he personally favors the slating of Stadtfeld. Gen. Martin is reported to be impressed by the arguments that Pittsburgh is entitled, in justice to the bar and in order to facilitate the business of this country before the Appellate Court, to have a judge on the Superior Court bench.

County Chairman William D. Mansfield was unable to confer with Martin today, having gone to Harrisburg at the invitation of Gov. Pinchot to discuss political affairs.

Shun G. O. P. Petitions, Democrats Here Urged

Democrats today were warned by their county chairman, David L. Lawrence, not to sign petitions of Republican candidates in the primary. Several Republicans are seeking the nomination on both tickets in order to avoid a fight in November. Lawrence said:

"I appeal to the Democrats of the county to refuse to sign Republican petitions. There are bona-fide Democrats for all the offices subject to the April primary. If the Democrats will refuse to sign there will be no Republicans on our ballot, which is as it should be."

JACKSON, Mich., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Alex Wastakiewicz, 22, confessed killer of his love rival, today was sentenced to life imprisonment less than 36 hours after he had murdered Joseph Randis.

Randis was found shot to death in his quarters at the Jackson Riding and Hunt Club Thursday morning. His roommate, Joseph Solowis, 21, also was wounded and may die.

DRIVE ON HERE FOR SMITH

Petitions to place the name of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the Pennsylvania Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for the presidential nomination are being circulated in Allegheny County. Such petitions already have been circulated in the East.

Circulation of the petitions here is linked with the effort of a substantial group of local Democrats to prevent a delegation being sent to Chicago pledged to Gov. Roosevelt of New York. This group wishes to go uninstructed, and believes its position would be strengthened should Smith get a larger vote than Roosevelt in the primary.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Whitney, the man in charge of all the "faro and roulette tables" of the New York Stock Exchange, throwed a scare into Mr. Hoover and some Congressmen by telling 'em if they stopped speculators selling something "they havent got" why it would stop the stock exchange. And people with stocks would have to sell 'em like folks with horses, or cows, or wheat, for just what they are worth. Now you can just imagine the terrible consequences of that exchange being closed. Why it would be terrible, at least 115,000,000 out of the 120,000,000 would put on a celebration that would make Armistice Day's look like a wake.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

UTILITY OFFER ATTACKED AS TOO SMALL

tween the slight rate slash and the wage reduction.

Phillips' proposals to Council in brief were:

1. A cut of one cent a kilowatt hour in the first step of the residential electric rates.

2. The sale of five-strip tickets on buses for $1 against a present straight fare of 25 cents or nine tickets for $2.

3. Modification and extension of the Traction Conference Board agreement for a 10-year period.

Study of the new proposals and comparison with older rates indicates that the probable savings to individual domestic consumers would be small and of little importance.

10-CENT MONTHLY SAVING

The exact amount of the saving would vary with individual consumers, since light charges are based on the sizes of houses. Taking the rate applying to houses or apartments of seven rooms or less it is found that individual consumers would save only 10 cents a month.

To give large users the benefits of low rates, the amount of electricity is divided into four blocks in billing domestic users. For the first block 9 cents a kilowatt hour is charged, for the second 6½ cents, for the third 4 cents and for the fourth 3 cents. A discount of 1 cent a kilowatt hour is allowed on current used in the first two groups for prompt payment of the bill.

The new rate proposes a reduction of 1 cent for power consumed in the first block only. This amounts to only 10 kilowatt hours for a large proportion of the consumers.

SMALL INCOME DECREASE

In presenting the plan to Council, Phillips estimated the reduction would save consumers $360,000 a year. Complete figures covering the company's operations for last year are not yet available. In 1930 Duquesne Light's gross income from all sources was $28,675,702. This would be a reduction of 1.2 per cent in total gross income.

After deducting all expenses and charges, the company earned $14,024,981 in 1930. The proposed cut in the rate would amount to 2.5 per cent of this. Figures for the six years ended with 1930 show net earnings increased each year during the period and expanded from $6,643,101 in 1925 to $14,024,981 in 1930.

Council Plans Closed Session to Scan Offer

Secret conferences between Councilmen and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, scheduled for today to consider approval or rejection of the Duquesne Light Company's plan to reduce domestic electric rates and motor coach fares, were postponed until Monday.

Formal action on the company's plan will be taken at a meeting of Council Monday.

The plan was presented yesterday by President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, holding company for the Duquesne Light. His offer was the company's answer to powerful pleas and demands by Council, civic organizations and consumers for economies consistent with reduced living costs.

GAS REDUCTION REFUSED

Phillips refused point blank to cut rates on gas service rendered by the Equitable Gas Company, asserting the company had not made operating costs for more than four years. No reduction is contemplated in trolley fares, Phillips said.

While Councilmen seemed disappointed in the meagre offer, nearly all refused to comment offhand.

Assistant Solicitor Charles P. Lang, in charge of public utilities litigation for the city, said he was satisfied "for the present," because rate test cases before the Public Service Commission were "too expensive" and "time-taking."

WALDSCHMIDT TO ACT

City Solicitor Waldschmidt said he would introduce a resolution at Monday's Council meeting as to what action Council should take, but would not comment on what his suggestions might be.

Councilman W. Y. English, who brought about Council's decision to start rate reduction proceedings, was absent, ill, from yesterday's meeting. Others absent were William J. Soost and Charles Anderson. Mayor Charles H. Kline had been asked to attend the parley, but word was sent from his office that:

"The Mayor is too busy."

PINCHOT FLAYS RATE OFFER MADE HERE

Governor Hopes Citizens Will Have Courage to Insist Upon Their Rights

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26.—Gov. Pinchot's statement on proposed reduction in rates by Duquesne Light Company follows:

"The proposed reduction of the Duquesne Light Company of one cent per kilowatt hour in the first bracket of 10 kilowatt hours amounts to the ridiculously small sum of 10 cents per month per meter. According to newspaper reports, the Duquesne Light Company anticipates an estimated saving to householders through this reduction of electric rates of $360,000 a year.

"The 1930 report also shows that the domestic consumers use only 15 per cent of the number of kilowatt hours generated by the Duquesne Light Company and that these same domestic consumers contribute 34 per cent of the total revenue received by the Duquesne Light Company.

"According to Maj. Pike's report, the Duquesne Light Company in 1930 took from its consumers an overcharge of at least $4,754,655. By this proposed reduction, the Duquesne Light Company offers, by its own figures, merely to cut down its overcharge from $4,754,655 to $4,394,655. If the Duquesne Light Company wanted to play fair with its consumers, it would eliminate this overcharge entirely and put in a schedule of rates that would effect a reduction of at least $4,000,000.

"Mr. Frank Phillips, the president of the Duquesne Light Company, certainly has my sympathy in his Jekyll and Hyde roles. As chairman of the welfare committee he is asking the citizens of Pittsburgh to donate $4,000,000 for additional relief, and then in his official capacity as president of the Duquesne Light Company he offers these same citizens 10 cents a month, $1.20 a year, and on his own estimate, $360,000 a year out of an overcharge of over $4,700,000.

"I sincerely trust that the citizens of Pittsburgh will have the courage to insist upon their rights. They are entitled to a substantial reduction."

Small Rate Concession Spurs Rate Foes

Disappointed in the small electric and bus rate reductions proposed to City Council by President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, opponents of excessive public utility rates today expressed renewed determination to spread the state-wide movement credited with forcing the issue to the front here.

That City Council should not act on the offer until conferring with authorities of all municipalities affected and that further negotiations should be arranged were among the suggestions.

John Rhoads, president of the Wilkinsburg Borough Council and treasurer of the state group, declared:

"No action should be taken until Pittsburgh Council confers with officers of adjoining municipalities that are equally affected by the small reduction offer. The low offer has been no surprise. It was but an attempt to stop the growing support of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association."

Harry J. Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, who attended the conference, said:

"The offer is tremendously disappointing. It is out of all proportion to reductions in other factors in the cost of living. The statement that no reduction is justified on economic grounds is not tenable. A reduction in electric rates of 10 cents per month per meter, or $1.20 per year, is of little value.

CHARGES VEILED THREAT

"The constant reiteration of Mr. Phillips of the tremendous cost of a rate case, and the statement that five years would be consumed in getting the case through to the Supreme Court, constitutes coercion and a veiled threat.

"The late A. W. Thompson wanted to start the bus business on a 10-cent fare and was persuaded not to do so by former Mayor W. A. Magee. We maintain that the people of Pittsburgh are entitled to a 10-cent fare. We oppose also any extension at this time of the Traction Conference Board agreement."

A. B. Davidson, president of Tarentum Borough Council and president of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, said:

"It is a pronounced example of what can be expected through voluntary reductions. The action has solely been due to the widespread support gained by our association. This ridiculously low offer proves the need for domestic consumers to join our group and fight excessive rates through their only weapon—the ballot box. The Public Service Commission laws cannot be changed otherwise. It is the only means of relief."

JOKE, DECLARES COX

The Rev. James R. Cox declared:

"I thought that in the face of many demands for reduction, this company would make a pretense of some sort. As usual, they do nothing substantial for the ordinary consumer. The profits have been proven to be abnormally high even on the 'write-up' values. Their offer for reduction is a joke."

Councilman P. J. McArdle:

"A half a loaf is better than nothing at all. Taking all things into consideration, a rate case would cost the city at least a half million dollars. We don't have the money to start a case now. However, I'm disappointed. I thought we would get a larger reduction than we did."

Councilman Clifford B. Connelley:

"I would have liked to see a much larger cut. Perhaps a larger slice in rates can be made at some future time. At least, let us hope so."

O. W. Heselbarth, of West End, chairman of Forty-fifth Senatorial District Committee of the State Association:

POLICE CHASER AND HIS ONLY CLUE

CHIEF MICHAEL MEHALIK PATROLMAN CHARLES HOLLERAN LIEUT. EDWARD M'DONOUGH

Braddock police examining a woman's hat, found in the street at the place where a woman was reported kidnaped. Motorcycle Patrolman Holleran chased the speeding car, crashed up and from the ground emptied his pistol. The car eluded police chasers, escaped in Braddock.

FINED FOR BILLS ATTACKING PITT

Charged with passing a Socialistic pamphlet that attacked the University of Pitt students, Charles Utecht, 18, giving his address as Downtown Y. M. C. A., was fined $10 or 10 days in jail today in Morals Court.

Mr. Utecht

The pamphlet attacked university activities. Utecht, not a student, was arrested this morning at Parkman avenue and O'Hara street. He said he was given the papers by the Socialist party in the Lyceum Building.

AUTO HITS TWO BOY COASTERS

Thomas Lococo, 10, of 92 Dawn street, and his companion, Albert Bakey, of 312 Dawn street, were recovering from injuries today suffered last night when an automobile struck their coaster wagon in Boggs avenue.

The driver of the car, according to police, was C. W. Zontine, of 625 Boggs avenue. He was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

Donald W. McClosky, 7, of Arlington and Warrington avenues, was injured last night when an automobile struck him as he ran from between two parked cars near his home, according to a police report. The driver, John A. Apt, 845 Gearing avenue, was not arrested.

Charles Lesher, 25, of 7413 Finance street, was being held in the East End Police Station today as the driver of an automobile which upset a huckster's wagon and struck another machine at Bennett street and Murtland avenue, last night.

Dry Raiders Pose As School Boys

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Federal prohibition agents say they posed as schoolboys to bring about the arrest last night of Albert Hartman, 35, on charges of selling liquor to high school students.

WATER COLORS OF CITY VIEWS ON DISPLAY

Young Painter Surmounts Handicaps of Medium With Impressive Style

By PENELOPE REDD

He does not use the medium as did the lady amateurs of Victorian days. No conventional, minute treatment of drawing-room pieces hampers this resolute young person's style.

Defenbacher does not take the city's buildings as individual and accustomed geometric forms. He observes them as they compose into units that give us a vicarious assurance of Pittsburgh's emancipation from the provincial, by their majestic masses and towering heights.

Penelope Redd

The city is seen from the north shore of the Allegheny as an impressive silhouette, and in various close-ups of the Koppers and other buildings.

Mr. Defenbacher has also journeyed to the Hill district to paint the expanse of Webster avenue flanked by nondescript city houses. Other drawings report the play of pattern in common objects such as crazy porches stacked one above the other.

$363,000 Spent for West View Buildings

Building operations in West View last year totaled $363,000, according to the report of C. A. McClain, borough clerk, divided as follows: 39 single dwellings, $234,000; 50 garages, $10,000; 4 duplex dwellings, $40,000; 3 double dwellings, $30,000; 3 stores and dwellings, $24,000; 3 additions, $4,000; 1 office building, $2,000; church, $18,000; moving buildings, $1,000.

Mt. Washington Road Barred to Trucks

To prevent vibration under one of the piers until concrete underpinning is being completed, heavy trucks have been prohibited from Mt. Washington roadway, it was announced yesterday. The pier supporting the sidewalk showed signs of settlement last week, it was said.

104 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

Pittsburgh's Department of Health today reported the following cases of contagious diseases registered during the past 24 hours: Scarlet fever, 13; diphtheria, 4; measles, 41; whooping cough, 4; mumps, 6; chickenpox, 13, and pneumonia, 23.

TALBOT BILL TEST HURRIED

To expedite a decision on the constitutionality of the Talbot bill appropriating $10,000,000 for unemployment relief and distress, enacted at the recent special session of the Legislature, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court will convene specially here March 11, in advance of the regular Pittsburgh session opening March 14.

Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer handed down an order providing for the special Friday session, which will be devoted exclusively to arguments on the Talbot bill, after an appeal was filed by Attorney General William Schnader from a ruling by the Common Pleas Court of Dauphin County, which upheld the constitutionality of the law.

Slayer Found Guilty In Second Degree

A jury, having deliberated almost two full days, today returned a verdict of second degree murder against Otto Pearson, 40, Negro, of 1732 Penn avenue, for the killing of Tillman Scott, 30, Negro, of the same address. Pearson was accused of shooting Scott December 1, after an argument.

Wandering Clairton Man Returned Home

J. E. Fretts, 69, of Clairton, wandered away from his home yesterday and later was found in Claysville, Washington County. Relatives took him home, police reported.

ENGAGED GIRL ROBBED OF RING

Pretty Olga Sugar, 25, of 4251 Composite street, Hazelwood, was robbed of her engagement ring and another diamond and narrowly escaped being abducted when she and her escort, William Peters, 30, of Painesville, O., were held up by four gunmen on the William Penn highway, near Wilkinsburg, early today, according to a police report.

After hitchhiking to the Wilkinsburg Police Station, the couple reported that four bandits in an automobile had forced their car to a stop and forced them to get out.

The girl said she was ordered into the bandit car, but a discussion arose among the robbers and after taking her two diamonds, valued at $500, she was released.

Peters lost his watch and $31 and the thieves also took his keys after locking the car, leaving the couple stranded.

While walking on the highway in Wilkins Township, last night, Frank Crawford, R. D. No. 4, Wilkinsburg, was robbed of his watch and cash by four men in an automobile, he reported.

Indian Brought Here On Parole Violation

Donald Bridges, 42, a Cherokee Indian, was brought to Pittsburgh from the Arkansas State Penitentiary today to face charges of violating his parole.

He was placed on probation by Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court, November 24, 1930, when he pleaded guilty to raising a 10-cent government rebate check to $20.

Subsequently he was arrested in Arkansas for theft of an automobile while eloping with a 15-year-old girl, according to federal authorities, and completed his term.

Symphony to Play Whitmer Composition

Bible Tales of His Childhood Inspire Pittsburgher

A wiry little man was proud today, because the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will play his composition "Syrian Night," at its fourth performance Sunday in Syria Mosque.

He is T. Carl Whitmer, of the "Thump and Daub House" at 5806 Walnut street, whose worth as a composer long since has been established by Leopold Stokowski, whose Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra played his work some years ago.

And it all has happened because a little boy decided to be a piano player instead of a preacher.

Whitmer, who has lived in Pittsburgh 22 years, yesterday unfolded the story of his composition, written over a period of more than 10 years. It is divided into four parts, the last part being first written in 1907. The music is woven around Bible stories told to Whitmer in his childhood by his father, who was a minister.

His early instruction in preparation for the ministry has left its mark on Whitmer's work. He has developed an extremely spiritual and mystical tendency, using Biblical stories for many of his themes.

As for his ability to compose, he says:

"I can't explain it. You have to oralize the sounds of every instrument of the orchestra and then set them down so that somebody else will get the same impressions that you conceive in your mind. You hear in your mind. You have about 37 different lines of color racing through your mind at the same time."

Sunday night's concert will be a kind of farewell overture, as Whitmer announced that he and his wife are leaving Pittsburgh in November to live at their country place called Dramamount, near New York.

Academy of Science Hears Engineer

In an address before the Academy of Science in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night, Donald R. Dohner, art engineering director of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, said that everyday objects, rather than flowers and fruit, should be glorified by artists in keeping with the machine age.

Great changes in architecture, among which would be the erection of buildings on the cantilever principle, were predicted by the expert. The support of the buildings by a central column would permit windows to extend the entire width of the building, he said.

Policeman Injured By Fall in Street

William Dillon, of 7 Smithfield street, a patrolman detailed to the City Treasurer's office, is in the Mercy Hospital today with a probable skull fracture, suffered last night when he fell crossing Smithfield street at Third avenue, according to a police report.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

If there's a BUZZ SAW in your Radio

WHAT'S this? A set six months old and a noise like a buzz saw cutting into radio enjoyment! This happens even to the best radios—and it isn't always static either! The roughest, toughest noises can come from just one worn-out radio tube. Have your tubes tested. Bury the noise-makers . . put in new Sylvania tubes. Sylvania tubes have been tested for a set like yours. Get them where you see the Sylvania Authorized Dealer Sign. At present low prices they cost very little.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping . . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

• • •

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol!

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic; it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

New Comfort for Those Who Wear FALSE TEETH

No longer does any wearer of false teeth need to be uncomfortable. Fasteeth, a new, greatly improved powder, sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds them firm and comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Doctor says. Get Fasteeth today at Hay-Liggett's, or any other good drug store.

Suffer no longer from PILES

A guarantee of immediate relief goes with every package of Pazo Ointment. Even severe cases of itching, blind, bleeding and protruding piles respond at once to the positive healing action of Pazo.

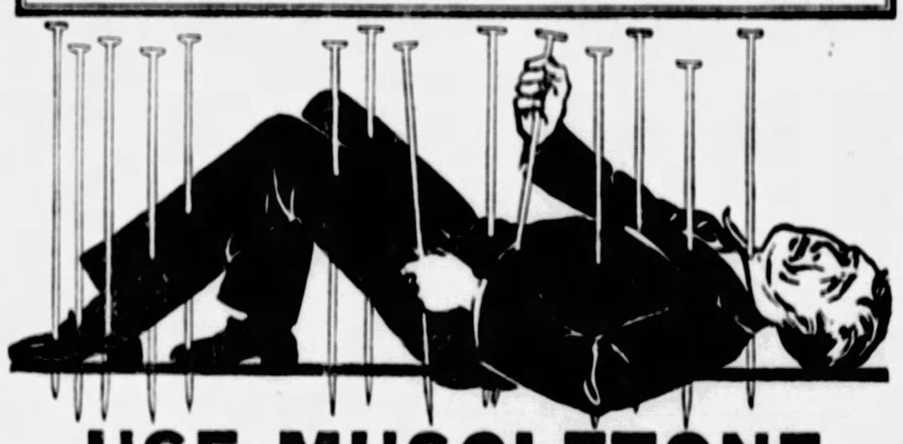
PAIN PINS YOU DOWN



USE MUSCLETONE
GET RELIEF IN 7 TO 10 MINUTES

That's the true story of millions . . . make it yours . . . don't let pain pin you down . . . MUSCLETONE fairly whisks away the pain caused by rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia and lumbago . . . bid goodbye to lame muscles . . . stiff joints . . . misery. MUSCLETONE tones you up . . . it penetrates deep into muscular fibers . . . energizes them . . . stimulates blood circulation . . . relieves congestion . . . neutralizes the accumulated toxins.

Sore Feet Also Yield to its Gentle Action

Feet hurt? Here's the best thing you can do: step into a drug store . . . get MUSCLETONE . . . apply it when you get home or, better still, apply before you get home. 30 seconds . . . that's all you need to get MUSCLETONE'S soothing relief . . . shoes and stockings can be put on immediately afterwards . . . it dries that fast, is not sticky . . . never soils or stains . . . has a nice odor.

Other things this famous doctor's prescription will do . . . it soothes and heals minor burns, bruises, itchings and eruptions . . . keeps superficial cuts and wounds clean and less liable to infection . . . it does so much and costs so little that no home should be without it.

Had Given Up All Hope, writes Mrs. Allingham

"I have been using your Dr. Chapin's MUSCLETONE for some time, and it certainly has helped me considerably with my ailment, which is rheumatism and lame muscles. I have been suffering with this trouble for many years and had really given all hope up until your MUSCLETONE was recommended to me as being the one remedy I should use. MUSCLETONE will always be in my home."—Mrs. Allingham.

Really a God-Send to Me, Says Mr. Clark

"I received your bottle of MUSCLETONE and please send me two more bottles in the same way. I find it an excellent remedy for sore and stiff muscles. Your remedy is really a God-send to me. All my pain disappeared almost immediately when I applied your MUSCLETONE."—Charles F. Clark.

Muscletone Has Been in Use Nearly 50 Years

Do you suppose it could have ever attained such a record if it didn't relieve pain . . . didn't make you feel like a new man? Get it . . . try it . . . if not pleased, return the bottle to your druggist . . . he'll refund your money. Mail coupon with 25c for a generous trial bottle.

LISTENING IN

With the Radio Editor

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT," Ripley is going to talk to America from Australia tomorrow morning. The famous cartoonist, who prowls about the world digging up the amazing facts published daily and Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph, speaks from Sydney between 7:30 and 8 a. m., in a broadcast to be heard on WCAE. The talk will be "cut in" on the Health Tower exercises period for 10 minutes at a time dependent upon atmospheric conditions.

Ripley is returning to the United States loaded down with cartoons of the strange truths he has drawn in the South Seas, from Hawaii to New Zealand.

NBC cancelled the recital by Marion Harris scheduled for KDKA at the last minute and substituted a male quartet in her place last night, too late for correction in the Sun-Telegraph's program. However, listeners who were disappointed can find solace in the fact that she appears tonight on WCAE at 9:30 as guest-artist with Leo Reisman. By a strange coincidence, tonight's broadcast with Reisman takes the place of one scheduled in January which the blues singer was forced to cancel herself because of illness. She sings three of her most-requested tunes, "You Try Somebody Else," "He's My Secret Passion" and "Was That the Human Thing to Do?"

Program Pointers

WJAS TREATS Pittsburgh to one of its greatest dance programs tonight. George Olsen and his music, not heard here since away back, start the festivities from New York at 11:30. Then at midnight come Ben Bernie and his lads from Chicago. At 12:30, WJAS itself picks up and puts on the CBS network until 1 a. m., the renowned Isham Jones and his orchestra, playing at Pitt's Inter-Fraternity Ball, in the William Penn Hotel.

Joe Sartory at 6 o'clock from WWSW has a "just-before-the-battle" interview with Willie Davies, Charleroi scrapper, who gets into the ring with Jackie Wilson for the Motor Square fight which WWSW broadcasts at 9:45.

Bettina Hall, popular young stage soprano, now featured in "The Cat and the Fiddle," makes her network debut with Leonard Joy on KDKA at 8. Another network debut by a musical comedy star is that of Lester Cole, whom Benny Rubin, as master of ceremonies, presents in the "Theater of the Air" on WCAE at 1030. Still another first appearance is John A. Quinlan's, the 18-year-old radio "find" of Paul Whiteman, on KDKA at 10.

Miss Hall

The last of the news drama series is on WJAS at 8:30. Capture of the "mad trapper" by the Royal Northwest Mounted, and the seizure of a Japanese mill by United States Marines and firing by Chinese upon Yankee bluejackets in Shanghai are outstanding presentations. A new series, "Today and Yesterday," with the same sponsor, replaces the news dramas next week.

Question Box

Is "Harry" from "Behind the Kitchen Door" the regular announcer at WWSW?—Mrs. F. H. J., Pittsburgh.

Yes. His name is Haven Haas.

Fan Fare

May Singhi Breen has written a symphonic composition featuring the ukulele to prove to that musician's union which barred her that the uke really is a musical instrument . . George Hicks, NBC announcer, was a schoolmate of Robert Short, American flier shot down in a Chinese plane while fighting the Japanese. . Frances Bowden, from the Missouri Ozarks, resents being called a "hill-billy" . . . Richardson Wright, NBC garden speaker, spends three days a week in his two-acre plot . . . Ward Wilson, radio mimic, admits he can't imitate Jolly Bill Steinke's animal calls . . . Bet he couldn't duplicate Julius Levin's bark of the trained seal.

Miss Breen

Had Pimples Since She Was 15

But One 35 Cent Box of Powerfully Healing Ointment Leaves Skin Flawless and Clear Again.

Miss Thelma King of Clinton, Pa., writes: "I had pimples on my face since I was 15 and never could get rid of them. I tried almost everything. I read about Peterson's Ointment, got a box and started to use it. The pimples went away one by one. I always keep a box handy in case they come back. I praise it highly." Generous box of Peterson's costs only 35 cents. Druggists everywhere say you can't beat its powerfully healing, soothing skin restoratives to quickly banish blemishes and leave the skin healthy, smooth and flawless.

4 Models—Rough Crepe Coat Dresses 36 to 44 — Cantons—4 Styles—Also All-over Stripes 14 to 20 — Women's Polka Dots Rough Crepes—Models 36 to 44

An Outstanding Event

$15.75

We especially invite every woman and miss who has previously paid $25-$39.50 for her individuality, to see the perfect "made to order" lines—the exquisite dots and stripes—the striking wardrobe possibilities which this extraordinary sale brings tomorrow for only $15.75!

Why You'll Want Several Dresses

17 French designers showed dots (and stripes) for Spring—they are fashion-foremost.

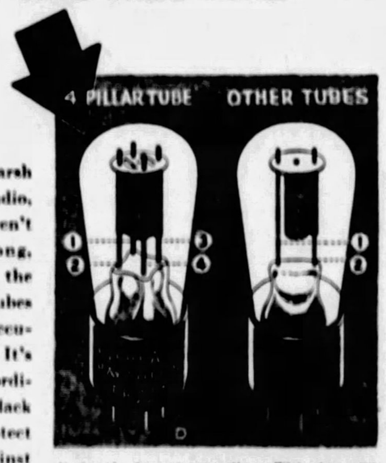
ACCURATE TUBES

CAN GIVE TRUE TONE



Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

IF THERE are harsh tones in your radio, if musical notes aren't always clear, strong, and well rounded, the chances are your tubes have lost their accurate adjustment. It's easily lost, with ordinary tubes, for they lack the strength to protect their elements against jolts and vibration.

Try EVEREADY RAYTHEON 4-PILLAR TUBES . . . they keep their accuracy permanently. They have four sturdy pillars to anchor their elements in place, one at each corner of a square. Ordinary tubes have only two supports, and are often damaged in handling and usage.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

Eveready Raytheon Tubes are Quick Heaters. Don't be fooled by tubes of the old, slow-heater type with which the market is flooded. A modern tube should heat up in 10 seconds or less. Time it yourself!

LATEST RECIPES :-: Prudence Penny Gives Practical Food Hints :-: FINE APPETIZERS :-: Menu Suggestions Fitting for Season

STUFFED MEAT LOAF—Mix together ¾ pound chopped beef, ¾ pound chopped veal, 1 beaten eggs, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Line the bottom and sides of greased loaf pan with mixture. Fill cavity with the stuffing described below, cover with the rest of the meat; lay strips of bacon on top and bake in a 400-degree oven for about 45 minutes. Serve eight.

Stuffing is made by adding 1½ cups dry crumbs, ½ teaspoon sage, ½ teaspoon thyme and salt to taste. Add 2 tablespoons melted butter and mix in 1 cup of crushed pineapple.

* * *

CURRIED FISH—Two pounds fresh cod, halibut, or other large fish, 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 small onion, chopped, ¼ cup chopped celery, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups liquor from the simmered fish, ½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder, 3 drops tabasco sauce, salt to taste, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Simmer the fish about 10 minutes in a small quantity of water, in a shallow pan; then drain. Meanwhile melt the fat and cook the green pepper, onion and celery a few minutes; add the flour and the cooled fish liquor, with water, if necessary, to bring the quantity up to 2 cups. Cook for 3 or 4 minutes, add the seasonings, and stir constantly. Remove the skin and bones from the cooked fish, arrange on a hot platter with a border of flaky rice, pour the sauce over the fish, and sprinkle the parsley on top.

* * *

BROILED HAMBURG STEAK ON ONION RINGS—Two cups ground lean raw beef, ¼ cup ground suet, 1 cup soft fine bread crumbs, 7 slices Spanish onion, ½ inch thick, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 3 tablespoons butter or other fat, 2 teaspoons onion juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon water.

Lay the slices of onion in a buttered shallow baking dish. Pour over them 2 tablespoons of melted butter or other fat, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add the water, cover closely, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit), for 30 minutes, or until tender. In the meantime, cook the chopped parsley in 1 tablespoon of butter, or other fat, and combine with the beef, suet, crumbs, and seasonings. Knead until thoroughly mixed. Mold into seven flat cakes. Place each cake on an onion slice in the baking dish, and broil under direct heat for 5 minutes on each side. Baste occassionally with the drippings. Serve at once from the baking dish. If it is not convenient to broil the meat cakes by direct heat, pan-broil them in a hot skillet, and serve on the onion slices.

* * *

ROAST STUFFED CURED PORK SHOULDER—Have a cured pork shoulder skinned and boned. Wash the shoulder and soak it overnight in cold water to cover. On removing the piece from the water wipe it dry. Lay the shoulder fat side down, pile in some of the hot stuffing, begin to sew the edges of the shoulder together to form a pocket and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing. The recipe for stuffing given below makes the right quantity for a 4 to 5 pound shoulder. Lay the stuffed shoulder, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan without water. Roast the meat at very moderate heat (325 degrees Fahrenheit) until it is tender when pierced with a skewer or a fork. A 4 to 5 pound shoulder will require about 3½ hours to cook at this oven temperature.

* * *

RAISIN STUFFING—Two tablespoons butter or other fat, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 cup finely cut celery and tops, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2½ cups fine dry bread crumbs, ½ pound seeded chopped raisins, grated rind of ½ lemon, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cook the onion, celery and parsley in the fat for a few minutes. Mix the raisins thoroughly with the bread crumbs, stir in the cooked vegetables and add the lemon rind and salt.

* * *

CHEESE SOUFFLE—Four eggs, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter or other fat, ½ pound American cheese, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 3 drops tobasco sauce.

Heat the milk, bread crumbs and fat in a double boiler. Shave the cheese into thin slices, add it to the hot mixture, and stir until the cheese has melted. Add this mixture to the well-beaten egg yolks. Season to taste with paprika and tabasco. Fold the hot mixture into the stiffly beaten egg whites containing the salt, pour into a greased dish, and bake in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F.) for one hour, or until set in the center. Serve immediately.

* * *

ITALIAN BAKED RICE—Four cups boiled rice, ¾ cup grated cheese, ½ cup chopped pimento, 1½ cups tomato juice, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Mix the ingredients well together and pour into a baking dish. Cover the top of the dish with the pulp left from straining the tomatoes. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven and serve hot. This dish will make 10 average servings.

* * *

LEMON WAFERS—One cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, beaten; 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 5 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, candied orange peel, cocoanut, chopped nuts, raisins or sugar.

Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs, lemon juice, rind, flour and salt. Roll very thin. Cut into fancy shapes. Bake in a quick oven (425 degrees F.) until delicately browned. Decorate with candied orange peel, cocoanut, chopped nuts, raisins or sugar as desired. The dough may be shaped into a roll, covered with praffin (or wax) paper, kept in the ice box, sliced and baked as needed. Makes 7 to 8 wafers.

* * *

ORANGE FAIRY SPONGE CAKE—One and one-eighth cups sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 6 tablespoons orange juice, 6 eggs, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup flour,

Boil first three ingredients to short thread (240 to 242 degrees F.). Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Continue beating while pouring hot syrup over the whites. Fold in well-beaten yolks, grated rind and lastly the flour. Bake in an ungreased tube pan 45 minutes to 1 hour in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.). Makes one cake.

* * *

ARMENIAN LAMB SHORTCAKE—Cut 4 slices of pineapple into thin pieces and add with 1 tablespoon chutney, or any chopped sweet pickle, 2 cups diced cooked shoulder of lamb and ½ cup whole ripe olives to 3 cups thick white sauce. Serve between hot buttered baking powder biscuits. Serves eight.

* * *

JELLY ROLL—Three egg yolks, 3 egg whites, beaten; 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon

Honey Frequently Used As a Substitute for Sugar

This food of the ancients is rich in protein and carbohydrates.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

Recently I wrote about the value and importance of sugar in the diet. Today I will tell you about honey, one of the best substitutes for sugar.

Honey is one of the oldest foods known. The ancients believed that the eating of honey made one wise and wealthy. Physicians h e always prescribed honey as a laxative and as a cough remedy. It is still used as a home remedy cure for many ailments.

Honey is a natural food. Young bees live on honey as young animals do on milk. It contains protein, carbohydrates and a small amount of minerals. Vitamins are found in honey.

It contains the simplest form of sugar known. When eaten, these simple sugars are immediately absorbed in the blood stream. Very few chemical changes are necessary with these sugars and consequently little demand is made on the chemistry of the body. It is for this reason that honey is easily digested. Because it is easily digested and has a sweet taste similar to sugar, it is frequently recommended as a substitute for sugar.

The amount of sugar consumed in this country has increased greatly within the past few years. A few authorities believe this has influenced the increase in certain ailments. They claim that when sugar was restricted during the war the number of ailments greatly decreased. Food authorities state that the sugar found in fruits and honey, as well as the brown sugars and maple sugars, are superior to the refined white sugar commonly used.

Honey is a concentrated form of food. One ounce of honey produces 95 calories of heat. It is frequently given to athletes after severe exertion.

As a stimulant in acute fevers, after prolonged operations, and in conditions where there has been marked physical fatigue, the value of honey cannot be overestimated. Growing children who are active and energetic and constantly burning up energy, are benefited by eating bread and honey between meals. This extra food does not interfere with regular meals for it is quickly digested and replaces the lost energy and heat.

The cultivation of honey in this country has led to the establishment of a great industry. The story of the making of honey by bees is a fascinating one. Many thick volumes have been written on this subject. It would be impossible for me, in this space, to tell you about this complicated process of nature in making a product that has not yet been imitated by man.

Honey varies in consistency, color and flavor. These factors depend upon the flowers from which it has been gathered. The color varies from nearly a white to a yellow, brown and even black. Some of the special flavors are developed from white clover, alfalfa and buckwheat. The choice of honey flavors and color depends upon individual taste.

JACK FROST CANE SUGAR

BUT HOW IT GETS THINGS CLEAN!

When you see TAG for the first time, you'll wonder how a soap so homely can clean so thoroughly. But there's no secret about it. TAG soap has only the choicest of ingredients that go to make soap. It has no artificial coloring to improve its appearance . . . no other cheap adulterants to take the place of real, honest soap . . . no naphtha to chap the hands . . . no caustics . . . no harmful chemicals. That's why it cleans the daintiest of laces and the dirtiest of clothes, why it leaves the hands soft and white after a big family wash. It has half again as much real soap as ordinary laundry soaps contain. It goes further—lasts longer—is far more economical.

TAG is more than a laundry soap. It's a general-purpose, household soap—for the dishes, for cleaning fine furniture, for washing woodwork, for the bath—an ideal soap for use wherever soap is needed. Try it. Your grocer has it. See him.

Would you take such a chance? Or have you taken it?

If you have, tell us what happened. Paula would like to know.

For there's Roger. She likes him. She enjoys going places with him. She enjoys listening to him talk. But that's all, so far as she's concerned.

"But I don't mind your not loving me now," he insists. "Marry me anyway. You'll learn to love me."

What'll she do? Shall she believe him, and chance it? Or shall she wait?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Will you please help me to decide a question I've been trying to figure out the answer to? I can't seem to decide for myself.

"Can a girl marry a man she doesn't love and be a happy and contented wife?

"For about a year I have been going out with Roger, who is 10 years older than I (I am just 20 myself), and he cares for me very much, and wants me to marry him.

"I like him. He is interesting. We have had some lovely times together, and I enjoy going out with him. But I don't think I love him, unless this thing called 'love' is something like Santa Claus or the Easter rabbit—when you get old enough you realize there isn't any such animal.

"He isn't my ideal, for one thing. But then Ziegfeld would never glorify me, so I suppose that makes that even.

HAVE SAME INTERESTS

"He knows I don't love him—that I just care for him as a friend, but he says he doesn't mind that now, and he wants me to marry him anyway.

"He believes that it is possible to fall in love after you're married. Do you think so?

"I have been thinking about it a lot, and I thought perhaps we might make a go of it, because we have a lot of interests in common, but I don't know. Suppose that some day 'Prince Charming' came along—then what?

"Of course, I suppose you'll say I have plenty of time at 20 to wait. But my doorstep isn't exactly cluttered with suitors fighting to get in, so perhaps if I don't take him I'll just sit waiting until I develop into another old maid. So what shall I do? Please help me.

"PAULA."

Shall you grab onto this man, in spite of the fact you don't love him for fear you'll be left to waste away alone if you don't?

JUST A CHANCE

Nope! Don't do it, youngster. It is perfectly true that love might come to you after marriage, but it is equally true that it is just as likely not to come—and there is no sense in a kid like you messing up your life taking any such chance.

He's urging you to take that chance because, to be perfectly honest with you, he is seeing his side of this question, and not yours. He wants what he wants, so in spite of the fact that it may not be what you want, he's going after it.

But I'll gamble that if the shoe were on the other foot—that if some woman wanted him to take a chance on marrying her without love—he'd think she had an awful nerve, and he'd probably be doing a marathon in the opposite direction!

So don't rush into marriage, Paula. Wait!

Be good friends with this man, and with other nice men. Stop worrying about being an old maid. Be yourself. Make the best of yourself. Learn to be a gay, friendly, interesting girl—and you won't lack for boy friends.

But don't marry any man you don't love.

By FAY KING

The climate has been acting up everywhere this year. They've had storms where smooth sailing is their slogan. They've had snow where sunshine should be parked all year around.

Balmy breezes have blown where blizzards were looked for. And no one seems to think that the new kind of climate that has come their way is any improvement on the old.

Man may like to seek Summer climates in Winter and Winter climates in Summer, but he doesn't want them to seek him, it seems.

In other words, the idea is that it's smart to wear a Spring hat in Winter, but not if it's Springlike weather?

Lillian Enters Peaceful Scene and Explodes a Bombshell

I think anyone seeing Dicky's reaction and mine to Lillian's knock at the door where we were revising the third act of my play would have enjoyed a good laugh over it. We were exactly like two small children caught stealing jam.

With the crumpled sheets containing the Vickers speeches, which I had eliminated from the third act, clutched tightly in his hands, Dicky looked wildly around for somewhere to thrust them out of sight. I was equally panic-stricken, but the age-old feminine instinct of cacheing things hurriedly in time of danger, moved me to instant action. Without making a sound I tore the pages from his hands, thrust them beneath the mattress of my bed, and called cheerily, "Come in."

I had hard work to keep myself from laughing aloud at Dicky's face when he realized that I had successfully concealed the sheets of manuscript, but he had composed his features by the time Lillian came into the room.

"I hope I don't intrude," Lillian said, snapping an imaginary hat brim in imitation of a small-town Chesterfield, "but I wondered if, in the transports of literary enthusiasm, you had forgotten, as do so many geniuses, as is it genii (out of a bottle), that it is nearly dinner time?"

"We were just remembering," Dicky said, "and we are going to be terribly temperamental and have trays sent up."

Lillian struck a burlesque attitude of admiration.

"I didn't know the combined Graham family had so much common sense," she said. "Shall I act as contact man to the kitchen? If you'll give me your order I'll break the news to Katie."

Dicky swept her an exaggerated low bow.

"Always the pocket first-aid package," he exclaimed. "I am feeling unusually indolent this afternoon, for some reason—"

"Unusually?" Lillian raised her eyes expressively and grinned at Dicky.

"That was the word I used," Dicky said sturdily, "and I don't care for any comments, spoken or unspoken, upon it. Let me repeat, I am not in my usual driving, energetic form and I shall be very glad to have you pinch hit for me in this culinary interview with Katie."

"If you will stop talking," Lillian drawled, with simulated weariness, "I'll consider ordering a tray for you, otherwise I shall take Madge's dinner order and let you deal with Katie yourself."

"Kamerad! Kamerad!" Dicky exclaimed, putting up his hands in an attitude of surrender. "I shall not speak again until I am spoken to."

"Be it threat or promise," Lillian gibed, "see that you keep it, Madge, what's your order?"

"Whatever Katie has," I said, smiling at her nonsense, "but tell her to make an extra hot pot of coffee."

"And you, Dicky-bird?"

"Is the scepter held out? May I speak now?" Dicky asked, and she wrinkled her nose at him.

"Yes, if you will make it snappy."

"My order is the same as Madge's, only plenty of 'seconds,' but Katie knows my little weaknesses. She'll take care of me."

"Verily, verily, God's gift to women!" Lillian apostrophized. "There never was a woman yet who wouldn't fry herself into grease over a cook stove for you."

Lillian grinned at him. "May it be permitted to inquire how the revision's getting on?" she asked.

"We welcome the inquiry," Dicky said grandiosely, "and we answer it with pride. The revision is all finished except for the copy-reading. That we are going to do after dinner. We expect to be all cleared up by bedtime except — that's a thought, Madge—I would better get that chap to copying this last act also, don't you think?"

"Yes, indeed, if you can," I answered, with a vision of Philip Veritzen's forbidding face if the third act should not have the same flawless appearance as did the first two.

"I'll telephone him while Lil is interviewing Katie," Dicky said.

"Is that a gentle hint for me to hie myself to the kitchen?" Lillian queried.

"A hint would be wasted on you," Dicky said, grinning, "anything less than a meat axe is useless where you are concerned. You will go your way when you get darn good and ready, and not a second sooner."

"Then why wait for me?" Lillian queried, and there was something in her voice which told me subtly that for some reason she was anxious to have Dicky leave the room before she did.

"Because, my angel," Dicky said, "I begrudge every moment spent away from you."

"Go on begrudging and see if I care," Lillian told him. "Madge will be 'all a twitter' until she finds out about your man copying this work."

"And you will be 'all a twitter'," Dicky said, shrewdly, "if you can't get me out of the way so that you and Madge can settle the present world crisis without benefit of president or premier. All right! I'll beat it."

He went out of the door, which had scarcely closed behind him, before Lillian said tensely, "Is everything really all right? Were you able to work with him? He looks peaceful, so I know he didn't spot those speeches of Vickers which were so devilishly similar to his."

:-: How to Keep Well :-:

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Parrot Fever Danger Is Ended

During the year there have been no epidemics of "psittacosis," or "parrot fever." However, occasional cases are still reported and many persons hesitate to purchase parrots as pets.

Dr. Copeland

For people who love birds, this problem is a serious one. In order to reassure them, I would say that there is much unnecessary alarm concerning this matter.

The disease is not a new one. The last outbreak was the most severe ever recorded, but it is believed that such an epidemic will never occur again. Definite steps have been taken towards the prevention and spread of this disease.

The ailment is passed from a parrot to a human. Only a sick bird transmits it. Those responsible for this disease are sick birds that have been recently imported. As a rule, they show signs of illness, such as loss of appetite, roughing of feathers, sometimes cough and diarrhea.

Humans who have been infected are taken ill from six to 15 days after exposure. The early symptoms closely resemble the onset of a severe cold or influenza. There may be violent headache, nausea and fever.

Frequently these cases develope a mild pneumonia. This form of the disease is dangerous to elderly persons. In a simple case, the pneumonia clears and the fever and other signs gradually disappear during the space of eight to 10 days.

If you are anxious to purchase a parrot or other bird for your home, it is important to determine how long the animal has been in this country. If it is a recent importation it is best to determine from the health authorities whether or not it would be safe to purchase the pet.

According to the law these birds now must be examined before they are shipped to us, and again before they are landed. If there is any doubt as to their health, they are kept in insolation until it has been definitely determined they are free from this disease.

Many countries, including the United States, for a time prohibited the importation of any kinds of birds likely to carry the infection. This temporary prohibition enabled the health authorities to control the epidemic. Importation is now permitted, but only under strict supervision. Proper care and sanitation during shipment is definitely prescribed. In consequence, the birds arrive in the best of health.

Please remember that although there is no danger attached to the purchasing of birds now, the only sure means of protecting society against the disease is to avoid contact with recently imported birds. This is particularly important if they appear in any way to be sick.

Birds that have been in this country for more than six months and have not been in contact with newly arrived birds, may be considered as free from the disease. The disease is never seen in birds that have been raised here.

There is no reason why you should not have one of these pets in your home, provided you take these necessary precautions.

Household Hints

Discolored marble washstands should be scoured with wet salt.

For burnt cakes or bread rub while still hot with a nutmeg grater; this quickly removes the burnt crust.

If a shoe pinches at any particular part apply a piece of cloth that has been wrung out in very hot water. This will cause the leather to expand bringing instant relief.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Any good blend soap can be used for the shampoo. It is more conveniently rinsed from the tresslocks if it has been melted and allowed to stand for a day or so. Green soap, highly recommended as a shampoo agent, isn't green; it is the consistency and color of vaseline and kicks up a dreadful mess and bother if it isn't first dissolved in alcohol.

When indulging in a perfume that is a bit powerful, keep in mind that the wearer's nose gets used to it, while the other fellow's nose may suffer a knockout. Pungent aromas have been fashionable of late, though in the past they were looked upon as evidence of vulgarity. Just as well to be on the safe side by selecting a delicate flower scent.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a woman has received her interlocutory decree of divorce, should the wedding ring be discarded?

And upon receiving such interlocutory decree of divorce, where should the previous engagement ring be worn? On what finger and on what hand?

MRS. J. R.

This is entirely as the woman herself decides, for it is a question of her personal reaction about symbols of this kind. Some women continue to wear them, as sacred symbols of happier days, and some find the association of the rings too sad or distasteful in some personal significance to wear them.

If they are worn at all it seems rather forced to wear them on the other hand. For they still would register their significance to the wearer.

Umbrella Carrying

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A man friend of mine says that it is not a man's place to carry a woman's umbrella when it is closed. I said that it is his place. Who is right? M. B.

Most women don't like to "inflict" this social duty on a man, and I think that they are right. I suppose that if we wish to be very finicky about this social duty, we might say that the man should carry the umbrella for a woman, but usually she carries her own umbrella. And really it is better if she does, especially better for her popularity.

The TRUTH about Gargling

A Sore Throat needs MEDICINE

A sore throat may be serious. Most people know this, and are careful to gargle at the first sign of any soreness.

Throat specialists, as well as physicians generally, use Bayer Aspirin for this purpose because it has definite medicinal action. It relieves the soreness; allays the inflammation; and reduces the infection.

Think of these medicinal properties of Bayer Aspirin when you want throat comfort and protection. Gargle promptly—with a gargle of proven medicinal value. A mild case of sore throat which one good Bayer Aspirin gargle could clear-up completely, can take a severe turn while you are seeking relief through some bland refreshant of no more therapeutic value than the use of so much sweetened water.

You know how quickly Bayer Aspirin knocks any cold. It is just as marvelous a medicine for sore throat. A few tablets crushed in half a glass of water makes the best gargle you can buy. Doctors will tell you that. And the doctor has a reason for specifying genuine aspirin tablets bearing the Bayer cross.

Any DOCTOR will confirm these Facts

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

towel. When cool sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

* * *

Place potatoes in pan. Add other ingredients. Bake 25 minutes.

* * *

COCOANUT QUEENS—Two-thirds cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, 4 tablespoons orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon grated lemon, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2-3 cup cocoanut.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and beat two minutes. Add other ingredients. Chill dough. Break off bits of dough and flatten down, three inches apart, on greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderately slow oven.

* * *

PEAR SUPREME SALAD—One package lemon-flavored gelatin mixture, 1½ cups boiling water, 1-3 cup canned pear juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup thick cottage cheese, 6 pears, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons chopped pimentos, 1-3 cup blanched almonds.

Pour water over gelatin mixture and stir until dissolved. Add pear juice and lemon juice. Allow to cool and thicken a little. Mix cheese, salt and pimentos. Form into six balls and place in cavities in pears. When gelatin mixture begins to thicken, pour enough into deep mold to coat the sides. Arrange pears, add rest of gelatin mixture and sprinkle with almonds. Chill until stiff. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

* * *

FRUIT MEDLEY SHERBET—One cup orange juice, 1 cup mashed bananas, ⅔ cup lemon juice, 1 cup crushed apricots, 3 cups sugar, 2 cups water, 1 cup cream.

Boil the sugar and water three minutes. Cool. Add the fruits and fruit juices. Pour into sterilized freezer and turn the crank until mixture begins to freeze. Add the cream and freeze until stiff. This sherbet can be made in the mechanical refrigerator if whipped cream is added to the mixture after it has begun to freeze, and if the whole mixture is stirred every 20 minutes. It will require four hours to freeze.

* * *

MOCHA GINGER DROP CAKES—One and one half cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon ginger, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, 1 egg, ½ cup boiling water.

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with soda, salt and spices. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add molasses and beaten egg. Add dry ingredients and water alternately. Place in small greased muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees 20 to 25 minutes. When cool, slit open with a sharp knife and insert 1 teaspoon of raisin filling. Press together again and cover with a mocha frosting made by creaming 1-3 cup butter together with ½ cup confectioner's sugar gradually. Combine with 1 beaten egg yolk, pinch of salt, 1 tablespoon of boiled coffee and 1 tablespoon of cocoa. Mix thoroughly and add an additional cup of confectioner's sugar, working it in well.

* * *

STEAMED DATE PUDDING—Three eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup dates, 2-3 cup nuts, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Beat eggs and add sugar. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into buttered pan. Set in pan of hot water and bake 40 minutes in moderately slow oven.

* * *

CORN A LA SOUTHERN—Two cups corn, 3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ cup cracker crumbs, 1 egg, 2-3 cup milk, 3 tablespoons butter, melted.

Corn cut from cob can be used, or canned corn is suitable. Mix butter and crumbs. Add rest of ingredients and pour into buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in baking dish.

* * *

DEVILED EGGS—Six hard-cooked eggs, 3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 3 tablespoons celery, 3 tablespoons chopped olives, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 4 tablespoons salad dressing, 4 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise. Remove and mash the yolks with fork. Add remaining ingredients, excepting egg white cases. Refill cases and chill. Serve on a platter and garnish with parsley.

* * *

EGG RELISH FILLING—Two hard-cooked eggs diced, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon choppen onion, 3 tablespoons chili sauce, 4 tablespoons salad dressing, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Mix ingredients, spread on buttered slices of white bread. Arrange sandwich fashion.

* * *

CORNED BEEF MOLD—Dissolve 1 package lemon gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, add ¾ cup cold water, ¼ cup vinegar and ½ teaspoon salt and a few grains paprika. When cold and about to set fold in 1 12-ounce can corned beef shredded or cut in small pieces. Mold. Serves six or eight.

* * *

SAUERKRAUT SOUP—Two cups sauerkraut, 1-3 cup carrot, 1-3 cup turnip, 1½ cups potatoes, ½ onion, 1 quart water, 5 tablespoonfuls butter or other fat, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Wash and prepare vegetables by cutting them in small pieces. Mix vegetables (except potatoes) and cook 21 minutes in the butter or other fat. Add water and potatoes and boil one hour. Add sauerkraut. Beat with spoon or fork to break vegetables. Add salt and paprika. Serve hot with croutons.

* * *

TURKISH STUFFED EGG PLANT—Cut tops off 2 small egg plants, remove and chop the inside, add ¾ cup bacon, diced and cooked until golden brown, and an equal amount of bread crumbs. Bind with 1 egg, season with salt and pepper to taste. Fill egg plants with the mixture. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake one-half hour in a hot oven. Serves 5.

* * *

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD—3 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup peanut butter, 1½ cups milk. Cream the peanut butter and milk. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into loaf pan lined with wax paper. Let rise 15 minutes. Bake 50 minutes in moderately slow oven.

* * *

PINEAPPLE FILLING—⅔ cup chopped pineapple, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup water, 2 tablespoons butter. Blend the sugar and flour. Add rest of ingredients. Cook slowly and stir constantly until mixture becomes thick and creamy. Use as a filling between two baked cake layers. Cover with boiled frosting.

* * *

VEAL EN CASSEROLE—Flatten with a potato masher 4 slices of veal cutlet. Put into a casserole with 3 slices of ham, (cut small and thin) ½ cup white stock, 1 carrot and an onion, and a little minced parsley. Cook in the oven for 1 hour basting frequently. Strain the sauce, reheat in the casserole, add green peas previously cooked and serve.

* * *

BANANA CAKE—One-half cup fat, 1½ cups sugar, 2 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons sour milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup mashed bananas, 1 2-3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ cup nuts, 2 egg whites, beaten.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add yolks, milk, vanilla, salt, bananas and flour. Beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and pour into greased pan. Bake 35 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve cold or warm. Plain or whipped cream can be served with this dessert.

* * *

GINGERBREAD—1-3 cup fat, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup molasses, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2½ cups soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Pour into shallow pan fitted with waxed paper. Bake 35 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve warm or cold. Whipped cream can be served with gingerbread, if desired.

* * *

ESCALLOPED CARROTS—3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2½ cups milk, 4 tablespoons cheese, cut fine, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups diced cooked carrots.

Melt butter and add flour. Blend and add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add cheese, salt and pepper. Mix well and add carrots. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

* * *

NEW CHICKEN SALAD—One and one-half cups cooked chicken, diced, 1 cup celery, diced, ½ cup pineapple, diced, ¾ cup mayonnaise, 8 ripe olives.

Toss chicken, celery, and pineapple lightly together. Chill. Before serving, add mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with olives and additional mayonnaise. If desired, decorate with narrow strips of green and red pepper. Serves 8.

LOW RATING MAY BE AID TO PIRATES

THE PIRATES WILL have one thing in their favor this year. They won't be under the handicap of having too much expected of them. Being picked as a strong candidate for the highest honors puts a team as well as an individual at a disadvantage in sports. All rivals train their biggest guns on the popular choice as a common enemy, and the favorite is kept under a constant strain trying to live up to what has been predicted. You can do a whole lot more when you can feel that even if you don't land on top you're not going to be denounced as a bitter disappointment.

Gabby Street

So it may be termed a break for the Bucs that they are not being taken very seriously by the various managers. John McGraw eliminates the locals by saying the Giants will have the Cards, Cubs and Dodgers to fight; Rogers Hornsby and Max Carey pick the same four teams for the first division, and now Gabby Street puts the Rovers even lower by expressing the opinion that the Braves will beat them out for fifth place.

IN PREDICTING ANOTHER pennant for his Cardinals, Street says there won't be any real soft spots in the National League. "I pick the Giants to run second and give us the stoutest competition," he adds, "with the Cubs likely to finish third and the Dodgers fourth. Boston probably will top the second division, with Pittsburgh sixth, Cincinnati seventh and the Phillies last."

It won't hurt the Pirates a bit to be looked upon as a club not to be feared, and the lower they are classified the more heavily is it likely to work out in their favor. There is always an advantage in any sort of competition for the club or individual that has been underrated. Most can be accomplished when least is expected.

JOINING THE SECOND or regular Cub squad en route to the coast, Burleigh Grimes disclosed that in reporting to his sixth National League club he is one pastimer who will have to build up instead of reducing in camp.

The veteran spitballer reported under pitching weight and plans to put on about 10 pounds while conditioning. He says that 15 hours of hard work per day on his farm have kept him from taking on any poundage during the off-season.

CATCHING STYLES IN baseball haven't changed much since Roger Bresnahan brought in shin guards 25 years ago, but Gabby Hartnett, Cub mackman, has turned up in the Catalina camp with a pair of skates that may establish a new custom among backstops. Gabby's innovation is based on motives of economy. Tiring of wearing out the toe of his right shoe while dragging it along the ground in making throws, he has had one fitted with a toe plate, such as the pitchers use. If the experiment is a success it will reduce considerably the annual cash outlay for footery.

Nap Rucker

NAP RUCKER, one-time southpaw of the Brooklyn club and ranked by many veteran baseball men among the best lefthand pitchers of any period, paid a tribute to Honus Wagner the other day while visiting at the training camp of his old outfit in Clearwater, Fla.

"There are more good players in the National League now than when I broke in," Rucker said. "But one of the oldtimers has not been replaced. His name is Honus Wagner. The Flying Dutchman was the best righthand batter I ever saw."

RUCKER RECALLED THAT 25 years ago this spring he reported to the Brooklyn club as a recruit pitcher. His contract called for a salary of $1,200 with a provision for an increase of $600 the following season if he made good.

That Brooklyn club of 1907, which brought Rucker into the majors, had a strong Pittsburgh and ex-Pirate coloring. Among the players were Pitcher Jimmy Pastorius and Second Baseman Otto Jordan, of the South Hills; Shortstop Phil Lewis, local high school product, and Second Baseman Whitey Alperman, of Etna. In addition the manager was Patsy Donovan, former Buccaneer pilot and outfielder, and there were two other ex-Pirates on the roster in Pitcher Doc Scanlon and Outfielder Jack McCarthy.

IF ANYTHING SHOULD go wrong with Sir Malcolm Campbell's racing automobile while he is on one of his daring record drives, there won't be any chance to slow up for repairs. It will be a case of going right on, with everything in the hands of the fates. For Sir Malcolm himself says he wouldn't know anything about the trouble. "I could not tell if anything happened to my car going 270 miles an hour," he said. "I can't hear it. Once I stripped high gear going above 200 miles an hour. I did not know it, in spite of the tremendous increase in motor revolutions, until fire came shooting as from an acetylene torch into my driving compartment."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL PLAYERS continue to yield to the financial lure of the wrestling game. The latest is Herman Hickman, star Tennessee guard. He had planned to try for West Point but was induced to take up grappling and will spend the next few months in Boston learning holds and other wrinkles.

Hickman, though two inches shorter than 6 feet, weighs 240 pounds, and in spite of his bulk moves about with the quickness of a cat. He is not going to give up football, as he has practically signed with the champion Green Bay Packers for next fall.

MOSE BUTCH, local battler, is said to have finally decided to accept the invitation recently extended to him to enter the elimination

JADICK RALLIES, WINS

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Feb. 26. (AP.)—Johnny Jadick, ruby of the middleweights in this state and New York, crawled up from the mire after a round at seven in the first night to win the unanimous decision of judges and referee in 10 rounds of hard punching with Wilkes Barre O'Connor, Carbondale southpaw, here last night.

LIGHT SOCCER TESTED

A night soccer game will be staged at the South Park athletic field at 8 o'clock tomorrow when Cincinnati opposes Home Club. The lighting equipment at the park at present is of a temporary nature, but Director of County Parks Paul R. Ritz is contemplating the installation of permanent flood lights at the South Park field.

MAXOS ON WAY TO RECOVERY IN HOSPITAL

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

John Maxos, a young Greek wrestler, was reported resting comfortably and on the road to recovery today in the West Penn Hospital, where he was taken following a bout with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight champion of the world, in Motor Square Garden last night.

It was said the matman was suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, caused by blows behind the neck and a series of headlocks that produced his fall after 27 minutes 25 seconds of wrestling.

Maxos lay spread-eagled on the mat for fully 10 minutes following the fall, while a crowd of 2,500 milled about the ringside. Dr. J. W. McMeans, the boxing commission physician, then ordered the wrestler taken to the dressing room, which was done by a squad of police. When Maxos failed to revive, he was taken to the West Penn Hospital in an ambulance. He regained consciousness several hours later.

X-ray photos of his injuries were to be taken today.

OPPONENT ARRESTED

Meanwhile Lewis was arrested late last night and released after posting a cash forfeit of $500. He then left for Philadelphia, where he meets Jim McMillin tonight.

When Maxos failed to get up after Lewis was declared the winner, the crowd at first thought he was acting and was inclined to view the incident lightly. However, as the minutes sped on, the situation took on a serious aspect. Dr. McMeans, after examining the stricken wrestler, said he found his heart and pulse normal and his mucular control and reflexes in a good state. His head would not clear, however, and it was decided to summon an ambulance. Under the ministrations of Dr. McMeans and Dr. L. H. Landon, the wrestler snapped out of the coma in the hospital.

VICTIM OF HEADLOCK

Co-promoter Ray Fabiani said he feared Maxos had been the victim of wrenched neck vertebrae or brain concussion from Lewis' powerful headlock, which some years ago sent a string of his opponents to hospitals, but has not been much in evidence lately.

Maxos had put up a good exhibition with his veteran opponent until he was injured. Lewis, however, was able to gain the upper hand whenever he chose.

The accident climaxed the most successful mat show staged here in years. While the performers still resorted at times to unnecessary punching and slapping, and a couple of them rolled out of the ring over the press table, there was less so-called "showmanship" and more wrestling than marked the shows held at the Garden and Hickey Park last season and the unexpectedly large crowd seemed to get a kick out of the bouts.

STEELE BEATEN IN UPSET

An upset of the dope developed in the semi-final, when Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football star, won the referee's decision over Ray Steele, of California, a topnotcher, who the night before had wrestled 90 minutes to a draw with Strangler Lewis in Boston. This was the roughest bout of the card and Speers merited the award on his more earnest efforts. It was apparent that Steele was the better man, but he didn't do enough work to deserve the decision. Dr. A. R. Crotty, one of the judges, voted for Steele, and John Sills, the other judge, for a draw, while Charles Dickerhoff, who refereed all of the bouts, scored the bout for Speers. Steele left the ring in a high dudgeon over the outcome and drew down the jeers of the crowd.

Earl McCready, of Canada, threw Nino Darnaldi, of Italy, with a body scissors and arm lock after 16 minutes 22 seconds of grappling in the [illegible] bout, and Tolis Kwariani, of Russia, outpointed [illegible] in the [illegible] event. All of the way in the opener. The preliminaries were limited to 20 minutes each.

Announcement was made that the next show will be held March 10.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A HOLE-IN-ONE IN A BLIZZARD.—Ted Hart, club champion of Shuttle Meadows, New Britain, Conn., scored an ace on the sixth hole under unusual circumstances. In the blizzard prevailing, the temporary green was white with snow and the air full of whirling flakes. The ball, a blind shot from an elevated tee, disappeared in the snow. The green was found to be marked with the trail of the ball, which had landed dead on the pin and moved forward enough to sink. Hart's five companions vouch for the authenticity of the drive.

TOMORROW: THE EATER OF 75,000 PANCAKES

PIRATES' PARTY NEARS CAMP

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 26.—The long trek across the country has just about ended for the second squad of Pirate players en route to the Paso Robles training camp site. The squad will arrive in Seligman, Ariz., tonight, with just one more stop remaining before they reach Paso Robles tomorrow afternoon.

The players are standing the arduous grind of the trip well, with everybody enjoying perfect health. The squad has been increased by five since leaving Pittsburgh, Tony Piet, infielder, joining them at Chicago; Paul Waner and Tommy Thevenow greeting them at Kansas city, while Lloyd Waner and his wife entrained at Amarillo.

WANERS IN GOOD SHAPE

The Waner boys are in excellent condition and look fit and ready for immediate work. They have been fishing and working out daily at Miami Beach for the last month, and are both burned as brown as berries.

Paul, since joining the squad at Kansas City, has been holding the remainder of the squad enthralled with thrilling fish stories. Thevenow and Piet also are in prime condition. Both Tommy and Tony did quite a bit of hiking during the winter months. As a result, they managed to stay in good shape. Beautiful summer weather has greeted the party since it left Kansas City with Old Sol shining brilliantly throughout the day.

CORSAIRS FRISKY

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 26.—Manager George Gibson, of the Pirates, is instilling real pep into the Buccaneers here for spring training. In an effort to develop an aggressiveness in lung power, Skipper George is doing his best to educate the Pittsburgh players to talk while playing—an art of which he was a master in his own active days.

From the moment practice begins when he drives grounders all over the local lot, Gibson insists upon plenty of noise and gets it. Spectators in the stands declared it was the peppiest practice they had seen since the Corsairs invaded the Almond City nine years ago.

Southpaw Larry French and Catcher Hal Finney, both talkative by nature, formed one of the battery relays and their line of conversation was amusing as well as inspiring.

CRANDALL "PULLS ONE"

Jim Crandall was ordered to wear a pair of smoked glasses in yesterday's drills. He suffered from eye pains as the result of Wednesday's glaring sunlight and was given some drops with which to treat the pained optics. By mistake he used the wrong remedy when he prepared the eyewash. An application of pure water prevented further harm.

JESS WILLARD 'BROKE'

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Appearing in referee's court to explain failure to pay a $106 judgment, Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, produced two pennies and said that, besides the quarter necessary to get a motor car out of a parking station, it was all the money he had. The car belongs to his daughter.

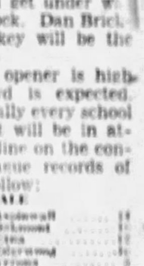
By JULIUS LEVIN

The twentieth annual elimination basketball series of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League will get under way at the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight when Swissvale High School, champion of Section XI, engages East Pittsburgh High School, champion of Section XVII, in one of the two first-round games on the schedule.



Johnny Coleman

The other first-round contest will be between Leetsdale, champion of Section II, and Zelienople, champion of Section XVIII, to be played next Tuesday in Beaver Falls. The game originally was carded for Monday, but was postponed a day to avoid a conflict with the Duquesne University-Geneva College game.

SWISSVALE FAVORITE

Swissvale, coached by Ed Paul, former Wash.-Jeff. star, will take the floor a slight favorite over East Pittsburgh, due to the fact that it played in a tougher section than Johnny Coleman's quintet. Swissvale won its first 11 league games, dropping only the final contest when the regulars were rested.

East Pittsburgh went through its sectional schedule without meeting a reverse, winning eight successive games. Both teams are in the best of physical condition.

Paulie announced today that Pscholinski or Loughran and Bob Emerick will start at forwards, Nickel will be at center and Rosenbloom and Fullen at guards.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

The contest will get under way promptly at 8 o'clock. Dan Brickley and Leo Mackey will be the officials.

Interest in the opener is high and a large crowd is expected. Groups from virtually every school in the tournament will be in attendance to get a line on the contestants. The league records of the two schools follow:

By CARL W. SHATTO

When the Yellow Jackets invade Cleveland for their last game of the season there, tomorrow night, the burden of proof will be on the Indians. The local skaters may not gain the International Hockey League title playoffs, but by handing the Syracuse Stars a 3-1 setback at Duquesne Garden last night they served notice on all and sundry that they do not propose to finish in the cellar.

The win enabled the Canary Shirts to ease past the Indians and slip into fifth place, and stamped them as the leading challengers of teams now camped in the playoff positions.

BAXTER SHINES AGAIN

Had it not been for feats of magic performed by Goalies Baxter and Grant, of Pittsburgh and Syracuse, respectively, the score of last night's fray well might have been 12-10. Grant robbed Gordy Fraser, Cliff Barton, Joe Matte and certain other locals of what appeared to be certain goals after they had carried the puck right up to the door of the coop, and as for Sonny Boy Baxter—he spent most of the evening tripping Syracuse players.

Sonny Boy was not penalized for his tripping activities for the simple reason that a Star was smashing into him, trying to jam the puck into the cage, every time that he tossed a foeman on his ear. It may be assumed that the visitors were shooting from extremely close range. The assumption is correct.

The Pittsburghers who convinced Grant that Syracuse was destined to be scored upon were Tory Gregg, Doc Romnes and Eddie Rodden. The Gregg and Romnes tallies were caged in the first period on assists from Whitey Fields and Rodden, respectively, and when they let go their shots, they were close enough to see not only the whites, but also the pupils of Grant's eyes.

Gregg back-handed the disc into the net as he buzzed past, at 11:25, and Romnes faked the Stars' net guardian into falling toward a far corner before he calmly shoveled the puck into the nearest section of the coop.

RODDEN BOOSTS SCORE

At 12:55 in the second stanza Rodden boosted the Jackets' lead to 3-0 by scoring on a spectacular solo effort. Eddie blazed down center ice to get into the scoring zone, and swerved to the right as he neared the cage. A visiting guard clambered aboard Rodden's shoulders as he got off his shot, but the puck nestled in a far corner of the coop as the little center, flat on his back, skidded into the end boards.

Baxter displayed more varieties of stops than a wrestler has holds before Howe finally beat him for a goal just one minute and 30 seconds before the final gong. Howe's shot climaxed a combination play in which Martin and Savage also participated. Before and after this effort Baxter caught enemy shots, golfed others back at his tormentors, pitched some into the stands and, all in all, disported himself in a manner very painful to the visiting sharpshooters.

Boll, Downie and Howe were the invaders who suffered most from Baxter's larceny tactics. Boll, incidentally, is Buzz Boll, a wing obtained from the Toronto Marlboros and making his first start in a Syracuse uniform.

LAST APPEARANCE HERE

Last night's game marked the Stars' last appearance here this season, as well as Pittsburgh's first win over Syracuse here. The Jackets now are two games down with 11 to go in the play-off berth race.

John Denni, Pittsburgher who finished fourth in the Olympic 10,000 meters skating race, gave a speed skating exhibition between the second and third periods. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3.		Syracuse—1.
Baxter	G	Grant
Fraser	D	Hughes
Reise	C	Savage
Rodden	C	Wale
Romnes	W	Martin
Barton	W	Marks

Score by periods:

Pittsburgh	2	1	0—3
Syracuse	0	0	1—1

Spares—Pittsburgh: Arbour, Dunning, Locking, Matte, Gregg, Fields, Proudfoot. Syracuse: Boll, Pudwell, Dumbrille, McBride, Howe, Teasdale, Downie.

Scoring—First period: Gregg (Fields), 11:25. Romnes (Rodden), 15:20. Second period: Rodden (unassisted), 12:55. Third period: Howe (Martin, Savage), 18:30.

Penalties—First period: None. Second period: Teasdale, Rodden, Fraser, Matte. Third period: Fraser, McBride, Downie, Gregg.

Referee—Fhadale, Detroit.

McKees Rocks Floor Rivals in Contest

In the lone remaining first round tilt, C. E. Henninger, of P. A. A. was slated to meet T. R. Kennedy, K. A. C. this morning.

The Miles Bryan High School basketball team will meet the St. Frances de Sales quintet tonight in a benefit game for the needy of that section.

The two teams have been rivals all season and the game in the Miles Bryan High School gym is expected to draw a capacity crowd.

VANITIES IN TOURNEY

The Guidemen Vanities will hold a special practice session tonight prior to their trip tomorrow to Cleveland, where they will participate in the inter-city tournament, to be held Saturday and Sunday by the City of Cleveland.

SCHOOL CHAMPS MEET TONIGHT

III will be at stake tonight when New Castle meets Butler on the New Castle floor. The two teams are deadlocked for first place with eight victories and one defeat. The contest, originally scheduled last Tuesday, winds up the sectional schedule for both schools. New Castle defeated Butler earlier in the season, 16 to14.

Schenley will strive to clinch the Section I championship of the City Senior League this afternoon when it meets Allderdice on the latter's floor. South plays at Peabody and Connelley at Fifth avenue in the other Section I games.

Allegheny, the Section II champion, entertains Oliver, Allegheny Vocational plays at Carrick and South Hills goes to Perry in the final league games.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 26.—Accounted by competent critics who witnessed last night's game as being the best college basketball team to show here in years, Duquesne University's crackerjack varsity defeated a stubborn West Virginia team, 29-16, recording its fourteenth triumph of the season in 18 starts, and moving on to the final two contests in splendid fashion.

Geneva and Carnegie Tech remain on the Dukes' card, and after those games are out of the way, the Red and Blue will be through, at least, if Coach Chick Davies has anything to say about the matter. Coach Davies is opposed to a post-season charity game between the Dukes and the powerful Westminster five. The Titans, as far as Chick is concerned, can claim all the championships in the world, without rousing Chick. Davies will be satisfied with 16 wins and four defeats.

DUKES SHOW WELL

The Dukes put on a great show here last night before a capacity turnout of 3,000. The basketball teams broke even, the Duke frosh losing their first game after some 40 wins to the Mountaineer frosh, 27-20, the Red and Blue varsity winning and the Bluff boxing team being taken over by the Mountaineer punchers.

The Mountaineers gave the Dukes a right stiff argument up until about midway in the second period, when Duquesne's two sterling guards, Dudey Moore and Marty Reiter, took matters into their own hands and snapped in the field goals that enabled the Dukes to move far out in front.

FIRST FROSH DEFEAT

The defeat of the Duke frosh was the first ever to be suffered by a Duquesne freshman basketball team, which doesn't mean so much when you figure they've only had a yearling squad up on the Bluff for two years. Last night's lineups:

THREE KNOCKOUTS

Burke, Nat Pitcher, Quits Holdouts

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Bob Burke, pitching ace of the Washington Senators, announced at his home here today that he has accepted a one-year contract offered by Owner Clark Griffith. He was a holdout. He would not reveal the terms, but said he got a "substantial increase." He will leave for the club's training camp at Biloxi later today or tomorrow.

Willie Davies, veteran bantamweight boxer, of Charleroi, a former star flyweight contender, goes to the post again tonight against a local youngster striving for recognition. Willie has become a sort of experimental guinea pig for the promoters. Every time they have a young hopeful anywhere near Willie's weight they ask the clever little Welshman to try him out and give them a line on how he measures up for future engagements.

Willie Davies

First Willie was used in this capacity against Jimmy Thomas, the Negro bantamweight, and then he was sent against Mose Butch, the southpaw. He came to grief in the Butch bout when Butch dazed him and cut his mouth so badly with a punch that the bout had to be stopped in the first round. Since then Willie has come back with several good showings, and tonight he'll be in against Jackie Wilson, flashy young Negro, of the East End, who has been punching well in his recent starts. Jackie knocked out Johnny Warner in workmanlike fashion his last time out.

AT KAPPHAN ARENA

Willie and Jackie will do their stuff in the 10-round main bout in the roomy Kapphan Arena, in Addison street, off 2100 Center avenue. Marty McHale, of McKeesport, will box Johnny Cooper, Cincinnati Negro welterweight, in the eight-round semi-final, and Sharkey Lesko, of McKeesport, will oppose Tony Constantino, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, and Andy Kosel, of Turtle Creek, will go against Frankie Consolo, of Swissvale, in the preliminaries, which will get under way at 8:30.

Davies will be interviewed over station WWSW by Announcer Ownes at 6 o'clock this evening.

Between Rounds

It seems the fans who jeered and walked out on the show and the sports writers who wrote about the incident were all wrong on that Tony Herrera Mickey Cochran show at the Gardens last Monday night. Not all of us were all wrong. At least, that's what Ray Arcel, manager of Herrera, says in a letter from Chicago. He says Tony didn't want to fight Mickey again here after leaving him in Kansas City 11 days before, but the club said it would have to be Mickey or no one, and, besides, Tony hurt his right hand in training last Friday, and—But that's enough. Maybe we were wrong. But we don't think so.

Harry Fine, Hill district lightweight, who has been fighting in Detroit in recent months, plans to return home shortly and to bring Johnny Mitchell, a featherweight, here with him.

The 111th Infantry Veterans Association looks for marked honors when it stages the Greater Pittsburgh amateur championship bouts in the Moose Temple, Friday and Saturday nights of next week. The organization has a membership of some 3,000 in Allegheny County. Proceeds will go to its welfare fund. With nine watches offered for the winner and runner-up in each class and a team trophy also put up, a fair entry list is in prospect. The Pittsburgh Lyceum announces it will enter a full team, and other local clubs also are falling in line.

Matchmaker Jules Beck has completed the card for his Jackie Fields-Jimmy Bivins show in Motor Square Garden next Monday night by signing Johnny Hazell, former Pittsburgh lightweight amateur star, making his professional debut against Maurice Brown, of North Braddock, for six rounds the limit. He has Jerry Hart and Lee Ingersoll, welterweights, in his opening bout, and Bobby Cardinal, Mexican, and Pete Maderos, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final. The postponed Benny Ross-Frankie Roberts bout may be the headliner at the Garden the following Monday.

Reed Brown has another boxer under his wing, Hal Finney, Hill district Negro, 147-pounder, who was undefeated in 15 bouts as an amateur. One of his victories was achieved over Charley Crovatto, Uniontown ace.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The lad with marbles struts again—
The Busher.
'Twas only yesterday, it seems,
He saw himself in baseball dreams
The welcome hero in the themes
Of Writers
Whose words rang out in type aglow:
"Another Matty Steals the Show!"
Sweet visions of renown—and dough—
How Cruel!
The Busher hears the crack of doom—
He cannot throw across the room—
Lead Kindly Light.

Now comes the season of the year when the foolish baseball rookie finds it hard to lift his throwing arm—yet, somehow, the pain does not seem to cramp his style in the dining room where nothing on the menu is restricted.

Leo J. (Hap) O'Connor, California's goodwill ambassador, always sees the funny side of a training camp. Hap writes to tell of one of the Pirate rookies who was willing to risk a demi-tasse when it was suggested by the waitress.

"But you can bring me some coffee, too," quoth the unspoiled lad.

The gems from the bush circuits with their unsophisticated nature give a training camp a nice flavor. Some are totally "broke" ere the camp season is half over, but when the club takes to the road on a barnstorming tour, it passes out meal money in generous quantities and the rooks are in green pastures again.

CRISLER SIGNED AS PRINCETON GRID COACH

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP.)—Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director at the University of Minnesota, has signed a contract to become head football coach at Princeton University, it has been announced by Thurston J. Davies, Princeton's supervisor of sports.

Davies said he had just received word from Crisler that he had signed the contract offered him. The document calls for a three-year term at a salary "not in excess of the faculty scale." No definite salary figure was announced, but it was understood Crisler's contract called for a figure of not more than $10,000 a year.

Butch will be going up against some tough propositions, the early entrants including Archie Bell, Eugene Huat, Pete Sanstrel, of Canada, and a flock of others, but the Pittsburgher's friends are confident he will give a creditable account of himself.

Young Stribling

IN THE SAME Chicago arena where Jack Dempsey proved a flop against King Levinsky last week, another heavyweight will attempt a comeback tonight, Young Stribling being scheduled to tangle with Ernie Schaaf for 10 rounds. It will be Stribling's first major contest since his title meeting with Max Schmeling in Cleveland July 3, last year. In the meantime he has stopped Salvatore Ruggirello in two rounds, Fred Fitzsimmons in four, Pat Fay in two and won a 10-round decision over Pietro Corri. In the Corri bout on November 23, one of Stribling's hands was broken and his match with Schaaf was postponed from the original December date until tonight. Chicago has been a lucky spot for Stribling, and twice he has bobbed up with impressive victories after being reported under the handicap of a sore hand. But the fact that he hadn't met a first-class man in eight months would appear to leave him far from being on the proper edge to cope with such a tough customer as Schaaf, and a victory for Ernie tonight looks to be the probable outcome.

SQUASH PLAY ADVANCES

A. Robinson, Allegheny County Club, vs. J. G. Fulton, K. A. C.; Kenny, University Club, vs. J. [illegible] K. A. C.; [illegible] vs. [illegible]; Kennedy, K. A. C., vs. [illegible]; Paul, K. A. C., vs. [illegible]; Paul Hicks, University Club, vs. [illegible]; Hemminger, Keystone; [illegible] vs. [illegible]; Ford Gwinner, University Club, vs. Capt. [illegible]; Mahon, P. A. A.; [illegible] vs. [illegible]; Bahcock, K. A. C., vs. Graham, Mountain View Country Club; [illegible] vs. [illegible]; Golf Club; [illegible] and [illegible], K. A. C., vs. W. C. Kenney, K. A. C.

W. C. King, University Club upset the dope by defeating A. W. Schmidt, K. A. C., 15-8, 15-10 and 15-12, while another surprise was recorded by Raymond L. Babcock, K. A. C., who tripped C. L. Woods, Edgewood Club, 15-10, 15-12 and 15-11.

R. W. Bell, K. A. C., was beaten by F. A. McMahon, P. A. A., by scores of 15-10, 15-9 and 15-11, while N. K. Parker, K. A. C., toppled W. C. Robinson, Allegheny Country Club, in a prolonged tilt, 12-15, 15-13, 15-11, 14-18 and 18-16. G. C. Kennedy, K. A. C., beat Irwin Goodman, Pitt, 15-8, 15-8 and 15-12, while J. S. Miller, K. A. C., bumped a classmate, H. S. Overholt, 15-12, 15-13, 15-18, 15-12.

T. Manos, K. A. C.'s city handball champ, lost to Paul Hicks, University Club, 15-11, 15-13 and 15-8.

COAL CIRCUIT DATES SET

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 26—The Coal, Oil and Iron Racing Circuit has organized for the 1932 season with R. B. Keck, of Clarion, being re-elected president; Roy Bowser, of Ford City, re-elected vice president, and J. N. Heyl, of Butler, secretary.

The circuit will open the week of August 8 at Ford City, Butler the week of August 15, Clarion the week of August 22, Stoneboro Saturday, September 3, and the following Monday, Labor Day, Indiana, September 12, and Dayton and New Castle the week of September 19. Mercer, the eighth member of the circuit, was not represented.

Swimmers Splash At Keystone A. C.

Miss Mae Cutnell, Pittsburgh Olympic possibility, and other stars will compete in a swimming meet for club members in the pool of the Keystone Athletic Club tonight. Pitt freshmen splashers, Coach Jim Taylor, of the club, and children of members also will give exhibitions. The event will get under way at 8:15.

RIECK'S "A" MILK

The FINEST milk in Pittsburgh

reduced to 11¢ a quart

THE richest and finest milk ever offered in Pittsburgh—at the lowest price ever placed on a premium milk in the history of the city. This is the new Rieck's "A" Milk — delivered to you direct from the Rieck Plant in triply-protected bottles.

You will know Rieck's "A" Milk by the new GREEN-Colored Hood Cap — affixed by a welded seal — a device that prevents contamination of the pouring lip of the bottle and safeguards against any tampering of the milk in transit.

Thousands of Pittsburgh families who have enjoyed Rieck's "A" Milk in the past will welcome this still richer and finer milk with its added safeguards and convenience.

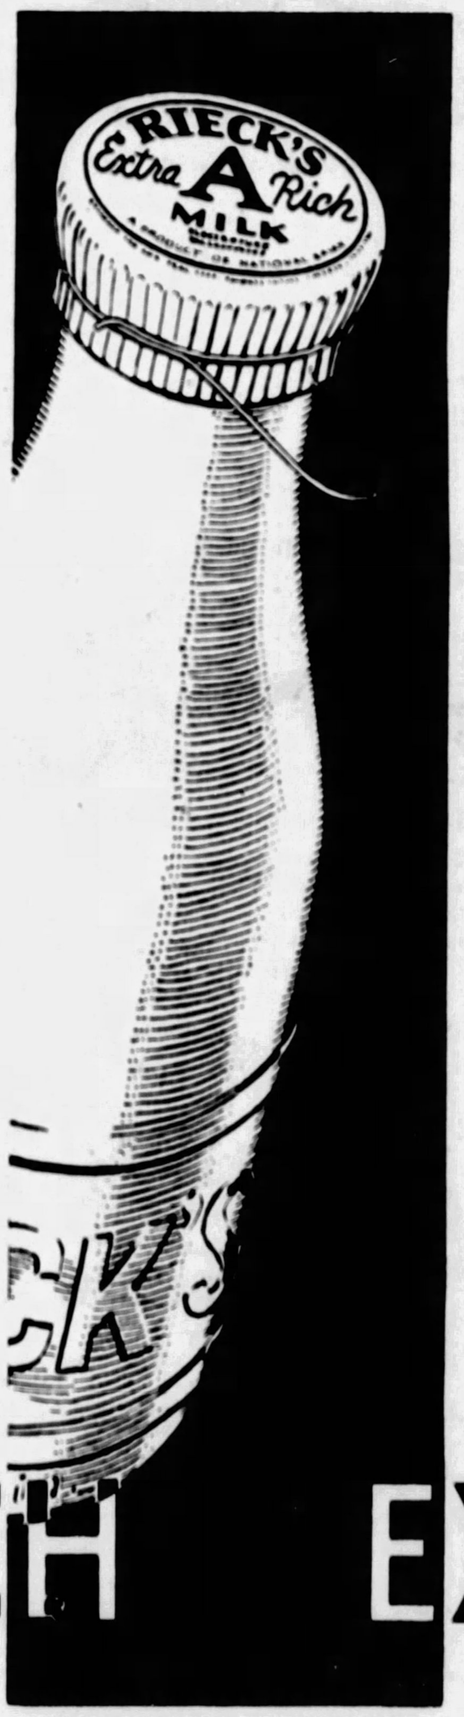
Thousands of other families—at this new low price of 11 cents a quart — will now find it possible to enjoy the benefits of a richer, finer milk than they've ever served before.

Rieck's "A" Milk comes only from selected Rieck farms—from cows chosen from the finest dairy herds. Every bottle of it must meet fixed standards of extra richness and extra purity for which the Rieck farmer is paid a bonus on every quart.

Every step in its progress — from the farm to your table — is watched and guarded by dairy experts. You'll want a regular supply for your family. Order it today by Telephoning Atlantic 7300.

IMPORTANT: There is no change in the price of Rieck's Electropure Pasteurized Milk. Delivered to your home — anywhere in the city — at 9c a Quart.

A PRODUCT OF NATIONAL DAIRY



Protected and identified by the new GREEN Hood Cap

YOU'LL know Rieck's "A" Milk by this new GREEN Hood Cap — affixed by a WELDED SEAL. This cap protects the pouring lip of the bottle and the seal guarantees against tampering. It's easy to open—a slight pull of the wire breaking the seal. No instruments necessary.

IN addition to the GREEN Hood Cap — every bottle of Rieck's "A" Milk has the added protection of an inside PULL CAP. It fits snugly into the top of the bottle and prevents spilling and seeping. Easily removed by the fingers.

American Film Actresses Set Modern Styles In Hairdressing

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.

So contends Ernie Westmore, one of Hollywood's foremost authorities on makeup and head of this department at R. K. O.

Mr. Westmore for instance, believes that many American girls are watching the screen to see whether they should go on with the trying business of letting their hair grow, or whether they should cut it. He looks for the long bob now affected by the film people to be reflected all over the country. In Hollywood, of course, this bob was adopted for practical reasons. An inch above the shoulders, it enables the actress either to tack on hair or to curl up the ends. Though the average woman hasn't the same problem, Westmore believes she will follow the stars.

Greta Garbo

Lila Lee

"Look around you," he said, "and see the imitators of Greta Garbo's straight-back, sophisticated full bob. Miss Garbo and Lily Damita also have been instrumental in bringing back the Parisian bangs. Then there was the platinum blonde epidemic following Jean Harlow. And everybody knows that Clara Bow popularized the wind-blown flapper bob. And if you want to go back farther, it was Gloria Swanson who really started American women to wearing the large wide wave. Hollywood always leads the way."

SOME FREE ADVICE

HERE'S GOSSIP

A little fast shuffling at R. K. O. finds Irving Pichel out as director of the John Barrymore picture, "State's Attorney." Mr. Pichel becomes an actor in the cast, taking Harry Bannister's place, while George Archainbaud steps in to direct. . . . Mildred Davis Lloyd had a birthday this week, and Harold gave her a surprise party. After a quiet dinner at home with the children, he had all the lights turned off in the house. When they snapped on, the room was full of people in black robes and hoods. . . Saw Will Rogers at the Fox restaurant fighting the Sino-Japanese war with forks and spoons for the benefit of Frank Lloyd and Warner Baxter. . . . Glimpsed Lila Lee lunching at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby, also Sally Eilers . . . . W. S. Van Dyke was stopped on the street by a seedy bum with several days' growth of beard. Having use for such a type, Van Dyke told the man to come out to the studio and he would give him two days' work. When the bum showed up, he had a clean shave and a haircut. . . . Football picture or not, Ramon Novarro will sing an Italian love song in "Huddle."

LLOYD STARTS

Harold Lloyd's new comedy, as yet untitled, is slated to start this week at the United Artists studio. Kenneth Thompson has been engaged to play a Hollywood leading man in the film, and Constance Cummings, of course, will be opposite Harold.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

La Tucker's heroics when the Palace playhouse started flaming were duly recorded by the gazettes, and deservedly so . . . Sophie was brave—and while the smoke and fumes and blazes devoured the scenery, she kept her noodle and averted a panic . . . And Mr. Elmer F. Rogers, the custodian of the amusement temple, also kept the casualty list down to zero . . . And the ushers and stage mechanics served the patrons in the medal manner, too.

Well, I've been misled, they would have me believe . . . About that home for working girls, where three square meals and a room are offered at a tiny tariff . . . Now comes a letter, unsigned, from "the girls," arguing that the meals are not fit to eat, etc. . . . I always get letters like that—after trying to applaud those who do noble work for the distressed . . . Unsigned mail is usually wickered by me, and perhaps the girls have just cause for grumbling . . . But until they sign their names to their complaints I will not serve as their counsel . . . More interesting is the letter from the lad at the Walter Reed Hospital at Washington . . . Telling me about Gene Tunney's contributions to a former opponent . . . Gene wrote about the chap in his recent magazine piece . . . But it remained for those who know him well to reveal his kindly nature to the needy . . . And I am told that for many seasons Tunney has been kicking in with a sweet check every week . . . To the one-time ring enemy and war vet, now ailing . . . The legend-spreaders certainly can make you look like a bum . . . But there is some comfort in knowing this—that The Day Eventually Arrives when someone with a typewriter and a pillar in a newspaper can tell the crowd that they've been wasting a lot of time hating you . . . And when that day comes the applause seems all the more deafening.

I must chuck an orchid at the leading lady with the French dialect in a current musical . . . For buying 1,200 packages of cigarets the other day and distributing them among the breadliners in the show district . . . Because she didn't announce it to the papers or even to her press agent . . . Yes, there are a few left in the profession who are not phony that way . . . Well, I have often wondered about the towns I used to play . . . Wondered, that is, if they had changed much since I had been there last . . . One editor told me that there are no more "small towns" and that the traffic is just as congested on the Main Streets as it is on Broadway . . . Salt Lake City is a good town for showfolk . . . I mean it was when I "got by" there in 1926 . . . The only thing about Salt Lake that I didn't like was Provo, a town not very far away . . . Because it was a one-night stand, a jump-breaker, where the train got in at 4 a. m. and you left the town at the same hour the next dawning . . . Another thing, Salt Lake also reminds me of the gal who first made me cry.

That Branch Cabell simile drew too many complaints . . . "Hearts like muffled drums are beating" . . . When Longfellow used it so many decades before the "Jurgen" author arrived . . . And the squawks because I credited another with "Colder than Gandhi in a rumble seat"—instead of crediting Rex Reynolds, formerly the paragrapher on a San Francisco paper . . . But I have another beef about that credit—from a Los Angeles author, who says it was coined by him during a football game there . . . Reynolds, however, sold it to a humor mag in January, and so he will be listed as the parent in Mr. Wilstach's annual collection of Better Similes . . . Those complaints mustn't irk me . . . I've shelved 15 pounds in three months over less important problems . . . What I would like to know is what the sponsors of that new musical show are doing for the wife of Frank DeHaney, who is destitute? . . . DeHaney being the stagehand who was injured in Philadelphia while facing the music for that new production . . . And he is in a hospital there—nearly blind.

It's little things like this that make big paragraphs for me, too. . . . I mean the high-hattitude of that waning star who snubbed that College Dramatic Club in Washington, D. C. . . . The group invited the actress to become one of their exclusive honorary members, and they went to the bother and expense of arranging a party in her honor . . . To which the local prominents had been invited. . . . All this listed to happen during her week's engagement there. . . . And it must have been very embarrassing when she didn't show up or even decline the invitation . . . But the group shouldn't have arranged matters until they had been assured she would be there . . . And so they are stuck with the specially engraved and jeweled pin they had purchased as a gift . . . Of course, the actress has met every one of consequence to her, except, it appears, the mistress of etiquette, Emily Post.

Wonder what George M. Cohan thinks about? . . . I mean when the rest of us on the dais are striving to be clever? . . . His speech the other night at the Friars was grand . . . His salute to Bing Crosby so arrested us all that it seemed as though we had all stopped breathing—rather than risk a sound that would disconcert him and his mellow remarks . . . He Has Such A Way With Him . . . Wonder what his thoughts are when he thinks of how his Broadway has altered? . . . And if he feels that it has decayed? . . . Or improved? . . . Maybe he never bothers . . . They say he hasn't changed much . . . That only his hair has grown more silvery . . . It was among the thrills to be invited to that distinguished board . . . The Friars, indeed, have been more gentle with me than I with them . . . But prodigal as I am, that tolerant organization of fellows has always asked me to sit among them—at their Carnivals and their admit entertainments . . . But when they seated me on the same board with their Abbot, whom they idolize, I rested comfortable for the first time in a spell . . . For I had been condemned and spat upon by one who came down to my level—and the Friars, which represent the nobility of Broadway, has lifted me up out of the resin—and let me share Mr. Cohan's bread and wine.

'Hot-Cha' in Demand

Sale of seats for the second and final week of Ziegfeld's "Hot-Cha," which will begin its second and final week in the Nixon Monday, opened yesterday with a demand that indicated a repetition of the success of the first week. There was a queue at the window throughout the day. Mr. Ziegfeld was again uncertain when asked about the possibility of Lupe Velez appearing in the show in Pittsburgh, but said there was likelihood that she would. Lupe is busy learning the lines of her part, and costumes are being made ready for her appearance in the latest Ziegfeld musical hit.

Girl Takes Poison, Recovers in Hospital

Hattie Bell, 20, a Negro, of 1518 Clark street, was recovering in Passavant Hospital today from the effects of poison swallowed, police said, in her home early yesterday. The girl, police said, took the poison because of her love for her suitor.

Wallflower Heroine In Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Lady With a Past," comedy drama, opened yesterday in the Fulton. Constance Bennett is the star, and this time she gives us a heroine with an inferiority complex.

In substance, the theme is that of a wallflower society girl, who picks up a gigolo in Paris and becomes the belle of the ball. Her name happens to be Venice because her father and mother spent their honeymoon there.

The film, based on a novel by the same name, is rather incredible. For one thing, our heroine is too pretty, too well groomed, too wealthy to be as lonely a maiden as she is depicted in the beginning. For another, you can't turn a shy little girl into a devastating charmer by sly, undertable kicks on the shin, even if Ben Lyon happens to be the kicker.

However, the picture amuses. It gets off to a slow start, with Miss Bennett doing a lot of talking to herself, but it picks up momentum in later reels. Some of the dialogue is the smart, unsophisticated kind. But there is no tinge of secret sinning about the story, as may be inferred from the title. It is wholesome and refreshing.

Miss Bennett expresses a variety of moods and displays a variety of fashionable clothes. Which will interest the women. Mr. Lyon and David Manners do—er, nicely, is the word, in the supporting cast.

George Arliss Stays On Warner Screen

"The Man Who Played God," starring George Arliss, opened a second week in the Warner yesterday. It is the story of a great pianist, stricken deaf, who looks on the world through a pair of field glasses. Local critics acclaimed it upon its premiere.

Theater Safe Looted, Suspect Trapped

Investigating an open door in the Triangle Theater, Frankstown avenue and Broad street early today, two East End patrolmen found Anardi Barnardi, 21, Negro, of 7762 Calloway street, hiding in the auditorium, according to a police report.

The officers said they found the office ransacked and the door of the safe forced open. They also reported they found 24 books of theater tickets in Barnardi's pockets.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Florenz Ziegfeld, Choppy-chat at a "Hot-Cha" rehearsal. Not as young as "I used to be." Need sleep. Will start a dancing school. Most adept pupils will be preferred for Ziegfeld shows. Bobby Connolly, who staged "Hot-Cha," will be in charge. Daughter has no particular ambition to be an actress. Has been on stage with her mother, Miss Billie Burke. Both now in Hollywood. Spends all his money on long distance telephone calls. To Hollywood of course. Seventy or eighty dollars per. Daughter now fifteen. Hopes "Hot-Cha" will do as well next week as this. May send "Follies" to Pacific Coast. Brown & Henderson will write a new "Follies" as soon as "Hot-Cha" ceases to be chief concern. Will be produced in June. In Pittsburgh? Probably. Pittsburgh has been very kind. Brown & Henderson write lyrics and music for everybody. Not for "sophisticates." Close to the ground—and folks. Like "Button Up Your Overcoat." Like "Thank Your Mother." Like "You're the Cream in My Coffee." Will stick in Pittsburgh until the last stick of scenery is down. Five hours to dismantle it. Then special train for all to N. Y. Metropolitan premiere Tuesday, March 6. A complete dress rehearsal Monday, March 7, in the Ziegfeld Theater. "Hot-Cha" permanent title.

STOCK MARKET GAINS AFTER DECLINE

Early Losses Recovered, But Trading Remains Dull; Steel Advances

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP.)—While failing to respond with any vigor to the rediscount rate today, the stock market was more inclined to higher than to lower levels.

The market's sluggish response at the start to the cut in the bank borrowing rate prompted a little selling in the first hour, and some prominent issues sagged a point or so. These losses were quickly recovered, however, as buying appeared in several chemicals, food and specialty issues. The market remained dull, however.

Among issues showing advances of a point or two by early afternoon were Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, National Distillers Products, United States Industrial Alcohol, United Biscuit, Borden, General Baking, American Safety Razor, Gillette, Electric Autolite, Paramount, Loews, Liggett and Myers "B," Safeway Stores, Eastman and Johns Manville. A few preferred issues rose several points in a thin market, notably Adams Express and Gillette. United States Steel and American Telephone sagged in the first hour, then recovered. Utilities Power and Light "A" was a soft spot, losing a couple of points.

The old gossip about war requirements in the Far East was coupled in some brokerage quarters with the rise of chemicals, and about the anti-prohibition movement with the strength of the alcohol stocks. It was notable that National Distillers Products reached a new high for 1932. This gossip was not taken seriously in most quarters, however.

Wall street was keenly interested in the Washington announcement that prominent bear operators might be called before a Senate committee.

Business surveys at the end of the week continued to show little change, although a little brighter note appeared in the mercantile reviews. Bradstreet's saying that reports from 55 leading centers "indicate a slight quickening of general trade from its previous low level." Motor part and accessory manufacturers in Toledo were reported busy on Ford orders. Basic industries generally, however, continued to bump along the bottom.

The lower rediscount rate brought a shading of bankers acceptance and commercial paper rates, as well as higher prices for United States government bonds. Commercial paper was quoted 3½ to 3¾ per cent for prime names, down ¼ of 1 per cent. Call money was unchanged at 2½ per cent officially and 2¼ outside.

LOANS DECLINE $10,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve Member banks in New York City decreased $10,000,000 during the week ended February 24 to $489,030,000. This compares with $493,000,000 in the preceding week, the record low of $456,000,000 on February 10, and the record high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Financial Expert Declares No Solvent Bank Needs To Close Its Doors Now

Evidence can be seen everywhere that destructive deflation has practically spent its force, Merryl S. Rukeyser, Universal writer on finance, declared yesterday.

Mr. Rukeyser was in Pittsburgh on his return from a tour of the country to study business conditions in all sections. He spent the day interviewing outstanding bankers in this city.

DECLINE CHECKED

In speaking of present conditions he said:

"Business has recently stopped going down and, if the widespread recent improvement in sentiment among bankers and businessmen continues, I think that momentum for tangible and substantial trade and employment betterment is being generated."

He declared that business unquestionably is experiencing exhilaration from the stimulant administered from Washington. Economists have long been asking for a weapon of credit expansion with which to fight ruinous deflation and Washington has at last responded.

BANKS CONFERRING

Bankers are conferring about plans to aid in credit expansion, Mr. Rukeyser declared that the banks will become more venturesome because they know that new credit agencies will enable them to meet any predictable demand from stupid hoarders at home or abroad.

In emphasizing the change in the banking situation he said:

"There is no longer any reason for any solvent bank to have to close its doors. The new program goes a long way towards breaking the vicious circle of mutual fears."

ADVANCE MADE BY WHEAT

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Wheat prices averaged higher early today, influenced by reports that Russia had practically stopped exporting wheat, and was shipping grain into famine stricken home districts. There were also advices that Russia had expressed dissatisfaction with Japanese activities relative to Manchuria.

Opening ⅛@¼ off to ¼ up, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼ down and subsequently hardened.

Commission houses were active buyers of wheat futures here, and Liverpool reported demand for wheat abroad well sustained despite large receipts in Great Britain. Bulls contended that strong underlying conditions of the world situation as to wheat had become decidedly more pronounced of late. An almost complete reversal of foreign advices about crop prospects was instanced, and it was asserted that there were striking indications of a constantly improving overseas demand.

MAKES CHANGE PHELPS DODGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Two separate subsidiary corporations, beginning March 21, will conduct the manufacturing business of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, it was announced by President Louis S. Cates.

The name of the corporation's present fabricating subsidiary, the National Electric Products Corporation, will hereafter be the corporate title of the national metal molding division of the organization only. National Products will have its headquarters at Pittsburgh and be under the direction of W. C. Robinson, president. Its plant is at Ambridge, Pa.

A new corporation, named the Phelps Dodge Copper Products Corporation, will take over and operate the other fabricating divisions of the company's business. This corporation will be headed by Wylie Brown as president. Mr. Brown is at present president of the National Electric Products Corporation.

American Republics Control Unchanged

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 26.—The present management of the American Republics Corporation retained control of the $42,000,000 oil and steel holding company at the conclusion of a proxy battle. A group of stockholders headed by Thomas P. Lee, of Houston, Tex., had sought to oust the officials at the annual meeting.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 26.—(INS.)—Defeated in a proxy fight to gain control of the American Republics Corporation, T. P. Lee planned today a new attack to oust the present management headed by C. F. Cullinan, Houston, Tex.

COTTON STEADY AND QUIET

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points on trade and commission house buying, promoted by steady cables. May sold at 7.16.

The demand was supplied, however, and prices eased right after the call with May selling off 7.13, while October declined from 7.55 to 7.48, with the general list ruling about 1 to 3 points net lower at the end of the first half hour.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 26.—Cotton, spot in fair demand; prices 3 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.39; good middling, 5.99; strict middling, 5.89; middling, 5.79; strict low middling, 5.69; low middling, 5.59; strict good ordinary, 5.39; good ordinary, 5.09. Receipts, 21,000 bales, including 18,200 bales American. Futures closed quiet and steady: March, 5.51; May, 5.53; July, 5.54; October, 5.59; December, 5.65; January, 5.67.

Company Advances Window Glass Price

American Window Glass Company has advanced prices on "A" and "B" qualities of window glass in single and double strength an average of 10 per cent. All other qualities of window glass will be discontinued.

This is the first outstanding effort to bring some semblance of order in the window glass industry in several years, American Glass Review says.

Upward Trend on London Exchange

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(INS.)—The London Stock Exchange closed today in an upward trend. British funds reacted slightly to profit taking; Belgian and German "sevens" improved somewhat and industrials and oils rallied slightly. Trans-Atlantics were dull.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XX.

Twice Lily Lou's lips formed the words, but she couldn't quite tell Ken about Peggy. Not while he sat silent, keeping things to himself.

The evening dragged. Ken turned on the radio, switched from one station to another. Turned it off.

She couldn't stand it any longer. She went and stood beside him, and when he looked at her, coldly she thought, as he would at an inquiring stranger, she gave a little stricken cry, and slipping to her knees buried her face in his lap. "I can't bear it," she said in a quiet, choked voice. "I've tried to, but I can't."

She couldn't, or she wouldn't answer. It seemed an eternity before he spoke again. His voice was muffled. "I'm sorry. I've been acting like a donkey. It's because I've been worried, Lily Lou. I didn't want to tell you. I've lost my job."

She held him tighter. Took a sharp, painful breath. "And if you can't tell me, who can you tell?"

Another long, unhappy silence. She could see the other girl again. See her bright, soft hair, her smart little printed silk dress. He could tell her, and he couldn't tell his own wife. . . .

"You don't understand," he said patiently, stroking her hair, trying to force her head back, so that he could see her face. "I—I wanted you to be proud of me." His voice broke. Ended in a strangled squeak.

PAIN VANISHES

Her own pain vanished. She lifted her head, took him in her arms. She ached to comfort him. Her heart was bursting with love, and sympathy for him. She could understand now . . . poor Ken, poor, darling Ken . . . wanting to be a success, for her.

"But I am proud of you. Listen, Ken . . . listen to me! What's a job? I know it wasn't your fault. Tell me . . . was there some trouble?" And before he could answer she rushed on. "It isn't anything to care so much about! There are other jobs, dear. Lots of them—what do we care—"

"Yes, there are other jobs. I'll get one. Don't worry about me."

"I'm not!"

They clung together. . . . Not strangers any more . . . She was almost ashamed of being so happy, when Ken was troubled. . . . But, oh, the relief! What did it matter about the job, about anything, when they had each other? Oh, foolish Ken, to think that she'd care that the job was gone. . . .

"It got me," he was saying. "I'm sorry . . . acting like a baby. It was just so darn disappointing. Here I was thinking I was doing something you could be proud of . . . my ideas about shipping. . . . And then finding out I was just a fool and it was all for nothing. . . . They never intended to use any of my ideas, Lily Lou. Old man Hoyt just took me on to spite dad. And now I'm fired."

"Never mind, honey . . . don't you care . . . you'll find something!"

She comforted him gently. Presently he lifted his head, began to make plans again, to talk of what he could do if he got the chance . . . revolutionize the entire shipping situation south of Panama . . . educate the people to American goods.

Her head went on aching. It ached all night. In the morning he rose, fresh and hopeful, ready to make an early start. "Out to pound the pavements!" he said, laughing.

He ran down the stairs, a well dressed young man, looking prosperous. She watched him from the window. Saw him back the car out of the garage, drive away.

She brushed them away with the back of her hand. Then she turned back to the empty apartment. . . . Went into the kitchen where their coffee cups still were . . . their two chairs . . . the morning disorder. . . .

BLAMES HERSELF

She rushed through the small rooms, like one possessed. Oh, to get away from her thoughts, her gnawing, haunting thoughts . . . Perhaps, if she went for a walk . . .

Instead she flung herself face downward on her unmade bed in the rumpled bedroom, gave herself up to broken, racking sobs. The unaccustomed sobs strangled her, she wept with the pain of the woman unused to tears.

"Oh, Ken . . . Ken . . . what have I done to you?" Ken, who was only a boy, really, who ought to be home in the big house with his people, cut adrift from them, from everything that had meant his life before . . . because she wanted to get married. . . . Yes, she did . . . It was her fault . . . she did it. . . .

It seemed so easy and beautiful then, and now . . . and now . . . and now. . . .

She didn't mean to think of herself . . . It was Ken she minded about most . . . Ken who was out of a job, and maybe still liked Peggy Sage. . . .

But she couldn't help thinking of the mistake she had made too. After all, it hadn't been right to let her family down like that, after all they'd done for her . . . all the struggles. . . .

SHOULD HAVE WAITED

Suppose Ken had to struggle the way dad did . . . to count out the dollars, and the half dollars, and the quarters on the table . . . Maybe he never would find a job . . . Well, she could work . . . her mother worked . . . but that wasn't right . . . to make a nobody out of Ken. . . .

She tried to stop crying. She ought to get up and wash her face, and practice . . . Maybe she could get a church position . . . or get a few pupils . . .

Sing in church . . . when she could have been Tosca, in a poke bonnet, with plumes, and Marguerite, with long yellow braids . . .

Oh, if she'd only waited . . . made her mark first . . . Then Ken's family wouldn't think he had married beneath him . . . that Sage girl wouldn't dare to patronize her, and be sorry for Ken . . .

She lay still now, her head hot, cheeks burning . . . Oh, the shame of it! To have people pity him, because of her. . . . Sharp nails bit into her palms. . . . "I don't care," she whispered. "I don't care—"

After a long time she realized that the door bell had been ringing, that someone was tapping impatiently upon it.

The knocking went on. If it was Ken, why didn't he use his latchkey? But sometimes he forgot it. . . .

She looked at herself in the mirror, turned away in distaste . . . what a mess she was! A hasty drawing of the comb through her hair, patter of a powder puff, straightening of her rumpled dress.

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

The Parrot.

(A short story based on a suggestion by Al Klein.)

JOEL tossed restlessly in his bed. Nervously he wet his lips and passed a trembling hand across his brow. Never in his life had he wanted more to fall into a deep and peaceful slumber. But never in his life would he have less of an opportunity. A strange thing was worrying this man. A parrot.

Yes, a parrot. He was afraid that a certain parrot might talk. Surely such a thing could happen; hadn't he read somewhere of just such a case? Hadn't he once heard a story in which the chattering bird supplied the evidence that finally convicted the criminal? Certainly he had. He remembered now that it had left a deep impression on him at the time.

Well, why should there be any difference in his case? Joel pulled the blanket around his chin and moved closer to the wall. He was a criminal now—a murderer. Less than an hour ago, not five blocks away, he had killed a man.

Through the mass of brick and mortar and flesh and blood, Joel's mind could see the body of Linsky as he had left it. Huddled in a corner with one hand outstretched and those cold eyes staring glassily into nowhere. The green bird completed the picture. That parrot that was chained to its perch in the corner and looked on without making a sound.

Strange that the parrot should have remained completely quiet. It was most unusual. He well remembered how Linsky had praised the bird.

"That's the smartest parrot in the world," were Linsky's very words. "It remembers everything it hears. Amazing, really. Sometimes it will repeat a sentence an hour after hearing it. And sometimes it will not pop out for a month."

Joel tossed again. Why had that bird been so confoundedly quiet while Linsky was being strangled? If it had only been chattering, perhaps there would be nothing now about which to worry. But the facts had to be considered. In the morning, the body would be found. Detectives would swarm all over the place. How did he know what the bird would say?

He remembered the very first words that Linsky had said when he had strolled into the former's room with murder in his heart. The man had been bitterly sarcastic, as usual.

"Well, well, well," he had sneered, "if it isn't my old friend, Joel Hartman. And how is my dear pal, Mr. Joel Hartman, this evening?"

Suppose the bird screeched out those damning words in the morning? If that happened, he knew the result. Within an hour he would be under arrest.

He recalled the first time he had visited Linsky's room in that dilapidated room on East Eighth street. As he sat sipping tea with Linsky and Marcus, that parrot kept talking. The bird's vocal power was amazing—and annoying.

Before he left, Linsky and he had a few words. The man's arrogance had annoyed him terribly. When he stepped into the street he felt as though he were getting away from something unclean. He hated Linsky and abhorred his parrot. . .

Five months ago, he had run across Linsky again. It was at a party given by Marcus, and Joel had brought Gertrude with him. The story was very simple. Gertrude had been introduced to Linsky—and there Joel's romance was ended. He loved Gertrude very dearly. But a smile from Linsky seemed to hypnotize her. From that day on she had avoided Joel completely.

Then—early that evening—as he was leaving that little restaurant on Second avenue, he met Gertrude again. She was worn and sickly and hollow-eyed. Joel's heart sank.

"Gertrude," he had asked, "what is the matter with you? what has happened?"

The girl did not answer. Joel stepped closer to her.

"I still love you dearly," he murmured simply. "I don't care about the past. If you still care a little, we will be married in the morning."

Gertrude's reply had sent a chill through his body.

"Thank you, Joel," she had murmured. "You are sweet and good. Thank you. But it is too late now. Too late."

Joel's fists clenched tightly.

"Linsky?" he had asked.

Without a word, the girl had turned and fled . . .

Joel had gone right to Linsky's home. He had waited two hours for the Russian to arrive. After that opening greeting of sarcasm from Linsky, there had been little said. Joel had commanded Linsky to marry Gertrude. The other man had laughed at him. Joel's fingers closed around the Russian's long, lean throat. He had pressed and pressed. He had murdered Linsky. As simple as all that.

Joel was certain that, aside from the parrot, no other living thing had seen him either come or go. But the parrot was enough. The screech of the bird kept pounding in his ears.

"Well, well, well, if it isn't my old friend, Joel Hartman. And how is my old pal, Mr. Joel Hartman, this evening?"

Surely the bird would repeat those words. Joel stepped from his bed and downed a glass of rye. No effect. Louder and louder grew the screech of the green bird.

"My friend, Joel Hartman. . . . My dear pal, Mr. Joel Hartman. . . . Well, well, well, Mr. Joel Hartman."

He stuffed his ears with cotton and closed the quilt about his head. Still no use. Relentlessly—like a chant of death—it went on.

"Well, well, well, Mr. Joel Hartman . . . My friend, Joel Hartman."

On and on it went in maddening repetition. On and on and on.

With a sudden cry, Joel reached for his clothes. Ten minutes later he was on his way to Linsky's room for the second time that night. He had to kill that bird . . .

* * *

Over at headquarters, they were discussing the case.

"Funniest thing I ever heard about," said one detective. "He must have thought that the body hadn't been discovered yet because he walks in just as nice as you please. He didn't know, of course, that this Gertrude dame, who Linsky musta been keepin', had found the body and notified headquarters.

"Well, Delaney and me are just lookin' around when in walks this Hartman guy. We grab him pronto and it don't take us long to get a complete confession. But here's the kick. What do you think he come back for?"

The first detective laughed loudly.

"He came back to kill a parrot that he thought might tip us off. Imagine that—a parrot. What he didn't know was that the bird had died three months ago, and that Linsky had had it stuffed!" . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Among the novelties at last Saturday's meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club were contests with awards for the best colonial costumes. This was a part of the Washington's birthday celebrations.

Some of the most elaborate costumes were worn by members of South Hills Chapter. The prizes, awarded by popular vote, went to John and Rosemary Gnaedinger, as George and Martha Washington, Virginia Ruth Elton and DeVera Cohen.

On the program were Louise Foley, Marjorie Kraber, Kenneth Coffer, Rosemary Rago, Margaret Mickey and Jean Foster. One of the outstanding features were a ballet number, in costume, presented by Geraldine Draper.

GRAND (GREENSBURG)

Another big meeting was held at the Grand Theater, Greensburg. Grand Chapter is one of the best singing groups in the club. Every Saturday morning considerable time is given over to chorus singing. The song slides are accompanied by Anthony Weaver on his accordion.

Every child at the meeting received a gift. The boys, marbles and the girls, jacks. This being the season of the year when marbles and jacks are popular, plans were made to hold contests in the games.

New officers were elected in many chapters Saturday. In each chapter there is a Grand Jester (a boy or a girl), and a board of governors consisting of three boys and three girls. Each set of officers serves for four weeks. Their duties are to assist the manager of the theater, in which their chapter meets, in arranging programs, procuring talent, suggesting ways and means of bettering the club.

Manager Montague, of the new Carnegie Chapter, promises that tomorrow's meeting will furnish plenty of excitement for the youngsters. Among other things there will be a 10-piece orchestra that he has organized among the members, and four specialty acts. The artists appearing have all been recruited from the new Carnegie Chapter.

CHARLIE the Chump stood outside of Lindy's restaurant. Now Charlie the Chump is a gold hoarder, and practically all of his front teeth proclaim it because when Charlie the Chump stands outside of Lindy's restaurant Charlie the Chump fights a duel with himself and chooses a toothpick as a weapon. Furthermore, Charlie the Chump is a snatcher and prefers the kidnaping dodge somewhat more than somewhat.

"Hello, umpchay!" pipes Danny the Dude, as he barges up to C. the C. "How about snatching Mrs. McGillicuddy's husband?"

"MRS. McGillicuddy, we have your old man locked up in a swell hotel room," says Charlie the Umpchay. "But we'll send him back to you, and we won't even toast his tootsies, if you'll put a dozen fresh eggs in a bag and drop around some Satiddy night."

"You say you have my husband locked in a 'otel room?" cackles Mrs. McGillicuddy.

"Eyes," replies C. the C.

"Well," whispers Mrs. McG., "if you'll just toss the key down an open manhole, I'll give you two dozen eggs and throw in a brand new Plymouth Rock setting hen to boot."

An Unsatisfactory Offer

The Rate Reductions Proposed by the Philadelphia Company Utilities Are Not Large Enough.

After raising high expectations by the conciliatory attitude he displayed in his first conference with Council, President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company group of public utilities, offered yesterday to reduce the electric light rate one cent a kilowatt hour in the first bracket for domestic consumers, which would mean a saving of 10 cents a month for a large share of the users, and offered to sell five bus tickets for $1.

Charles P. Lang, assistant city solicitor in charge of public utilities matters, said he would be satisfied with the proposed cuts, but it is safe to say the public will not be.

Lang has not been noted for his zeal to protect the people of Pittsburgh from unfair rates. He made no move to protest against the proposed increase in taxicab fares several years ago until the Sun-Telegraph called his attention to it; and again in the present situation it was the Sun-Telegraph and not Lang who took the initiative in demanding better treatment for the people.

The reductions offered by President Phillips are not large enough. During the recent Welfare Fund and Emergency Association drive, conducted under Mr. Phillips' leadership, some very wealthy Pittsburghers contributed under pressure some disproportionately small gifts. If Mr. Phillips will think of the resentment aroused then, he will get some idea how his proposed rate reductions will be regarded.

Take his offer to reduce the bus fare from 25 to 20 cents. In most of the large cities a bus ride costs only 10 cents, and that is all it would cost here if the Public Service Commission would allow other companies to operate in competition with Mr. Phillips' Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company. There is no excuse for making the people pay 25 cents or 20 cents for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. They are entitled to a 10-cent fare.

It is evidently futile to look to the Philadelphia Company utilities for fair rates, much less for generous treatment.

It is perhaps not advisable on account of the attitude shown by the Public Service Commission to institute legal proceedings to force a reduction in rates, but the campaign of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association for remedial legislation should certainly proceed.

Roofs for the Homeless

The Plight of Many Unemployed Men Raises a Question As to Their Women and Children.

Ray Hoffman, who distributes backsheesh at his parking lot on Duquesne way every morning to a mob of destitute men, said yesterday that the city should take care of these unfortunates, and suggested that the Exposition Music Hall would provide shelter for 4,000.

The Helping Hand and other welfare organizations stand ready to furnish homeless men with roofs. The desirability of opening the Exposition to them is therefore not obvious.

Hundreds of men are living in "jungles" and "shanty-towns" and hoboes' camps in and around Pittsburgh. We suspect they live in these places from choice rather than necessity.

If the inhabitants of these "jungles" are not mere drifters, but are in normal times steady workers, many of them presumably have families depending upon them. What has become of their women and children? They are not living in the camps, so supposedly they must be dwelling under more conventional roofs. Which raises the question, why are their husbands and fathers not with them?

The answer probably is that the "jungles" dwellers are in part at least men who have deserted their families and taken up the life of a hobo or beggar. Many no doubt have drifted to Pittsburgh from elsewhere in search of a job.

They constitute a social problem; for there is danger that those who were driven to their present method of living by the loss of jobs will become permanently unsettled in their ways.

Up to Supreme Court

The Promptness With Which Relief Can Be Obtained Through Talbot Act Depends on Highest Tribunal.

The Talbot act appropriating $10,000,000 for the relief of Pennsylvania's poor people has now reached the Supreme Court. Attorney General William A. Schnader has appealed to the highest tribunal from the decision of the Dauphin County Court upholding the validity of the appropriation, which Schnader believes to be unconstitutional.

In the ordinary course of affairs many months would elapse before the Supreme Court's decision could be expected. Happily there is a prospect that a comparatively early ruling can be had. Normally the case would be argued before the court in Philadelphia in May, but it is announced that the hearing will be held in Pittsburgh on March 11—two weeks from today.

It is to be hoped that the court will find its way clear to expedite its decision, because, if it should be favorable and the money should be made available for distribution, it is important that it be disbursed now rather than in the summer, when the need will not be so acute.

Decline in Fire Loss

While the Improvement Is Gratifying, There Is Plenty of Room for Further Improvement.

While last year was a conspicuously bad one, in respect to fires, because of the conflagration which destroyed the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, with loss of 50 lives and property damage of $101,000, the total property loss from fires in Pittsburgh was about $46,786 under that for 1930. The figures are taken from the annual report of Fire Chief R. L. Smith.

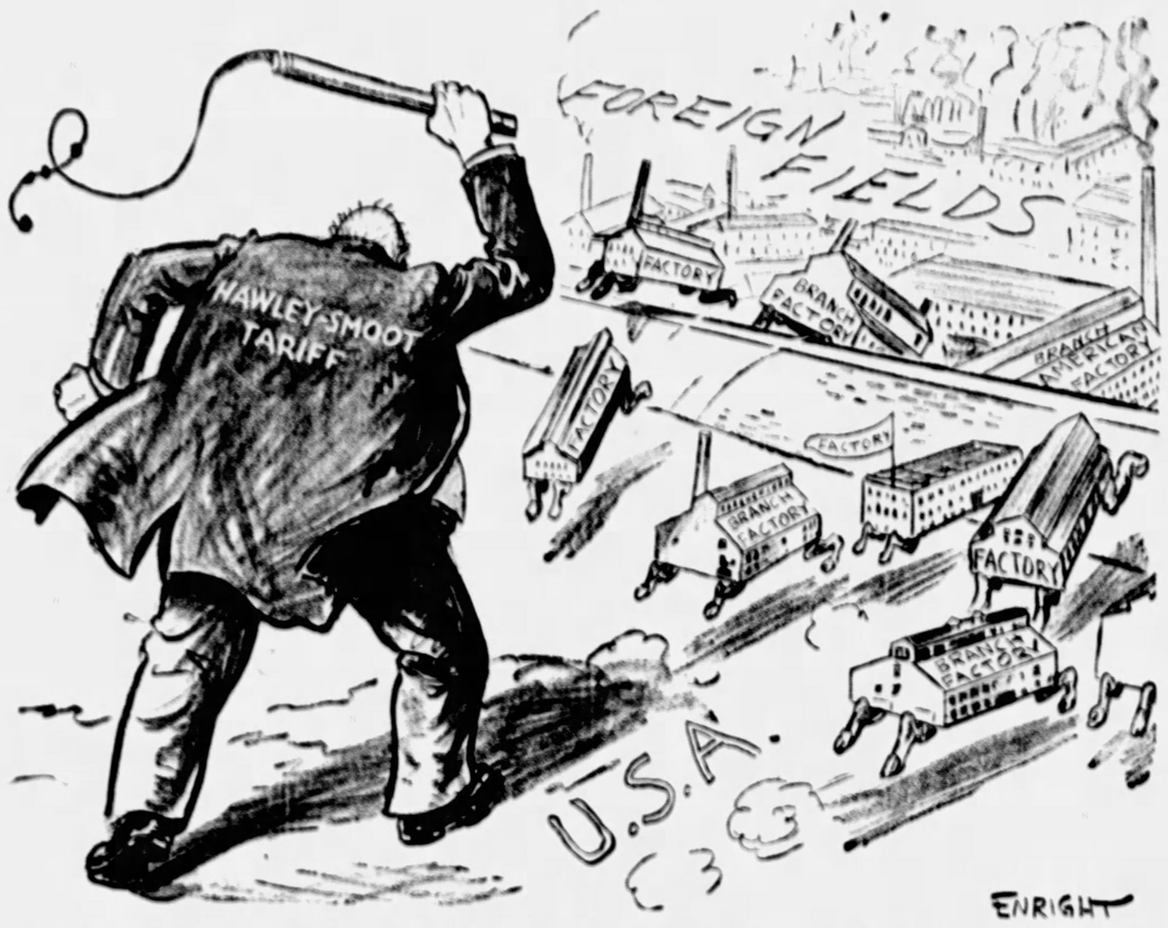
The improvement is gratifying; but the reader of the report cannot fail to be impressed with the room for further improvement.

Chief Smith calls attention to one way after another in which these terrible losses of life and property could be avoided. It is shocking to learn that incendiaries were responsible for not a little of the damage, including the destruction of the well known excursion steamer Homer Smith. Carelessness was responsible for many of the other fires.

The depressing record emphasizes anew the necessity for a continuous campaign of education to induce people to fire proof their property and take other precautions.

Driving Them Out

(Copyright, 1932.)



Until the Hawley-Smoot Tariff definitely turned Canada against American merchandise our manufacturers enjoyed a profitable commercial intercourse with our neighbors of the North. And when our industries prospered, American labor, American merchants, all classes benefited.

But the iniquitous Hawley-Smoot act tried to make the Canada-U. S. international boundary a one-way street for American goods by putting prohibitive duties on Canadian imports, souring the Canadian customers on American products, and inducing the enactment at Ottawa of a retaliatory tariff.

Our factories go to Canada to gain the freer markets denied them by the Hawley-Smoot-Grundy act. When they cross the border, millions of capital go with them, and that means WORK AND WAGES FOR CANADIANS, while American labor walks the streets looking for a job.

Marry-Go-Round

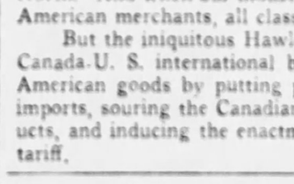
Warmed-Over Marriages

Why does the world hold up its hands (and laugh behind them) whenever a screen actress invites her ex-husband to lunch? Or when a society woman has been seen dining with the man she divorced last spring?

* * *

It appears to be more scandalous to be caught chatting with your "used" husband, than driving a "used" car, these days. Yet, why cannot a woman enjoy a lamb chop and French-fried potatoes with a man, with whom she would not care to spend her whole life?



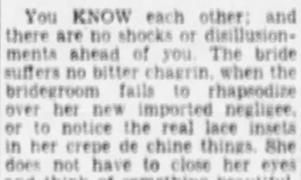
But, that's the catch! You simply can't trust these ex-husbands and ex-wives together. There's too much re-marrying going on all about. Let a couple of people, who have gotten up in court and called each other all sorts of terrible names, get alone together at a lunch-table—and the first thing you know, they are off to Bermuda on a second honeymoon.

* * *

There must be something positively fascinating about a second honeymoon—with the same man! Or the same woman! Far more restful and less disappointing than the first honeymoon!

* * *

No guadily stared wedding, no chattering bridesmaids, practical jokers, weeping mothers, florists, caterers or trousseau fittings. You just pick up a toothbrush, a week-end bag and a pair of comfy mules and step casually off on the spur of the moment, alone together, and agree what fools you were ever to part.



You KNOW each other; and there are no shocks or disillusionments ahead of you. The bride suffers no bitter chagrin, when the bridegroom fails to rhapsodize over her new imported negligee, or to notice the real lace insets in her crepe de chine things. She does not have to close her eyes and think of something beautiful, when she sees him without a collar, padding around in his bare feet.

* * *

She has no notions about "reforming a man." She knows it can't be done. And most of her tender sensibilities and so . spots have become comfortably calloused, so that she can devote herself to something besides introspection and "feeling sorry for herself."

* * *

Also, most of a man's ideas about "making over a wife" have been revised, and his expectations of feminine perfection and wifely submission have completely evaporated. He is completely "humanized."

* * *

So, when I read of these famous ex-wives and ex-husbands meeting on the sly, it gives me a vicarious thrill. Because I suspect that they are facing a second honeymoon. Which can be far sweeter and more glamorous than a first honeymoon. For then, at least, you know your heart and know each OTHER—and lov. is no guessing-game or long shot.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing stirs me like soldiers marching to war to a rousing band. Marlene Deitrich and Gilda Gray bear a resemblance. Geraldine Farrar lovelier than ever with iron gray hair. No dog can be so pully or curl up so cuddly as a Boston.

Harry Tierney, a Perth Amboy, N. J., boy, who made good in the city. The Ritz starter who is a double for Oscar Shaw. Why doesn't the navy let sailors tell time the regular way? One-word description of Ring Lardner—startled. Baron Wrangel, who has become a society editor. And looks like Clifton Webb.

Everyone visiting Paris tells of a night on the loose with Ernest Hemingway. They're like four-flushers "like that" with Jimmy Walker. Eddie Foy, Jr., looks more and more like his dad. Those enormous motor cars purring with suppressed desire. Who remembers Morett's 50-cent dinners, vin compris?

The mute Marx brother is said to be a chatterbox in real life. That speakeasy impresario who sports a light gray suit and a deep purple tie. Another of my favorite people—Hamish McLaurin. Dick Berlin is always on the verge of a chuckle. And we need chucklers these days. Beryl Wallace.

Dr. John Finley, the city's greatest walker. What I could do to a hatful of Philadelphia's well-spiced scrapple! Ted Saucier, of the Waldorf, has the blackest hair in town. The frightful desolation among skyscrapers. There's a theme for a robust poet—Deserted Towers.

The mock piety surrounding Peter Arno. Nothing luxuriates so much despair as a last night's orchid. The site of the old Normandie. Lillian Shade and Ethel Merman not only sing alike, they have the same gestures. That benign, glassy stillness of West Thirty-fourth street in the clutch of night.

Arthur William Brown and Rube Goldberg rushing somewhere. O, for a banana skin! De Quincey must have had fun writing his stuff. Life's Harry Evans is one of the town's best raconteurs. And have you seen Billy Gaxton do that superb mimicry of Mayor Walker and Sid Solomon at that corner Casino table?

* * *

Table talk turned to Edna St. Vincent Millay. "Her pen," cooed an admirer, "is a feather." Another added: "A feather wafted by zephyrs." It was too swift for me so I bore down heavily on the gravy sopping.

* * *

The indignant whorl of wind twirling around the Flatiron corner plays queer pranks on metropolitan innocents. It once lifted Raymond Hitchcock's hat upward five stories and sucked it into a window. The other morning it spiraled a lady's umbrella skyward, then miraculously closed and dropped it plummet-like at her feet. She re-opened it and went blithely on. Fun in the city!

* * *

Variety, a news association and several syndicated releases recently chronicled that severe "mike fright" kept me from 13 broadcasts at $1,500 a throw. They are only partially correct. The offers have topped that sum by large margins. I have heard many writers flop on the air, yet the microphone offers no morbid anxiety whatever for me. I am just determined that when my time comes to flop I'm going to flop in a big way. Toss your radio out the window now.

* * *

* * *

Squire Mauck, a home-town editor, tells of a city motorist demanding the way along a country road of a mossback. The latter thought a moment and said: "Drive to the left a half mile, no, I expect you'd better keep on straight until you come to the first lane." The motorist snapped: "You don't seem to know much about directions"—and started on. The greenhorn called after him: "Well, I ain't lost."

* * *

From S. P.: "You were born simple and don't try to outwit Nature. Those $80 words, for instance, such as charioteer for chauffeur. I doubt you know the meaning of chariot."

Don't be ridic! Chariot begins at home.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Yes, you've guessed it. They have decided that one of their number ISN'T. Why?

Because the big roughneck won't take off his hat when there is a lady in the elevator; won't give up his seat to a lady in the street car, and constantly commits other misdemeanors of a like, ungallant nature. Therefore, say the girls, he ISN'T a gentleman.

But the young man persists that they are all wrong. Such gestures, he protests, are not the test of gentleness. Maybe they were the whipped-cream-dressing once, but they're not necessary now. And won't I tell the girl friend they aren't?

So there you have the makings of a very tidy row. When is, and when ISN'T, a gentleman? And is a lady gentleman the same breed of cat as a gentleman of the old school?

Obviously he isn't. But that does not necessarily mean that the prize bottle of hair-oil should go to the chivalrous Charlies of yester-year. Granted, their manners were lovely. But I doubt me much if their motives were sincere!

Consider this little matter of taking off one's hat to a lady. How did it start? Very prettily. The assumption was that, the lady being of finer clay, she should be treated with reverence.

Beautiful idea! But did the boys really mean it? Did they honestly believe that females were of finer clay, diviner essence? They did not. They most certainly did not. They actually believed that mentally women were on a par with pigs, and morally as untrustworthy as vixens.

You don't believe it? Look at the poems they wrote about women! At the jousts they fought in honor of women! Yes, indeedy. The boys put on a good act. But poems are delightfully easy to write, and who wouldn't rather fight a joust than do a regular day's work?

No; the concrete evidence of the male attitude toward the female lies not in the gesture he made, but in the laws he wrote concerning her. There, in the statutes, you will find the lowdown. And it is some lowdown.

Consider Maryland - my - Maryland. Was there ever a state that boasted more of her chivalry than Maryland? Were ever gents more gentlemanly than on her rose-embowered acres? Never!

Yet, while insisting that a gentleman do everything but turn a back-somersault at the sight of a lady, this state also granted him the right to beat her with a stick, provided it be "no thicker through than his thumb"; and though it made a gallant hullabaloo against divorce, it also ruled that a husband might support his mistress under the same roof with the wife, and his missis couldn't do a thing about it.

Then, if that is the way men really felt about women, why all the beautiful manners? Because they were part of the racket—a social anaesthetic, as it were, which so dazzled the lady that she ceased to fuss about her real condition.

Men put women on pedestals—yes. But they didn't do it to worship them. They did so because they wanted to keep them out of the way while they (the man) got by with murder.

Such were the gentlemen of grandpa's day. And yet thousands of idiot females are still making a fuss because they've passed out of the picture!

What is a gentleman? What is a lady? They are both human beings, neither more nor less, and they should act with all the kindness and common sense of which the human race is capable.

There is no more reason why a man should take off his hat to a woman than there is why a woman should take off her hat to a man. Women are of no finer clay than men, no more sensitive or helpless. They are just regular guys, and should be treated as such.

Isn't It So?

There's a difference between a crank and an eccentric. The former is a nuisance; the latter has money.

Shanghai Proves Anew It's Men Who Count

By BRIG. GEN. HENRY J. REILLY, O. R. C.

IT is time we stopped fooling ourselves with the daily increasing belief that machines can replace men in war. In other words, that the manhood of a nation can dodge fighting by sending in their place many machines.

The stubborn resistance put up by the Chinese at Woosung and Shanghai under Japanese airplane bombing and naval gun shelling surprised the non-military world. This because the marvelous increase in the destructive power of man's war machines has led the majority to believe that these machines, rather than men themselves, are the primary necessities to win victory.

The fact that the Japanese have gotten as reinforcements, not a tremendous increase in machines, but in infantry soldiers, should convince the most skeptical. All the more so as what is happening is ONLY A REPETITION OF WHAT HAPPENED DURING THE GREAT WAR.

EVERY battle of consequence in that war demonstrated this same truth. Again and again infantry survived terrific poundings by artillery and remained strong enough to offer the most stubborn and often successful resistance to the infantry of the other side.

Surprise attacks by tanks and gas, particularly when first used, though opening the way, failed of any great result whenever the infantry on the same side was insufficiently strong to follow and drive out the enemy's infantry.

While airplane bombing has tremendously increased in accuracy of fire and damage done since the days of the Great War, army aviators know it still cannot begin to approach artillery fire, either in its intensity or accuracy.

Gen. Summerall's attack in the Argonne with our 2nd and 89th Infantry Divisions, November 1, 1918, illustrated the tremendous power of artillery, not yet anywhere near approached by aviation. In the 10 hours of this attack the artillery supporting these two divisions fired approximately 2,500 tons of artillery projectiles. In weight this was five times as much as all the artillery and infantry ammunition fired by both the Union and Confederate armies in the three days of Gettysburg.

Despite the fact that it was evenly distributed in a barrage 800 yards deep, covering the front of these two divisions and moving forward at the same rate, there was sufficient German infantry left to offer resistance to our infantry as it advanced.

THAT naval guns should fail against land fortifications is also in accordance with the lessons of the Great War. The British and French throughout the war shelled with navy guns and bombed with airplanes the German positions along the Belgian coast.

However, just like the Japanese at Woosung and Shanghai, THEY FAILED IN THEIR OBJECT—the dislodging of the enemy by fire alone.

A ship at sea, a large gun, a tank on land, an airplane in the sky, all are plainly visible targets. One or more shells which hit can do tremendous, if not decisive, damage.

TO help the infantry win victory with the minimum loss a nation must provide itself with large numbers of the latest war machines—artillery, tanks and airplanes.

But it must always remember that when the day comes that it believes these machines can be substituted for infantry, made up of millions of its male citizens, THAT DAY IT FACES DEFEAT BY SOME NATION WHOSE MANHOOD STILL WILL FIGHT.

Representative Collins, of Mississippi, is reported to have given as his reason for the proposed drastic cuts in our Army, now before his committee, his belief that the day has come when war machines can supplant men.

SHANGHAI VIVIDLY PROVES HIM WRONG.

Every American should write his Congressman and demand that our Army be GIVEN THE MEANS to put both the latest and best war machines and our man power in battle whenever we are unfortunate enough to have war.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

What are you doing, Mr. Golfer, for exercise during the winter season?

Housing yourself up till spring and the golf season begins?

When you ride in the car you want it well heated, and there being no incentive to follow a little ball you won't walk if you can help it.

Even in the car you keep the windows closed and then complain that you are "not feeling just right" and go home and sleep in a closed room.

Then, feeling sleepy and dull, you resort to medicine to help you when all you need is a brisk walk, plenty of fresh air and some green vegetables.

Don't just loaf around heated houses or offices because you feel so dumpy and tired all the time.

That tired feeling is probably due to impurities in the system that should be worked off by exercise, and eating the right kind of food.
